ANNA RODGERS

Miss Rodgers, 19, 5366 Rosetta street, with three men arrested after the death of a divorcee in a police-described drinking party, discharged after the autopsy revealed suffocation on a piece of orange. The four now face police charges of visiting a disorderly house.

DIVORCEE DIES AT RUM PARTY

A 33-year-old divorcee was dead today because, at the height of a drinking party, she choked on a piece or orange, according to city detectives.

Mrs. Loretta Hisker, 5815 Ellsworth avenue, died in the home of George A. Rhodes, at 300 South Negley avenue, while police were trying to revive her with an inhalator.

A 19-year-old girl and three men who attended the party were discharged in Morals Court today after an autopsy showed the death was accidental, but they were to face charges in East End Police Court. Rhodes was charged with keeping a disorderly house, and the others—Anna Rodgers, Rosetta street; Kenneth L. Liebegott, 24, of Collins avenue; Joseph Boyd, 21, of Breesport street—were charged with visiting a disorderly house.

A charge of keeping a disorderly house also was placed against Siro Antonucci, of Carver street. Police arrested him after questioning witnesses concerning wine found at Rhodes' home.

The police said they found a 5-gallon jug of wine at Antonucci's.

Mrs. Hisker, mother of a 5-year-old boy, roomed at the Ellsworth avenue address. Her home was in Latrobe. She was a waitress downtown.

Missing Ex-teacher, 73, Found Frozen

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Missing since Friday night, Miss Mabelle Hutchins, 73, a former high school teacher, was found frozen to death yesterday near Lawrence Park. Firemen, asked to aid in the search for her found her body. Position is believed to have become exposed after wandering aimlessly many hours.

Garage Station Blaze Put Out Quickly

Firemen of No. 8 Engine Company strolled downstairs today and put out a fire. It was rubbish burning in the basement of No. 6 Police Station, which is also occupied by the fire company. Fire Chief Fred S. Beckett discovered the blaze.

AUDIT BARES CITY LOANS ON 'I.O.U.'S'

Inquiry Shows Public Funds Loaned Without Security During Schooley Regime

Thousands of dollars of city funds were lent without security to individuals and firms by former City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, under indictment on embezzlement charges, according to the auditors' report, Controller James P. Kerr disclosed today.

Most of this money, borrowed by putting an "I. O. U." in the treasurer's vaults, was later repaid.

Numerous other alleged irregularities were bared in the auditors' findings, among them that only one of the depositories holding delinquent tax funds paid the required rate of interest, 2.75 per cent; failure to advertise delinquent taxes as required by law; entire omission of water rent delinquents in advertised lists as well as of "certain favored persons;" destruction of bank statements and other records.

HOCKEY CLUB LOAN

Schooley himself borrowed $16,500 from January 1, 1930, to October 10, 1931, when he was discharged by Mayor Charles H. Kline, it was shown. All of it was paid back.

The Pittsburgh Hockey Club, of which Schooley was the principal owner, took $1,860 out of the treasury, all of which was returned.

The practice was illegal, Controller Kerr declared, but had been going on for years and long before Schooley took office.

LISTED AS BORROWERS

A list of those thus receiving mone from the treasury under Schooley's administration during the time mentioned included:

Louis Becker, $1,200, all paid back; Balch Flayer Company, $2,487, of which $445 was still

YOUNG ALLEN NERVOUS AS TRIAL OPENS

Shows Grief Over Sister's Failure to Join Defense; Enters 'Not Guilty' Plea

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—The trial of Edward H. B. Allen for the murder of Francis A. Donaldson III, got under way today when the boy pleaded not guilty and selection of the jury began.

Downstairs, hidden in the office of the commonwealth's attorney, Rose Allen, the sister for whom he is said to have committed his crime, paced up and down, still searching her heart for a decision as to her course.

Upon her testimony hangs the life of her 23-year-old brother. If she chooses, she can help him build up a defense under the unwritten law of avenging a sister's honor.

Or by her silence she can hurt his case irreparably.

The boy's strained countenance bore mute evidence today of his grief at his sister's lack of assured loyalty in this hour of his need.

YOUTH UNNERVED

Eddie had been brought over from the jail almost an hour before the falling gavel put the battle for his life under way. He was brought into the crowded courtroom just as the clock in the tower clanged 11; he nodded to his attorneys and sat down, swallowing convulsively.

During the formal arraignment he stood beside his counsel, dark eyes fixed tensely on the court stenographer who read the charge in a cracked voice enunciating all the sibilants strongly. He was asked:

"How do you plead?"

"Not guilty!"

"How do you wish to be tried?"

"By God and my country."

Allen made his replies in that childish voice which contrasted strikingly with the mature and aged voices in the courtroom.

SISTER ON HAND

Rose Allen arrived promptly at 10 o'clock, wearing the same swagger-cut black coat she has worn at every public appearance since last November, although the bitter wind today made her shiver beneath its furless fragility.

She walked determinedly down the long corridor to the District Attorney's office, her face half-hidden beneath a black sports hat that shadowed her brow as she bent her head. She wore no powder or rouge, but her mouth was bright with lipstick as she hurried into the counsel room, where she planned to stay until the jury had been selected.

JUDGE THOMSON STRICKEN

Federal Judge W. H. Seward Thomson, who is 75 years old, collapsed today outside the Federal Building, a victim of acute indigestion.

Judge Thomson

Judge Thomson was returning alone from lunch when, in Fourth avenue just above Smithfield street, he slumped to the sidewalk.

C. C. Gregg, court bailiff, carried the judge to his chambers on the third floor of the Federal Building.

Dr. L. W. Swope, who treated him for almost an hour, said the jurist was still suffering pain, but that it could not yet be determined whether his condition was serious.

The jurist was taken to his home in Aylesboro avenue, Squirrel Hill, in an ambulance.

Judge Thomson, on the Federal bench 17 years, retired from active service in 1927 as senior judge of this Federal District. Since then he has tried few cases, but has appeared regularly in his chambers.

Senator Johnson In Bed With Cold

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), California, today was confined to his home by physicians' orders because of a cold. Members of his office staff said there was nothing over which to become alarmed.

Cox, Jackets' Goalie May Not Play Again

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—Abbie Cox, brilliant little goalie of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, of the International Hockey League, probably never will play hockey again.

At the Providence Hospital here, where Cox was rushed after sustaining a severe injury in the Pittsburgh-Detroit game here last night, attending physicians today said that Cox appeared to have a fractured pelvis and a badly wrenched back.

MERCURY RISE, RAIN FORECAST

The severest cold spell of an unusually mild winter dropped the mercury to 13 early today, intensifying suffering among the poor and damaging vegetation that had sprouted during the long January "springtime."

Tonight will be not quite so cold. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted, the low mark probably around 20, while tomorrow, Groundhog Day, will find the temperatures rising, accompanied by snow or rain.

Yesterday's minimum was 14. A high wind swept the district increasing the sting of the cold.

Supplementing the predictions of Brer Groundhog at Punxsutawney, tomorrow will be the activities of a pet groundhog of Miss Rita Kreuer, daughter of Joseph Kreuer, 505 Larimer avenue. The animal will be exhibited tomorrow in the window of the Twenty-first Ward Building association, at the Lari[illegible] address.

Dog Rescuer Of 9 Saves Another

"Brownie," the police dog that saved the lives of nine persons in a recent fire at the home of Joseph Perhacs, 230 North Elizabeth street, added another rescue to his record today. Early this morning "Brownie" led his master to Daniel Toomey, 19, lying on the next door porch, unconscious from cold. The youth was reported resting at Homeopathic Hospital late this afternoon.

Mrs. Perhacs said that she and her husband were awakened at 3 o'clock this morning by the dog's whining. When the front door of the house wos opened he led them to the youth.

Mrs. Perhacs described the discovery:

"Brownie yelped something awful. Then he ran directly to the [illegible]ch at 232 North Elizabeth [illegible]reet and would not come [illegible]our call. He kept barking [illegible]n we saw what he was [illegible]."

TECH CO-ED, 60, KILLED BY CAR

A 60-year-old woman who was a student at Carnegie Tech was killed today when struck by a street car at Forbes and Craig streets.

She was Mrs. Lina McKain, of 419 South Winebiddle avenue. She was on her way to Tech for a class in rug-making when struck, according to her son-in-law, Louis Sutton, who identified her body at the morgue.

The car operator, Robert Anderson, posted bond with the Coroner.

Japanese Shoot Boy For Throwing Stick

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—United States Marines reported tonight that a carload of Japanese civilians had shot a 13-year-old Chinese boy in the Italian defense zone, close to the boundary of the American area.

It was explained the boy threw a stick at the car, prompting the Japanese to open fire.

3 POWERS WARN TOKIO; PANIC REIGNS DURING BOMBARDMENT

BULLETIN

NANKING, Feb. 2.—(Tuesday.)—(AP.)—Thousands of terrified Chinese were thrown into a panic early this morning by the roar of guns from Japanese warships firing on the Lion Hill forts, five miles from the city.

The first thing to go was the power plant, and the city was plunged into darkness.

Immediately searchlights probed the dark from the army air field, searching the skies for Japanese airplanes.

The firing came from the cruisers Tsushima and Tenru and the destroyer Hazu. It began about 11:30 at night and continued until 1:30 this moring.

The Japanese gunners scored several direct hits on the forts.

International News Service.

Japanese warships shelled the city of Nanking, former capital of the Chinese republic, from 11 p. m. Monday until 1:40 a. m. Tuesday, Nanking time.

The firing ceased abruptly after Chinese forts along the bank of the Yangtze vigorously returned the bombardment.

At Shanghai, one of Japan's destroyers sprayed the plant of the American-owner Texaco Oil Company with machine-gun fire.

The American government is prepared to evacuate 5,000 United States citizens from the danger zone.

The United States has ordered 1,400 Regular Army troops and Marines, and the Asiatic fleet, stationed at Manila, to Shanghai. Three of the fleet's craft are under way and four additional American destroyers already have taken positions in the Yangtse River after a two-day run from the Philippine Islands.

Washington again protested against Japan's military activities in China and Great Britain joined in the objection.

Fierce fighting continues in the northern district of Shanghai. The situation within the International Settlement is acute as 17 Japanese planes circle overhead. Martial law in the Settlement becomes effective today.

Thirty thousand of China's finest troops are held in readiness at Nanking.

The British cruiser Suffolk arrived at Shanghai from Hongkong with a party of Marines aboard.

France joined the United States and England in demands on Japan for respect of the International Settlement. Meanwhile Russia warned Japan she may be compelled to protest against entry of Japanese troops into Harbin.

President Acts to Guard Americans; Britain, France Co-Operate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The United States set itself today to evacuate its citizens in China with receipt of reports showing dangerous repercussions of the Shanghai conflict in far-separated regions of the Oriental republic.

Navy advices that Japanese warships were shelling Nanking without warning were followed by others of trouble festering at Swatow, Chefoo and Amoy. Official estimates were that up to 5,000 Americans now are locked in unsafe zones.

SHANGHAI, China, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Shanghai boiled with indignation today at reports that Japanese warships had shelled Nanking, landing Marines under the protection of gunfire from destroyers.

Thirty thousand of the finest troops in all China were there and it appeared probable they would be a major engagement.

Martial law was declared in the International Settlement here last night and the streets were kept clear of civilians while United States Marines and other foreign troops threw up barbed wire entanglements 10 feet high in the

U. S. PLANT FIRED ON

Machine gun bullets from a Japanese destroyer whipped through the American-owned Texaco oil plant on the Whangpoo River, and a Japanese Marine patrol in the Hongkew district ripped down the American flag over a school for Chinese boys.

No one at the Texaco plant was hurt, but company officials filed a protest with the American consul. They said it was only by good luck the bullets had not set fire to the oil storage tanks.

One representative of the company said some Chinese ashore had set off a bunch of firecrackers and the Japanese destroyer probably thought it was being fired upon.

Dr. John Hawk director of property owned by the American Methodist Episcopal Church South, reported Japanese Marines had invaded the school for Chinese boys which the mission operates in the Hongkew district.

They ripped down the American flag, but did not molest any of the staff.

It was their second visit, Dr. Hawk said. Last Friday they ransacked the place charging that quantities of anti-Japanese literature had been issued from the property. In their search they discovered no such documents.

CRACK TROOPS

Yesterday morning a crack division of 30,000 Chinese National Guardsmen, the pick of China's fighting men, streamed into Nanking and took up positions on the city walls behind sandbag fortifications. They were equipped with German automatic rifles and, unlike many Chinese troops, were well disciplined and well uniformed.

The Chinese postal employes fled the building in terror and the whole postal service was paralyzed. In the night the Japanese Marines threw up barricades all around the building.

Under martial law which went into effect at 10 o'clock last night and will continue indefinitely, no civilian was permitted in the streets of the International Settlement between 10 p. m. and 4 a. m. At all other times of the day or night everyone must have a passport bearing his photograph.

The Chapei district, where the most serious fighting of the past week took place, was quieter, but it appeared trouble might break out again in Hongkew, where the Japanese were in control.

LIGHTS SHOT OUT

That section was in complete darkness, for all the lights had been shot out and some of the wires had been cut. The Japanese threw up barricades and barbed wire entanglements, which isolated Hongkew from the rest of the city.

Yesterday's China Press came on the streets with screaming headlines over a story asserting the Japanese were preparing for a new drive and intended to "reduce to a minimum" their cooperation with the International Settlement garrison.

In the harbor lay four American destroyers, and six more American ships, including the cruiser Houston, were on the way from Manila.

A British cruiser with 800 men was on the way from Hongkong and other British vessels were standing by for orders to follow her.

Other European nations also had ordered their vessels in the Orient to proceed to Shanghai to protect their nationals.

Japan, Defying Russia, Will Attack Harbin

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Japanese Army, which prosecuted the campaign against the Chinese in Manchuria, will not immediately take a hand in the Shanghai situation, which is to be left for the time being to the navy, officials of the government announced today.

The duties of the army in Manchuria were reported increasing, however, and officials said the full strength of the Manchurian power will be directed against Harbin, in spite of the fact that Soviet Russia today indicated it might protest the entry of Japanese troops into that city.

A Japanese division yesterday was fighting its way a short distance from Harbin. L. M. Karakhan, Soviet acting commissar for foreign affairs, informed Koki Hirota, Japanese ambassador at Moscow, that Russia might be compelled to protest the entry of Japanese troops into Harbin. In authoritative circles here, however, it was stated the advance on Harbin will be continued.

Foreign Minister Yoshizawa said Japan welcomes the increase of forces of other nations at Shanghai. Japan might already have had to land a force at Shanghai if it had not been for the storm of protest she anticipated might be heaped upon her, he said. He continued:

"If the Chinese refuse to withdraw maybe we shall send an army detachment to Shanghai.

"The Chinese could attack the entire International Settlement. The foreign troops could withstand the attack for a few days until Japanese reinforcements arrived.

"The world apparently has forgotten that the Japanese are allotted part of the defense scheme of the International Settlement."

The foreign minister called in the American, British and French ambassadors yesterday to solicit the support of their governments for measures to persuade the Chinese to abandon warlike operations at Shanghai.

The conference was called after the military intelligence service reported that Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek was effecting a heavy concentration of his troops in the Shanghai area.

CRACK TROOPS

After the conference M. Yoshizawa said the force of Japanese Bluejackets now in Shanghai was in danger of annihilation because they faced 30,000 crack Chinese troops, and the reports indicated Marshal Chiang was rushing four squadrons of airplanes into the area for a major offensive.

It was expected that Ambassador Forbes, of the United States, would see M. Yoshizawa again today for an exchange of views in an effort to clarify certain details of the Shanghai situation. It appeared that the views of the American government, in many respects, did not agree with Tokio's contention.

Regarding the representations made by the American government, a foreign office spokesman said American Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham at Shanghai seemed "grossly misinformed." He said he could not understand from where Mr. Cunningham's information came, as it differed entirely from the facts as reported to Tokio.

China May Withhold War Declaration

NANKING, China, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A belief that the impending arrival of additional American and British troops at Shanghai might yet avert a Chinese declaration of war upon Japan was expressed in informed quarters here today.

The decision of the Nanking government to issue a formal declaration of war, made last week before the government left Nanking and retired to Honanfu in the interior, was held in abeyance, these sources said, to see how the situation at Shanghai developed. The declaration, it was stated, might never have to be made if the arrival of American and British troops had a quieting effect and prepared the way for a settlement of the Shanghai dispute.

It was said the intention of the Chinese government, when it decided to declare war against Japan, intended war without a formal declaration.

U. S. RESERVE CALL RUMORED

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(Universal.)—Reports were current in New York and Boston that some of the 23,000 Naval Reservists throughout the country were receiving orders to "stand by."

Naval authorities in New York and Washington failed to confirm these reports.

It was also reported that orders have been sent to Navy yards on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts to hold naval vessels in preparation for any sailing instructions that may be issued. There was also no confirmation of this report in Washington.

MINERS DEMAND LEGISLATION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Resolutions advocating drastic legislation of many kinds were adopted at the thirty-second constitutional convention of the United Mine Workers today.

Among the proposals indorsed were: Government ownership of public utilities, federal guarantee of deposits in national banks and state guarantee of deposits in state banks, unemployment insurance and governmental guarantee of 10 per cent above the cost of production to farmers.

Breaker of Health Laws Dies at 105

COLFAX, Wash., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Hugh McKuen, who attributed his longevity to a "strong constitution" and often said he had done "most everything one shouldn't do" for health's sake, is dead at the age of 105. McKuen succumbed in a hospital here. A native of Ireland, he served in the Union Army in the Civil War and later fought Indians in the west.

Baby's Cries Save Family in Fire

LATROBE, Pa., Feb. 1.—Awakened by cries of her son, Robert, aged 18 months, Mrs. Gilbert Cicioni found her four-room bungalow in flames early today. She and her husband carried the baby, along with Gilbert, 4, and Loretta, 6, through the smoke to safety. The dwelling was destroyed causing $6,000 loss.

ASIATIC FLEET QUITS MANILA FOR SHANGHAI

Flagship, Destroyers and Transport With 1,000 Men Steam for Trouble Zone

International News Service.

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 1.—Under full steam, the U. S. Asiatic fleet sailed out of Manila Bay today for Shanghai. As it departed, the commander, Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, declared:

"The sole purpose of the fleet movement is to protect American lives and property in the International Settlement of Shanghai."

The 15th Division, including the destroyers Peary, Pillsbury and J. D. Ford, under Division Commander E. N. S. Robertson, was first to depart, followed by the destroyers Whipple, James D. Edwards, Smith, Thompson and Barker, under Commander McCauley.

DUE WEDNESDAY

The flagship Houston carried Admiral Taylor and several hundred Marines who arrived last week on the transport Chaumont.

The destroyer Stewart, which was en route to Hongkong, was ordered to return to Amoy.

The Houston is scheduled to arrive off Shanghai Wednesday, the other vessels the following day. The Houston was followed by Admiral Taylor's yacht, Isabel.

The 31st Infantry Regiment of approximately 1,000 men sailed on the transport Chaumont. They were completely equipped for regular field service.

SHIPS OFF TO HAWAII

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Uncle Sam's mighty battle fleet, grim bulldogs of the Pacific, accoutred for war, awaited the lifting of fog today to sail away on a peaceful mission which might develop into something more than that.

It was a coincidence that the Asiatic fleet also sailed today, and under full speed ahead from Manila toward Shanghai, where American lives are endangered by the conflict between Japan and China.

Along man-of-war row it was frankly conceded in unofficial conversation to be a "fortuitous circumstance" that the great dreadnaughts which stand back of America's diplomatic protests to foreign governments, would be 2,228 miles across the Pacific Ocean by next Saturday. It is 3,440 miles from Hawaii, where the battlefleet is to rendezvous, to Yokohama, Japan.

It was officially emphasized that there is no connection between the sailing of the battle fleet today and the troubled situation in the Orient.

Every year the battle fleet leaves San Pedro harbor for distant waters to work out "problems" in mimic war. This specific "problem" off Hawaiian Islands was scheduled two years ago.

INJURED DIVER ASKS $250,000

Art Jeffers, diver, wants $250,000 for being blown out of the Ohio River by a charge of dynamite. Today he filed suit in Federal Court for this amount against the Foundation Company, a New York corporation.

Jeffers avers that on January 25, 1930, while deepening the Ohio River channel he placed a charge of dynamite in the river bed and before he had ascended the charge was exploded. He said the shooter was inexperienced and unlicensed. June.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—K. Johnson, 15-year-old American youth arrested two days ago by Japanese marines on charges of sniping when they found a revolver in the Johnson home on 2 Scott road, was released today.

Johnson telephoned the American consulate at 9 a. m., and stated that he had been held only four hours and then released when his United States passport convinced the Japanese marines of the genuineness of his nationality.

The youth said he was not badly treated during his detention, but he refused to recount his experiences during the four hours he was in Japanese hands. This is believed to be the result of a promise he made to the marines which was a condition to his release, although Johnson refuses to acknowledge that he made any promise.

Bill Advancing Naval Class Gets Approval

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—The House Naval Affairs Committee today voted unanimously to favorably report the midshipmen bill of Representative Vinson (Dem.), of Georgia, chairman of the committee.

The bill provides for the appointment as ensigns-in-the-line all midshipmen who graduate from the Naval Academy next June.

REVOLT FLARES AGAINST DUCE

ROME, Feb. 1.—An open Communist revolt against the Fascist government broke out today in the town of Doreglia, in the district of Foggia.

A yelling populace attacked and captured the town's municipal building. Police were unable to fire upon the mob because women massed themselves in front of the demonstrators.

The angry mob beat and injured the Mayor, set fire to the municipal building and then danced around the burning structure singing the "Red Flag" and other Communist songs.

Meanwhile Italian cities and towns rang with martial airs as the black-shirted legions of Premier Mussolini's Fascist militia celebrated the ninth anniversary of the founding of the organization.

There was scarcely a town without a parade, and the program at Rome included a review of the crack units by Il Duce himself.

WAGNER URGES DRY REPEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, said today "the supremacy of the law has been challenged and defeated" under prohibition as he planned to introduce a resolution calling for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Wagner said:

"We know that prohibition was a mistake. We know that the attempt to enforce it has been a failure. Let us be honest with ourselves and admit the failure."

He said he and others advocating repeal of the amendment are not seeking liquor, but are concerned with "the sanctity of the constitution which is daily desecrated."

Prohibition, he said, "was intended to abolish the saloon," but "has created the more dangerous speakeasy."

Doctor Found Dead, Police Hunt Slayer

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A roomer found Dr. E. G. Crichlow, 35, West Indian Negro physician, dead in bed, and last night, 12 hours later, the police were without a clue to his slayer.

A ring from a gas stove lay on the crumpled bedclothes nearby and the police said it was the weapon used in fracturing his skull. Part of the third finger of his left hand had been torn off.

ANTI-FOREIGN WAVE SWEEPS SHANGHAI

Americans in Danger as Both Sides Turn on Aliens; Japanese Peril U. S. Paper

By FLOYD GIBBONS
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—Asiatic nerves and sentiment, heretofore confined to bitter hatred between Japanese and Chinese, are gradually turning to anti-foreign in battling Shanghai.

The Chinese are becoming stronger in their demands that British, Italians and Americans maintain neutrality in the International Settlement or be prepared to be treated as belligerents allied with the Japanese, who are using this neutral area as a military, naval and air base for hostile operations against Chinese territory.

The Japanese are becoming increasingly resentful toward other foreigners for their lack of "cooperation" together with their protests against the operation of Japanese patrols and gangs as well as Japanese civilians in the defense zones assigned to other nationals.

REPORTERS ATTACKED

Tonight, on the eve of expected resumption of big scale operations, the feeling of both Chinese and Japanese against all foreign-born residents is running higher than at any time since the outbreak of the trouble.

Foreign newspapermen and photographers as well as resident foreigners have been mishandled. Photographs have been confiscated by Japanese military and civilians right inside the International concession.

PAPER PLANT MENACED

Tonight, the Japanese threatened destruction to the plant of the American-owned Shanghai Post on account of a two-column editorial which appeared on the front page this afternoon, charging the Japanese with abusing the trust of the International concession and wilfully exposing other foreigners to the results of violated neutrality.

The newspaper plant was under extra guard tonight.

Danger to Americans in Shanghai threatens from two sources.

First, there is the possibility of attack upon them by Japanese.

Second, there is the chance of attack by foodless, homeless and desperate Chinese driven into the American zone by the Japanese.

Tonight the municipal police were searching thousands of refugees sleeping in streets and doorways and confiscating all weapons found upon them.

Shanghai City of Misery Under Japanese Outrages

By FLOYD GIBBONS
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Terror prevails in Shanghai. It's a maelstrom of human misery, with murder, arson and wanton destruction rampant.

The slaughter of innocent coolies in the streets of the Japanese sector of the International concession continues night and day.

The execution of confused suspects is taking place hourly in a charnel house shack in the rear of the headquarters of the Japanese naval landing party. Truculent gangs of armed Japanese civilians are robbing, looting and burning Chinese shops and dwellings.

The wailing mothers, sobbing children and distracted fathers of disrupted families composed a seething mass of confused yellow humanity pouring across the bridges of Soochow Creek to escape death and destruction as rifle shots and explosions of grenades and trench mortars ring in their ears.

Butler Opposes Infantry In China, Marines' Job

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, retired Marine, commenting today on the dispatching of the 31st United States Infantry to Shanghai, said:

"I'm awfully sorry the Marines have lost their job."

He added:

"The Marines can do a job like this—a job of international police—without causing the same comment which is likely to be excited by the dispatch of regular infantry."

Five years ago Gen. Butler was in command of the Marines sent to Shanghai when the armies of the North and the South were fighting for control.

The fiery retired Marine said that this country should protest Japan's action in Shanghai, but that "there's little use in the United States sending any notes, because they can't read English."

Declaring "If it suits the purpose of the Japanese to kill Americans," he warned that the loss of American lives means trouble.

He characterized the Geneva disarmament conference as "silly," and asserted "the only sure way to inoculate against war is to be prepared for it."

Japan Sends 95 to Arm. Meet; Americans Arrive

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—The forces of peace massed here today in preparation for launching of the general disarmament conference tomorrow in spite of the war clouds hovering over the Far East.

Japan was most heavily represented here, her delegation consisting of 95 members.

The American delegation arrived this afternoon, virtually completing the personnel of the conference except for various delegation leaders, who are detained elsewhere by the press of international affairs.

The American delegation included Ambassadors Gibson and Wilson, Senator Claude W. Swanson and Miss Mary Woolley. Soon after their arrival, they received newspapermen in their hotel and promised "utmost co-operation."

Each member delivered a short address, and Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist, responded on behalf of the press. He said:

"I am glad to see a woman on our delegation. It's very certain she'll do more than all the rest of you."

Due to the absence of Secretary of State Stimson, who was scheduled to head the American delegation later in the conference as well as Premiers MacDonald, of Great Britain and Laval, of France and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, of Germany, it was generally conceded that the parley will adjourn shortly until the Far Eastern situation has cleared somewhat.

NEW WITNESSES TO TESTIFY IN MINE RIOT MURDER CASE

FIGHT TO KEEP 8 ACCUSED MEN JAILED

Superintendent, 6 Deputies Seek Freedom in Arnold City Coal Strike Slaying

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—Wade Newell, Fayette County's newly-elected District Attorney, was expected today to produce at least half a dozen witnesses to the shooting of Mike Pilipovich at Arnold City June 23, whom Coroner S. A. Baltz never summoned at the county's inquest into Pilipovich's death nearly two months after it occurred. They are eyewitnesses to the shooting of Pilipovich and four other miner sympathizers, one of whom is confined to an insane asylum and the other three still allegedly suffering from the effects of their wounds.

ACCUSED BY WIDOW

The witnesses will be called by District Attorney Newell in answer to habeas corpus proceedings brought on behalf of the eight men—a former Pittsburgh Coal Company superintendent and seven coal and iron deputies—being held in jail here on murder charges. They were arrested on information sworn to by Pilipovich's widow, Mrs. Mary Snock Pilipovich, 20. One other is being sought on similar charges.

The eight unled arrest are Ernest Barnes, former superintendent of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Arnold City; James Buttermore, coal and iron policeman; Jess Sisley, Donald Royston, Ted Hunt, Wesley Fisher, Leroy Ingram and John J. Yoder, coal company deputies.

SURRENDER LIKELY

Parker Claybaugh, the other sought, was expected to surrender to the District Attorney soon.

All of the deputies, coal and iron policemen and the superintendent are still under bond, having been required to post $5,000 each to guarantee their appearance at the Coroner's inquest. The bond was asked by former District Attorney J. D. Adams.

Adams' successor, District Attorney Newell, discovered the bond certificates filed in his office Saturday. He said he would ask that the bond of Claybaugh be forfeited if he did not surrender by today.

BRIDE IN TEARS, ROYALTY WAITS

IVER, BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, England, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Wedding guests waited 1[illegible] at the little country church here yesterday for a bride who finally arrived in tears.

Capt. Roberts Doyne, of the Oxford and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry, the bridegroom, was here on time, and so were Princess Victoria, the King's sister, and Princess Alice, Countess Athlone.

A quarter of an hour after the ceremony was to have begun, Miss Verna Seymour, daughter of Lady Blanche Seymour, arrived weeping. She dried her tears, however, and went through the ceremony with a smile. No one tried to explain the incident.

Oppose Higher Limit For Postal Savings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States announced flat opposition today to proposals for increasing the individual limit on postal savings accounts from $2,500 to $5,000 or $10,000.

In a letter to Representative Mead (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the House committee handling postal legislation, Silas H. Strawn, president of the organization, said the legislation would hurt banks by causing depositors to switch their funds.

HAWAII TERROR KILLER CAUGHT

HONOLULU, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Daniel Lyman, murderer, whose escape from Oahu Prison a month ago terrorized Honolulu householders, was captured yesterday at Rogers Airport, five miles from Honolulu. He was immediately returned to the prison and placed in solitary confinement.

Lyman escaped with Lui Kaikapu, Hawaiian burglar and confessed attacker of Mrs. James M. O'Dowda, a school teacher, two days after his escape. Lyman also was recently accused by a Japanese woman.

Three men and a woman face a circuit judge here today in the most dramatic murder case in recent history of the Hawaiian Islands, but their appearance is expected to be little more than a formality at which they will enter pleas and a trial date will be set.

The defendants, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, prominent in American society; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas M. Massie, U. S. N., and two Navy enlisted men, are accused of the "honor" slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian. The trial probably will not be held for several weeks.

'Tin Can Tourists' Meet in Florida

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Nearly 500 house cars and trailers of all sizes and descriptions, ranging from luxurious road "yacht" to an enlarged packing box hailed to an automobile of ancient vintage, were registered today at Sarasota Tourist Park for the annual winter convention of the tin can tourists of the world. Members from 36 states and three Canadian provinces have arrived for the convention.

HUSBAND TELLS OF LIFE WITH RUTH JUDD

Pictures Trunk Slayer as Frustrated Woman With Thoughts of Motherhood

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Winnie Ruth Judd was pictured from the witness stand today by her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, as a frustrated woman, "who from the first day of our marriage dwelt upon the thoughts of a child."

The trial of the accused trunk slayer for the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi was resumed today over her protest when County Physician J. D. Mauldin reported to the court she was not too ill to appear. The physician yesterday had treated Mrs. Judd for a severe cold, and she said she had been threatened with influenza. Two jurors who were ill last week were back in the jury box.

Dr. Judd, first witness of the day to be called by the defense, told of his wife's plans, while they lived in Mexico, for a child which never materialized, and her arguments over whether it should be named "Moses, Caesar or Napoleon."

BELIEVED SHE HAD CHILD

Herman Lewkowitz, of defense counsel, asked:

"Was there ever a child born?"

"No."

"Did you or your wife ever bring a child into your home for adoption?"

"No."

"Did you ever have a child in your home for any length of time?"

"No."

Dr. Judd testified that during their residence in a mining camp in the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, in 1925, Mrs. Judd at times appeared to believe she had a child. He said:

"She spoke a number of times of 'the baby.' Once she told of it getting out of its crib and pulling the dog's ear. I thought then she was just kidding me. I didn't at first realize she really believed it.

"She sometimes would hide in a closet.

IN POOR HEALTH

"Sometimes I would be able to get her out of these spells by walking her about. She would say 'I know I am dreaming'."

Dr. Judd said when he and Mrs. Judd were married at Lafayette, Ind., in April, 1924, Mrs. Judd's health was "very bad—she was tubercular."

For a time she was better, but had a relapse in 1925 when a child was expected. He said:

"She realized herself that her health was such that she could not withstand the strain of motherhood.

"As to her mental condition at that time—she was in a disturbed state a great deal of the time. She had periods of weeping and periods of laughing. She would go around waving her hands and snapping her fingers."

Man Practicing Golf Stroke Kills Girl

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—An indoor practice swing with a golf club in the hands of her escort caused the death of Miss Helen Stone, 25, at Del Rey, near here.

The girl and Leon Black, of Hollywood, were visiting the home of Hayden Pythian. Black was swinging a midiron in the living room when the girl, reclining on a davenport, arose to watch his stroke. The club struck her at the left ear. She died a few hours later.

'Bad Man' Killed, Chief Shot in Duel

HARLAN, Ky., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Ledger Howard, 27, was shot and killed in a pistol duel with James Waggoner, 40, chief of police of Wallins, in a drug store in Wallins, nine miles west of her. Waggoner is in a hospital here seriously wounded with a bullet in the head.

The duel is believed to be the result of Waggoner's declaration that reputed "bad men" had better stay out of Wallins.

BROTHER TAKES MAN'S PLACE IN JAIL

Suspect Walks Out With Wife As Kin Goes to Cell, Facing Chair as Kidnaper

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Stanley Montague today faced the possibility of death in the electric chair as a result of his brother's escape from county jail.

Officials of the jail were ordered before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal Court while police searched the city for Montague's brother, Neil, who until yesterday was held without bail, under an alias, Albert Russell, on a charge of kidnaping for ransom.

During a visit to the jail yesterday, Stanley tossed his hat and overcoat on a chair. His brother put them on and sauntered out with his wife and 3-year-old daughter, and Stanley returned to his brother's cell. The hoax was discovered then, but the alleged kidnaper had fled.

HAIR DYED

The state debated whether to exercise its privilege of trying Stanley on the evidence against Neil, bearing the maximum punishment of electrocution. Stanley confirmed reports of physicians that he had been drinking heavily.

He denied that he had seen his brother for two years or that he expected to "get anything out of this."

His hair, ordinarily red, had been died brown, the color of his brother's hair.

Warden David Moneypenny, his assistant, George Gibson, and Deputy Frank Wright, in charge of the Sheriff's force at the jail, were ordered to "explain everything" to Judge Fisher.

ALTERIE INVOLVED

Prosecutors said Montague had been ready to testify for the state against the group indicted with him, including Louis Alterie, just extradited from Colorado, for the kidnaping of Edward Dobkin.

Alterie, a figure in Chicago's early beer wars, had little to say upon his return.

He indicated he would fight the kidnaping charge with renewed confidence as a result of the escape of Montague, who was said to have signed a confession, unrevealed as yet.

DOG ON GUARD, STILL SEIZED

Prohibition agents said today that in a raid on a building on the Speer farm in Ross Township, a 100-gallon still, operated by gas supplied from a well less than 100 feet away, was confiscated despite a huge police dog left to guard the place.

Fifteen gallons of moonshine and more than a thousand gallons of mash were confiscated, they said.

Furniture was seized in a raid on an alleged speakeasy at 604 Amity street, Homestead, according to the agents, who reported they found beer, whisky, wine and gin in the place.

Autoist Survives Plunge Into Canyon

SAN JOSE, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—R. A. Saxton, of Alameda, Cal., lives to tell about a plunge of 200 feet down a canyon near here with his motor car. He was pitched into the swollen waters of a creek. A rescue party found him an hour later unconscious and seriously injured.

Saxton's 11-year-old son, George, frightened, got out of the car a moment before it fell.

Edge's Transfer To London Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Published reports that Walter E. Edge, ambassador to France, is to be transferred to London, and Ambassador John W. Garrett, now at Rome, would fill the vacancy at Paris, were semi-officially denied at the White House today. Ambassador Edge was described as being happy in his Paris berth.

JOHN D. MISSES CHURCH, ILL

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 1.—Another of the regular customs on which he prided himself through the twilight of his 92 years was broken yesterday by John D. Rockefeielr, Sr.

He failed to attend morning services of the Ormond Community Union Church and thereby broke a record of two years of continuous attendance.

Illness caused by a cold and over-exertion for one in such advanced years were blamed by his pastor, the Rev. George D. Owen, for his absence at church.

Three consecutive days also have gone by without the financier playing golf. Friends cannot recall when he had missed playing before. Mr. Owen explained:

"Mr. Rockefeller has been going too fast a pace and as a result has had to give up his customary habits, although he dislikes to do so."

TRADES UNIONS FIGHT CUTS

Building trades unions were in a deadlock today with the employers who have declared that a reduction of 25 per cent is now in effect for all trades who will not make some voluntary concession.

Two cases of workmen being pulled off jobs by the unions were reported today. Plasterers were not working this morning in the Gulf Building, nor were laborers on the East Liberty Presbyterian Church job.

Although all trades affiliated with the Building Trades Council have stood flatly against any decrease, it is believed that negotiations are still being carried on and will end in an agreement.

That the Mellon-Stuart Company, which has hitherto acted independently in wage negotiations, is backing the Building Trades Employers Association in their demands for lower wage rates was disclosed today.

MAD TRAPPER KILLS MOUNTY

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Constable E. Millen, of the Mounted Police, was shot and killed Saturday, word relayed here said, by Albert Johnson, demented trapper who has been hunted for more than a week in the Rat River region, 30 miles from here.

Victim of a ruse the dispatch said, Constable Millen walked into the fire of Johnson, two-gun hermit whom the "Mounties" have been pursuing a month for wounding another member of the force.

Quartermaster Sergeant Riddell wirelessed that the patrol had come upon Johnson in the thick bush country 30 miles north of where the Rat River flows into the Mackenzie.

SUNDAY MOVIES BRING CLASH

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A city-wide controversy is brewing in New Castle over Sunday motion picture shows.

It began when Mayor Charles B. Mayne permitted moving picture theaters to remain open yesterday for the announced purpose of raising funds for the Mayor's relief committee.

The Mayor's committee announced it did not sanction the Sunday movies, and asked the Mayor to revoke the permits. The committee also asked that the theaters refrain from further advertising its name.

The Ministerial Association announced its opposition to Sunday movies.

There have been rebellions in Ecuador over the past several months. The most recent was last November when a revolt flared in the province of El Oro.

RAILWAYS, MEN SIGN PAY CUT AGREEMENT

10 Per Cent Cut Effective Today; Carriers Promise To Aid Unemployed Army

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Railway labor, from section hand to engineer, takes a 10 per cent wage cut today, with the hope it will give work to its jobless and speed the return of better times.

The agreement, which authorized the nation's railroads to take $215,000,000 out of the pay envelopes of the workers for one year, was signed last night by leaders of both sides.

It was a voluntary concession on the part of labor at the request of the rails. Their rate of pay is protected by contract.

In return the workers received certain concessions to a compromise program they proposed, chief among them being the assurance the rails would do as much as conditions would justify to use the wage cut savings toward relieving the distress of 7,000,000 jobless and 600,000 of partly employed.

The final scene, enacted in a conference room of a Loop hotel, climaxed 17 days of negotiations that were without precedent in the history of rail-labor relations. Never before had the two forces pooled their efforts to solve a problem of like nature or magnitude.

Before signing the pact, carriers promised to meet conditions of labor, that they withdraw the notice of a 15 per cent wage cut they filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission in December and that they make an earnest and sympathetic effort to maintain and increase railroad employment."

STORM HALTS PLANE HUNT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Ugly clouds, strewing sun, rain and freezing cold in their path, whirled with blizzard fury over the lonely Tehachapi mountain range today, concealing in their mists the fate of five men and three women who flew into the storm last Friday aboard a mystery Pacific air liner, and vanished.

Meanwhile, upon the gray, rawboned mountainers, airplane pilots, state highway police and sheriff's deputies watched the storms from three vantage points, awaiting a break before plunging into the snowbound wilderness to resume their search for the five now believed dead.

Mountain residents have aided searchers of a plane, apparently in trouble, which appeared over that section Friday afternoon.

Bank Supervisor On Trial in N

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Trial of Joseph A. Broderick, superintendent of banks, on an indictment charging him with failing to perform his duties in connection with the closing of the Bank of United States, began today.

Broderick is being tried on the allegation that he failed to perform his sworn duty by not taking possession of the bank when he believed it was being operated in an unsafe manner between January 1, 1930, and December 10, 1930, before he closed the institution.

OVER ACTS AS NANKING IS BOMBED

Great Britain and France Co-operating With U. S. To Protect Foreigners

Nanking on the Yangtse, 125 miles up the river from Shanghai, because of firing by Japanese battle craft.

Amoy and Swatow are coastal cities hundreds of miles to the south of suspense-ridden Shanghai. Chefoo lies about as far north on the coast.

The American destroyer Stewart soon is due at Swatow. Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor probably will dispatch units of the seven destroyers that have left Manila to other of the trouble points. He is aboard the cruiser Houston, taking Marine re-enforcements for the International Settlement at Shanghai.

American consuls at all points were authorized to evacuate Americans, if necessary, without instruction from Washington.

BRITISH INQUIRY

When news of Japanese guns hurling shells into Nanking reaches Washington, the British Ambassador was notifying Undersecretary Castle that his government considered the latest developments at Shanghai "grave but reasonable." He asked if United States did not consider it duty to express such sentiments upon.

Protests by the United States, Great Britain and France against action of the International Settlement at Shanghai have already been delivered to Tokio.

Meanwhile America acted forcefully to protect her citizens. In the van of the great powers of the world this country's available troops and warships were rushed to the Chinese ports.

From the study in which Lincoln directed the operations of the Civil War, President Hoover broke the Sunday quiet yesterday to send out orders to Army and Navy.

A radio to the Philippines sent 2,000 khaki-clad doughboys scurrying aboard the transport Chaumont which sailed from Manila. By another message Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, was sent to sea with the cruiser Houston and seven destroyers steaming under forced draft for Shanghai. They will stand by ready to evacuate the American population if necessary.

The American action came with Great Britain's dispatch of three cruisers, infantry and artillery from Hongkong while France for the first time joined in with representations to Japan for the protection of the International Settlement of the Chinese seaport and the promise of an armored cruiser now stationed in Indo-China.

Secretary Stimson, in his latest instructions to Ambassador Forbes in Tokio, has given the ambassador a free hand to co-operate with other diplomats in Japan for the protection of American and other nations in China.

Short of presentation of an ultimatum-like demand to Japan for withdrawal of her invading force, the American action was the most forceful conceivable. Use of the Regular Army abroad has for precedent only the relief of Peiping in the Boxer rebellion of 32 years ago, and the A. E. F. of the World War. Virtually the entire United States Asiatic fleet will be massed at Shanghai.

CAUTION ORDERED

But the commanders were carefully instructed to use the "utmost forbearance" toward both the Japanese and Chinese. Their assigned task was purely one of protection, not only of the large American and other foreign population of the treaty ports (some of the warships will take stations up the Yangtze River) but of the enormous property investment in commerce and mission enterprises.

The orders followed long consultation between President Hoover and State, War and Navy secretaries. They were issued after desperate pleas for help from Shanghai's Americans.

In the House today Representative Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, whipped out against the President's order to send military and naval reinforcements to Shanghai. Calling it a step to protect a few Chinese merchants, he warned this country would become "involved in war if we don't watch our step."

Representative Purnell (Rep.), of Indiana, asked:

"Do you think we should not protect our people who are rightfully there at Shanghai?"

Blanton said:

"I think we should, but don't send military forces. We should give our people transporation and get them out of there."

JAPAN'S PROMISES IGNORED

In both the military orders and the protest to Tokio, this government brushed aside repeated assurances from Japan that American interests would be scrupulously protected, heeding instead the factual reports from consular and military representatives in Shanghai.

These related acts of invasion within American territory as well as the bombing of an Amer. mission building in the half-destroyed native sector.

The President's action in dispatching troops and ships was announced in a White House statement, which concluded:

"As soon as conditions permit the troops will be returned to Manila."

TAYLOR RANKING OFFICER

When Admiral Taylor reaches Shanghai, probably late Wednesday, he will be the ranking foreign officer at the port. If united defense action is planned he probably will command all the forces in that city.

Aboard his ships are about 2,000 bluejacks who are not to be landed, but he is taking 300 marines to reinforce Col. R. S. Hooker's regiment of 1,300. The 1,000 men of the 31st Infantry now aboard the Chaumont also will help man the barricades of Shanghai's International Settlement.

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—The American reply to the request from the League of Nations to participate in the international commission to investigate the Shanghai situation will be made public here this evening. It was understood the United States refuses to participate, since Article XV of the league covenant involves possible punitive measures.

The United States, however, it was understood, agrees to furnish the commission with all information gathered through official American sources in Shanghai.

TROOPS SENT AS SAFEGUARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—The dispatch of additional American warships and American troops to Shanghai was made solely in the interest of protecting American citizens there, the State Department announced today in a formal statement. The statement was issued amid an atmosphere which indicated that State Department officials regard the situation in China as most critical. The statement said:

"With reference to the movement of American ships and troops to Shanghai, these movements are solely for the protection of American lives and property and for fulfilling our responsibilities to American citizens at Shanghai and other exposed points in the Yangtze and elsewhere in China."

...LE DEMANDS TREATY NAVY FOR U.S.

Rep. Blanton, Fiery Texan, Scores Hoover for Sending Troops, Ships to China

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Far Eastern situation engaged Congress today, as Senator Hale (Rep.), of Maine, urged building up of the American Navy to treaty strength, while Representative Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, assailed President Hoover for sending American troops and warships to China.

Senator Hale declared the Navy had been slashed, through the activities of pacifists, to a point where it faces an "unfortunate and dangerous predicament."

Hale warned the nation that it must maintain a first rank Navy "if it is to survive." He said America had a tonnage superiority over Japan, but "in actual combat strength, we have little superiority and are very nearly on an even footing."

PARITY IN 4 YEARS

In four more years, he said, Japan will have a tonnage parity with us and "more than twice the number of ships."

Senator Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma, in a resolution asked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to keep the Senate and country advised from time to time upon developments in the Far East.

U.S. AID, SAYS LA FOLLETTE

Senator Opens Fight for Direct Federal Relief; Pleas Made for Needy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Senate debate on the bill to appropriate $375,000,000 for unemployment relief was opened today with the presentation of a survey of 810 cities, showing 305 of them want federal help.

Results of the survey were presented by Chairman La Follette, of the Manufactures Committee one of the authors of the bill.

They were based on answers received from mayors or other officials of the 810 cities to questionnaires sent out by La Follette.

The young Wisconsin Senator said 305 cities with a total population of 9,713,100 favored federal appropriations and 215 with a population of 4,618,011 were opposed.

FUNDS INADEQUATE

La Follette presented a summary which said hundreds of cities had increased problems and inadequate funds.

In almost every city where there was no increase in appropriations, La Follette said, there is an increase in the number of unemployed.

He cited Pensacola, Fla., with a population of 31,500 which was able to appropriate only $1,200; Fort Dodge, Ia., with a population of 21,000 with no increase since 1929 and a jump in unemployed of almost 100 per cent.

Cohoes, N. Y., he said, reported it had a population of 23,000 and was bankrupt.

The Senate Agricultural Committee today approved a resolution to permit the Secretary of Agriculture to loan for livestock feed some $12,000,000 unexpended balance of last year's drought relief appropriation.

Direct federal relief, opposed by the administration, either for farmers or jobless, was injected into both houses.

STARVATION NEAR

An appeal was put before a House committee by Representative Hoidale (Dem.) of Alabama, ... fields to care for those ... of starvation.

Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, said the situation "cannot be met except by receiving assistance from the federal government." He said:

"Today there are 8,200,000 without any work and 7,000,000 more with only one or two days' work a week."

The Rev. John R. O'Grady of the Catholic National Charities, assailed the Chamber of Commerce and Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, for opposing relief, and said they have no substitute remedy for what they call a dole.

Schooley I.O.U. Loans Revealed

owed the city on October 10; Michael De Rosa, Jr., $2,062, all paid back; H. S. Breitenstein, $1,285, all paid back; J. D. Diamond Company, $7,656, all paid back; C. C. Hamilton, $1,575, of which $49.12 is still owed; John F. Irwin, $1,327, all paid back; Laura Larkins, a city employe, $4,025, of which $214 is still owed.

Morris G. Levy, $16,426, all paid back; G. W. Negley, $1,055, all paid back; Lewis A. Schwartz, $2,059, of which $119 was still owed; Victor Silverance, $2,465, all paid back; Charles Solomon, $215, all paid back; James F. Steele, $1,717, all paid back; William P. Weber, $4,562, of which $188 is still owed.

SEEK TO COLLECT BOND

The report also revealed that Schooley had $11,467 of school funds in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company—not a school depository—when it closed.

The auditors reported that Schooley apparently had drawn no checks for payment of school bills against the school funds in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, and that "city funds must have been used to pay the School Board for the taxes collected."

Controller Kerr declared:

"We shall have to secure the co-operation of the School Board to collect Schooley's $50,000 bond as treasurer for the School Board. This money, if collected, will be used to reimburse the city for city funds used to keep Schooley 'in good' with the board."

Shortages revealed in the auditors' report, according to Controller Kerr, were $14,968 against David A. Rodgers, former clerk in the delinquent tax office, who committed suicide, and $6,486 against Albert Branderfi also delinquent tax collector, under indictment on embezzlement charges.

NEW SYSTEM PLANNED

John M. McKibben, former chief clerk in the Treasurer's office, indicted on embezzlement charges, admitted taking $1,000 a year over a period of 18 years, according to the auditor's report.

Kerr said as a result of the report, a new system would be installed requiring daily reports from the delinquent tax office instead of monthly.

A delay in the Sheriff's office in turning over money received from sheriff's sales and due the city delinquent tax office cost the city $1,404 in six months ending January 1, 1932, according to the auditors' report. These collections were sometimes allowed to run four or five months in arrears and during that time the city lost the interest, it was shown. Collections on sheriff's sales paid the city in that period were $189,403.

LEAGUE AWAITS TROOPS SENT 4 MINERS SHOT AT COVERDALE

Four miners were recovering today from gunshot wounds inflicted when a fifth miner, after an argument, fired at them through a door in Coverdale, county detectives reported.

Under arrest, charged with felonious assault and battery, was Fred Fain, 35.

In St. Joseph's Hospital was his neighbor, George Roston, 32, a gunshot wound in the arm. The other three, Otto Wendler, John McCurry and George McElhaney, escaped with minor flesh wounds.

Detectives said the shooting, which occurred in Roston's home, followed an argument over the coal situation.

Only a few miners apparently heeded the strike call today which had been issued by the National Miners Union against the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation mines at Coverdale, Avella and other places. The call was a protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

...an Mangles Shot At Himself; Arrested

Thwarted in an attempt to end his life, Frank Hatch, 40, of 516 Rodgers avenue, South Side, was lodged in the South Side Police Station on a suspicious person charge. A call brought the police patrol to Hatch's home where it was said he fired a shot at himself but missed, and was foiled in a second attempt to shoot when his revolver jammed.

Ohio Miners Strike Over Wage Reduction

ATHENS, O., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Whistles sounded at eight mines in the Hocking Valley coal field today, but not a miner appeared for work. This apparently fulfilled the miners' threat to strike against a decrease in wages proposed by operators.

The eight mines were posted as "open." Mines of the Ohio Collieries Company, near Glouster, opened as usual.

Mrs. Eleanor Hays, 35, of 538 Becks Run road, was in St. Joseph Hospital today in a serious condition from injuries received, police said, when a machine driven by her husband, John Hays, collided with another car near the Hays home.

John Adams, 62, of 23 Alpine street, a huckster, was in Allegheny General Hospital with rib fractures suffered when he was thrown from his wagon in a collision with an automobile in the Sixteenth Street Bridge.

...U.S. SEEK TAX DATA FROM MELLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The House Ways and Means Committee today asked the Treasury Department to reconsider its estimates of its tax increase proposals.

The request was submitted to Under-Secretary Mills, of the Treasury, when he met with the committee in its first executive session on the new tax bill.

The Treasury also was asked to submit estimates on probable revenue from a tax on oil importations, electric energy and household gas.

Acting Chairman Crisp announced the group would resume hearings tomorrow on the proposed taxes on imported petroleum, electricity and gas.

Morgue Head Serves 30 Years, Celebrates

Letters and telegrams brought congratulations to John P. Black, superintendent of the County Morgue, who today began his thirty-first year of service as an attache of the Coroner's office. Black was on duty today as usual. He has been superintendent of the morgue for the last 16 years. Black was appointed under the administration of Coroner Jesse McCleary.

Caraway's Capital Home at Auction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The historic colonial mansion in Riverdale, over which the late Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway had a dispute with Senator Hiram Johnson, went on the auction block today to satisfy a mortgage for $22,500 given by Caraway when he bought it.

Caraway bought the home while Johnson was renting it.

TRANSIT BOARD READY TO QUIT OVER SUBWAY

Transit Commission Tells Council to Vote Funds or Abandon Entire Project

Unless City Council appropriates at least $8,300 for office salaries in connection with the proposed $6,000,000 subway construction program here, the City Transit Commission may resign, Council President John S. Herron was informed today.

Asserting that if Council does not appropriate the fund, the subway program would have to be scrapped, the communication said:

"It is extremely doubtful whether any member of the commission will feel justified in continuing to serve under the present program as set up."

Council's finance committee, during budget sessions last month, declared a moratorium on Transit Commission activities for 1932 as an economy measure. The 1932 payroll was slashed from $30,000 to $1,800 per year, the latter sum allotted for a stenographer now in charge of the Bureau of City Transit office.

George S. Davison, chairman of the Commission, pointed out in the communication to Herron that the requested appropriation would not affect the city's finances, in that the money would be taken from the $6,000,000 bond issue already provided by the voters.

The city receives 2¾ per cent for unexpended balances from bond issues in the city treasury. On this basis, the total cost for the year for the use of $11,300—the highest amount requested—would be only $310.75. Council's committee on finance will act on the matter at a meeting tomorrow.

JOHN W. CONNER

POSTAL AIDE 45 YEARS, QUITS

After 45 years' service with the Pittsburgh postoffice, most of that time in the East Liberty branch, John W. Conner, 65, today began his first week of retirement at his home, 1742 Morningside avenue.

Beginning as a clerk when the downtown postoffice occupied the site of the Park Building, Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, Conner finished as assistant superintendent of mails at East Liberty. He had served under 10 postmasters.

According to Charles Cuppers, superintendent of the East Liberty branch, Connor was a wizard in mail distribution and could tell at a glance where mail bearing an obscure address in Pennsylvania should be sent. He could name the 3,000 postoffices of the state without a miss. Before the number was reduced in recent years he could name 5,200.

Preceding his retirement on pension Saturday, Connor was guest at a farewell party by his fellow employes and was presented with a bill fold and a sum of money.

MORGAN PROFITS ON LOANS NEAR 11 MILLIONS

Total Foreign Securities Floated in U. S. Revealed As 15 Billion by Johnson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Gross profits for J. P. Morgan & Co. of $10,883,626 from the sale of foreign bonds in the United States from 1919 to 1932 stood revealed today by the Senate Finance Committee.

A statement of the Morgan profits was made public by the committee as an aftermath of its inquiry into the flotation of foreign securities in this country.

It brought the total profits since the war from this source testified to before the committee by about a dozen New York banking houses to approximately $115,000,000.

HUGE LOSSES

In addition, other banking and financial houses all over the country reaped profits many times larger from the sale of the securities. On these, it has been testified, American investors lost untold hundreds of millions of dollars.

The Morgan Company listed gross profits on a $100,000,000 loan to France in 1920 as $599,504, but the spread on this issue or the difference between what the purchasers paid and France got, was 6 per cent, or $6,000,000. The balance went to others participating in the loan.

The statement filed with the committee by Thomas W. Lamont, Morgan partner, showed the firm's expenses on the sales were $811,722, leaving a net profit, including overhead expenses, of $10,071,903.

Gross profits of $10,313,919 were made from the sale of $1,807,578,000 of governmental bonds and $569,706 from the flotation of $68,000,000 of foreign industrial loans.

15 BILLION SALES

The committee also made public documents placed in the record by Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, which were partially checked by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Commerce Department. They estimated the total foreign securities sold to the American public from 1914 to 1931 at $15,000,000,000.

These documents figured the American investing public had lost more than $2,000,000,000 on these issues from defaults and depreciation and that the bankers who sold them had made nearly $1,000,000,000 in commissions.

Losses from South American bonds were placed at $1,100,000,000; from European government securities, at almost $800,000,000 and from European industrial issues at $464,000,000.

It was estimated that more than $2,400,000,000 of European government and government guaranteed issues are still outstanding.

American loans abroad were shown to have totaled more than $1,000,000,000 each year from 1924 to 1930 inclusive, with the exception of 1929.

Danish Model Must Study Three Months Before Getting Role

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

Too rapid advancement has ruined many a promising screen career.

Remembering this, David Selznick has come to a very sensible conclusion about Gwili Andre, the Danish artist's model, who is Hollywood's latest foreign importation.

Miss Andre, it has been decided, will not make a picture until she has spent three months studying voice and the technique of screen acting. It will be part of her course to visit the various R-K-O sets and watch experienced players working before the camera.

Harold Lloyd

Before coming to Hollywood Miss Andre was a prominent magazine cover girl. She has had neither stage nor film training.

TAKING NO CHANCES

The other day a local newspaperman called Ian Keith to arrange a date for an interview.

As Keith has a shrewd eye for publicity, the writer was surprised to be stalled off.

"You'd better take it up with my publicity agent," was Keith's final advice.

Mystified but agreeable, the writer did this. When he arrived for the interview, Keith was all apologies.

"I'm awfully sorry, old man," he said, "but I thought you were a process server."

LATEST GOSSIP

Harold Lloyd's long search for a leading woman has narrowed down to Lelia Hyams and Constance Cummins. The picture starts in two weeks now. It will be the comedian's first in 16 months . . . while on the subject, Harold, Jr., had his first birthday party the other day. Guests were his three doctors, two nurses and the superintendent of the maternity ward at the hospital where he was born . . . hear that Terry Ray, Fifi Dorsay's ex-boy friend, is selling airplanes as a side-line to his acting career . . . Gene Markey promises he and Joan Bennett won't make any secret of the date of their spring wedding. The press boys, remembering the grief about Constance and the marquis, can breathe a sigh of relief . . . seen around: Richard Dix cheering the boxers in the Olympic tryouts. A gallery rod caused great laughter when he hailed one tough little Mex "Heet heem, Frankenstein; heet heem, Frankenstein." . . . Evelyn Brent and Harry Edwards at the William Gillette opening in "Sherlock Holmes." Also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joyce and Eugene O'Brien.

Joan Bennett

SCHOOLS FAIL

Now that Buddy Rogers is in New York to pursue a radio and stage career, the last of the Paramount School players is off the Studio's payroll.

Back in 1926, when it was formed, the school was hailed as a promising step in motion pictures.

How many of the 16 graduates can you remember now? Here's the list: Josephine Dunn, Thelma Todd, Marion Ivy Harris, Mona Palmer, Jean Morgan (Marian Marsh's elder sister), Dorothy Nourse, Ethelda Kendon, Iris Gray, Buddy Rogers, Jack Luden, Robert Andrews, Irving Hartley, Claud Buchanan, Walter Goss (later Roland Drew), Greg Blackton and Earl Vrokaw.

Like many other notable experiments, the school was a flop.

Portia

Maude Adams, famous star of the stage, comes to the Nixon Tuesday night as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice."

Prize Review Is Sought

Throughout February, which Warner Brothers will celebrate as Bigger Better Business Month, patrons of the Stanley and Warner theaters are invited to participate in a contest of movie criticism. Choice of a trip for two passengers to the Mediterranean or a boat journey to California is offered the winner, the second prize being the one not chosen by the winner.

Reviews of pictures in either theater not to exceed 200 words will be accepted in the competition. They will be received by the B. B. B. Review Editor, 209 Clark Building. Judges will be William J. Lewis, dramatic and photoplay editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; Harold Cohen, of the Post-Gazette, and John McNulty of the Pittsburgh Press.

Mystery-Melodrama Is Harris Film

"X Marks the Spot," a mystery melodrama concerning a newspaper columnist who tells too much, is the new film in the Harris. Wallace Ford, Lew Cody and Sally Blane are included in the cast. Vaudeville acts on the stage present comedy, song and dance and feature Kay Hamlin, Kay, Jack Strauss, Johnny Pastine, Kraft and Lamont and Happy Harrison's Circus.

'Doc' Baker Features Sheridan Stage

"Doc" Baker, comedian, and his Flashes of 1932" tops the vaudeville current in the Sheridan Square. Other acts include the Four Haas Brothers, Connie and Ben and the Four Doughboys. The screen has "Private Lives," co-starring Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery. This film recently was seen downtown.

Esther Ralston Seen on Enright Stage

Esther Ralston, once prominent in the films, is making a personal appearance in the Enright, heading her own show, "Hollywood Revue." Four other vaudeville acts are on the bill. The screen has "Three Wise Girls," which was reviewed on this page Saturday.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: The Denver Post is the newest addition to your list. It ranks among the Best American papers and Frederick G. Bonfils, the publisher and editor, is listed among the few great individuals left in the business . . . The Chicago Press Club last week honored him with a solid gold life membership card—one of five similar tokens in existence—so be happy that you're mixing with such good company . . . I'll be in at 11 o'clock, henceforth . . . But if you come in during the day that way—you take up the little space that's left and we can't do the work we have to do because you make us nervous . . . Why did you change your routine like that?. . .That line Gulnan sent is not new . . . World's Work for February lists among the 22 greatest news scoops of all times, the forecast of the Lindbergh heir by an "audacious tabloid gossip."

You told me to remind you about Buddy Rogers' "real" heart . . . And Nancy Carroll's ex-hobby—I mean hubby . . . Olathe, Kan., is pronounced O-lay-tha . . . That stuff I told you is a fact—comes straight from a former nurse—and she says the baby is lovely and that Lindy is a great father—he is in the nursery almost incessantly—telling the nurses how and what to feed his heir . . . I was going to tell you about Roberta Robinson of the late "Band Wagon" show—she certainly has more admirers than any two screen favorites—for a show gel . . . When are you gonna use it? Say something nice about Gutzon Borglum, the mountain sculptor . . . He recently gave 100 head of cattle to the hungry Sioux Injuns.

Here's one I forgot to tell you . . . A well-known big-time booking agent was in Hollywood and he called on a production head of the Warner Brothers . . . "I've got a great bet for you," said the agent . . . "Yes," was the indifferent reply. "what?" . . . "Cyril Maude!" exclaimed the agent . . . "The devil with her," was the typical Hollywood retort, "we got more ingenues than we can use now!" . . . Gosh, Cyril Maude was a great actor before the movies were said to be in their infancy, which they still are . . . A chap called and said any time you want to know anything about the socially registered or the register—only one man can answer you, and he is said to be a power behind one of the gossip mags devoted to Park avenue gullibles . . He said this man could get anyone in or out of the Social Register, which makes me an Elk . . . Frank Kelton and Music Publisher Louis Bernstein's dotter will merge today . . . The Jack McInerneys were blessed with a boy and the Jack Gordons with a girl.

Did you know that an actor applying for a part in one of Claire Tree Major's shows must first sit in a chair to allow the sunlight to play upon his countenance? (for facial expressions). He must also shift scenery—make costumes—drive a truck—play a piano and above all, speak as George Arliss speaks, Arliss being the only person whose English Claire considers standard—all for $40 a week! . . . Barney Gallant has revived interest in Greenwich Village—plenty swanky . . . By the way—one of the better known inns down there, which never peddled Wyoming Ketchup before, has been forced to—to keep breathing . . . Edward Loughlin, of the District Attorney's staff, has a new girl—whose name is being kept plenty sotto voce. . . .

Carmen Barnes, whose first book (an expose on her days at school) got her some attention, is now courting with a local—twice her years. . . . That "Floating Admiral" is something different in mystery sagas. . . . G. K. Chesterton and Agatha Christie are two of its contributors—it took 13 to build it. Elizabeth Arden is now taking Aldo under her wings—establishing him in his own Vth Ave. shop . . . Bill Morrow called. Said a fella has to spend a lotta time in bed to be as much at home in a sheet as Gandhi. . . Ide Gruber phoned. Said with times being the way they are the Indians feel that they made a good bargain . . . George Lamaze's newest ciggie girl is a ringer for Marilyn Miller . . . Plenty ka-yute, too.

Funny story about Nancy Carroll and her new husband, Bolton Mallory. . . . He took Nancy to see his folks in Omaha, and they tried for privacy. . . . But some local there saw her get off the choo-choo and then the fun stopped. . . . The phone rang all day, calls from admirers who wanted to talk to Nancy. . . . Finally a man called and said: "Is this Imperial Garage?" and Mr. Mallory, who answered the phone shrieked: "No, but fervensakes, don't hang up, I want to talk to somebody!" . . . The book dep't of what big department store here always has an initial order of 10 copies no matter what the book or its author? . . . Jeritza has shelved 15 pounds. . . . Be careful whose lips you kiss . . . Trench Mouth is with us again, and terribly, this time. . . . You owe me 85c.

"Len Lyons asks why—after the City borrowed all that coin from the banks you didn't call it "The Borrow of Manhattan" . . . Did you see the clipping I left yesterday—about the tiny-towner who said that you wrote for the masses and the masses were not important—the masses were the sort of people who went to the movies . . . Of all things! . . . The sophisticates are the ones who Get In For Nothing! . . . Get some sleep. Everything dull as usual . . . Yours until Broun doesn't change the subject—Your Girl Friday.

Talk on Palestine At East Liberty 'Y'

A travel talk, illustrated by motion pictures, on "The New and Old in Palestine," will be given by Dr. J. Kirk Craig tonight in the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Edith C. Lavear, accompanied by Miss Frances Goldberg, will sing Jewish folk songs.

Lutheran Choir to Gice Concert

The St. Olaf Lutheran choir of 60 voices will give a concert in the Carnegie Music Hall February 12, sponsored by the Lutheran Inner Mission Society. Proceeds will be given to the city's unemployed.

Shorthand Group Names Abele Head

Roy F. Abele has been elected president of the Pittsburgh Shorthand Reporters Association for 1932. Other new officers include Caroline Loewenthal, vice president, and B. F. Davis, secretary-treasurer.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Merchant of Venice" will begin its five-day engagement in the Nixon tomorrow night, after a one-night stop in Dayton tonight. Maude Adams is featured as Portia and Otis Skinner will be seen as Shylock. Mats Wed and Sat.

Thursday the Nixon box office will be dealing in ducats for the musical revue, "The Band Wagon," which comes from a long New York run. It will open next Monday with the New York cast, including Fred and Adele Astaire, Frank Morgan and Helen Broderick.

* * *

Small Timer says another unemployment problem is his cigaret lighter, which refuses to work.

* * *

The Alvin box office, open today for the first time in several weeks, will be ready all through the week to dicker with any and all who demand seats for "Experience Unnecessary," which comes to that theater next Monday as the fourth play of the Professional Players' series. The featured thespians will be Verree Teasdale and Walter Woolf. Rex O'Malley heads the support.

* * *

Small Timer says another thing that is felt and is going to men's heads these days is the hat situation.

* * *

Phidelah Rice will be seen in a novel entertainment in Carnegie Music Hall next Monday. He will play all the parts in "The Servant in the House." Under the auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, this protean artist is being brought here direct from an engagement in the Belmont Theater, New York.

Spain Given Jesuit Protest by Vatican

MADRID, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Catholic circles said here that Mgsr. Tedeschini, papal nuncio, had presented a Vatican note to Premier Manuel Azana protesting against the recent dissolution of the Jesuit Order in Spain.

Jesuits, meanwhile, were rapidly leaving their chapter residences.

Pleasure Trip

WHAT A THRILL to be traveling! Despite her years, Mrs. Fulton felt quite girlish as the train raced southward.

Smiling, she opened her bag. Yes, there were her ticket, her purse, her handkerchief. But where were her glasses? Mrs. Fulton's smile faded. The glasses were missing. She felt again with anxious fingers. No glasses—this was Calamity!

"Conductor," she faltered, "I've left my glasses at home!"

The conductor sensed the tragedy. Twenty years of public contact had not dulled his sympathies. "Don't you worry, ma'am, telephone from Washington. You'll have the glasses in no time!"

Mrs. Fulton sighed with relief. The telephone, of course! She smiled again; her journey was still a pleasure.

Comfort CHAIR 29.50
With Ottoman

We don't guarantee that this commodious chair will keep the man of the house home at nights. But once a man leaves the dinner table, sinks into its luxuriously deep seat and relaxes his legs over the matching ottoman—well, just try and get him up again!

A chair built to our rigid standards. Semi-wing type with comfortable arms, sturdy feet, removable seat and the new roll back that just coaxes you to lean back and relax. Custom-made in your choice of several handsome figured tapestries and other plain and figured materials. Extraordinary value!

• STURDY HARDWOOD FRAME.
• ALL WEB CONSTRUCTION.
• MOSS AND COTTON FILLED.
• COVER SEWED—NOT TACKED

KROGER STORES

We Now Present

—By DARRELL V. MARTIN—
Radio Editor

OUR GRAPEVINE telegraph reports the following: Jimmy Joy on the Lucky Strike Dance Hour from Lotus Gardens in Cleveland on Thursday night, February 25 . . . "Our Family" Ed Harvey's clever sketch on KDKA is to be sponsored by a downtown department store starting next week . . . Alice White's "International Tango Orchestra" playing with the screen star at Loew's Penn Theater, has entertained on the Columbia System numerous times but never under that name.

Darrell V. Martin

Question a Day:

How many radio stations are there in the world?—K. McC., East Palestine, O.

Answer—Last count, 1,423. The United States has slightly less than half of the total—617 to be exact — as against 806 stations operating in 70 other countries.

* * *

Studio Lights

Date for the Pope's broadcast over NBC has been changed to Friday morning, Feb. 12, at 6 a. m.

John Philip Sousa is said to be the only resident in ritzy Park avenue, New York, with a radio in his bathroom . . . . it's been there for years and is used daily by the bandmaster for his morning exercises. . . .

Kate Smith clubs are now the rage in the Middle West, while "Myrt and Marge" clubs have invaded the East. . . .

Irvin Aaranson, whose "Commanders" first commanded attention on a Pittsburgh stage, is due on the cigaret dance hour Tuesday night, February 9. . . .

WSM's "Grand Old Opry" is to go network this Saturday.

Singin' Sam (Harry Frankel to all of us) is to be interviewed on WJAS tomorrow night at 5:15. . . .

Rudy Vallee is to have Sophie Tucker as a guest artist on Thursday, March 3 . . .

Carolyn Dickson, beautiful KDKA hostess, may vote next election . . . she's 21 today . . .

The man who imitates birds and animals to perfection on Carveth Wells' Thursday afternoon program (WCAE) is Purvis Pullen, of Akron O. . . . . .

When you hear an European program over either network, you may bet your earmuffs that it's costing somebody $1,000 an hour . . . that's the sum necessary to promote an event of this kind . . .

KQV welcomes the month of February with three cheers . . . A ruling by the Federal Radio Commission requiring the station to sign off at sunset is of distinct advantage to KQV this month, when the average time of sunset is 6:15 as against 5:30 of last month . . .

Talking of KQV reminds us that someone down there reported Charles Lawrence—"The Falcon"—dead . . . Imagine their surprise when Lawrence walked into the studio the other day, and using the famed words of Mark Twain, exclaimed: "The report of my death has been greatly exaggerated" . . . It was another Lawrence by the same name who died . . .

Ward Wilson impersonates "Phil Cook" on WJZ, WLW, WGAR at 6:30 tonight . . . Frances Langford, stage star, sings on WOR at 9 and Ben Bernie, whose horse "Hope You Like It" won recently in its first race, entertains as usual on WABC-WBBM at midnight . . .

Claude Morris is in Atlantic City, resting . . . Kay Donna, blues singer of WTAM, Cleveland, visited her parents here yesterday . . .

Opening of the World Disarmament Conference at Geneva is to be reported direct from the scene of action over CBS-WJAS tomorrow morning at 9:30. . .

Jack Kerr, musical comedy star, described as the "Voice of a Thousand Shades," is to be the soloist in a new CBS series featuring a 26-piece orchestra under the title, "Symphony of Color". . .

Eddie Cantor-ed home with one of the finest radio programs of his career last night . . . George Jessel fills in as "vice president-elect" starting next Sunday While Cantor makes faces at Klieg lights . . .

Dave Rubinoff and his laughing violin; Del Staigers, cornetist with Goldman's Band, interpreting the "Carnival of Venice"; Vincent Lopez, Guy Lombardo and Arthur Pryor are to be impersonated by Nat Shilkret and his orchestra on CBS-WJAS Wednesday night at 10:30 in a novelty medley of "Music That Satisfies".

Some Mothers Expect Too Much From Children

Does momma own Mamie?

Momma thinks she does.

Didn't she bring her up . . . "slave her fingers off" for her, ever since she was a baby?

Then why shouldn't she go on doing Mamie's thinking for her, planning her program, even though it's 23 long years since Mamie was a baby?

And mommie isn't alone in this delusion. Plenty of other mothers share the same idea about their "little girls."

And generally their Little Girls feel just as spunky and act just as spineless as Mamie's doing now.

So—it's quite a question. And if you like a grand row, here's your chance.

MOTHER TYRANNICAL

"Dear Sally:

"I have written letters to you before, but at the last moment I've always lost courage and torn them up. I thought I could stick things out, maybe. But I can't. I can't stand them any longer the way they are. I've got to have advice and help. So please don't throw this in the waste basket.

"I am 23 and live alone with my mother, who has supported me on her own ever since I was a very small child. Does that give her the right to think she owns me, body and soul?" She seems to think it does.

"I know she struggled hard to put me through school so I could take care of myself financially. But she has a tyrannical disposition which is most aggravating—and, I might add, hasn't helped my own disposition any. If I even express an opinion that isn't identical with hers, I am immediately squelched.

"My salary isn't large enough for us to have individual allowances, and as Mother in spite of looking young, is not strong enough to work now, I give her my whole check every pay day. The only spending money I get is what I earn for mending, doing her nails, and cleaning up the apartment. The mending at the rate of a cent a hole, and five cents each for the other jobs I mentioned.

NO BOY FRIEND

"Besides this, she wants to accompany me wherever I go. She even has said that if I didn't take her she'd follow me and sit on the doorstep. She says that if I ever have a boy friend she won't go with me. But how can I have one when I'm with her all the time? Once at the office, when I joshed about the supposed Boy Friend, one of the fellows said: 'Why, I didn't think you were that kind of a girl!'

"And, honestly, I haven't had one for four years! If I did have one to take me places and give me a little fun, the rest wouldn't seem so bad, but as it is I am nearly crazy. What shall I do? Won't you help me? I am desperate.

"MAMIE."

Can I help you? I don't know, Mamie. I can tell you how to help yourself. But whether you have the spunk to take that advice is up to you.

In the first place, you must stop thinking of mamma as a sort of supernatural being, with love and money and time. Mothers are just humans. Sometimes they're good humans—sometimes they are bad and silly humans. But the saintliest mother that ever lived was still a human to be judged and treated by regular human standards—no more, no less.

Your mother has actually "stifled" you through your sense of obligation. Obligation for what? She supported you. Well, the law would have made her, whether she wished to or not. And if she has a spark of decency in her, she was glad to support you and found her greatest joy in that service. Then why all this crabbing about what you owe her?

You owe her nothing save the decent consideration which any two people who live together owe each other.

There is no earthly reason why you should give her your whole pay check, and unless she's a bed-ridden invalid, it's up to her to do all the mending, clean the apartment and polish her own nails.

PERSONAL RIGHTS

And as for trailing you around whether you desire her company or not, it's outrageous, contemptible, dastardly and disgusting.

And you deserve every bit of it.

Yes, you do! If you won't respect your own rights, you needn't expect other people to respect them for you. Mothers are no exception to that rule. Mothers are just as capable of working selfish rackets as other females—particularly idle mothers with too much time on their hands.

So get going, my dear. First, stop giving your mother all your pay. If you're taking care of her, give her enough to run the house and a little for herself, and no more—or pay the bills yourself.

And then stop taking her everywhere you go. Tell her, kindly but firmly, that she owes you something above and beyond educating you—the freedom to live your own life, the life you were put here to live. And that it's up to her to give it to you. She'll probably stage a riot, with plenty of bleats n' moans n' howls, but stick to your guns.

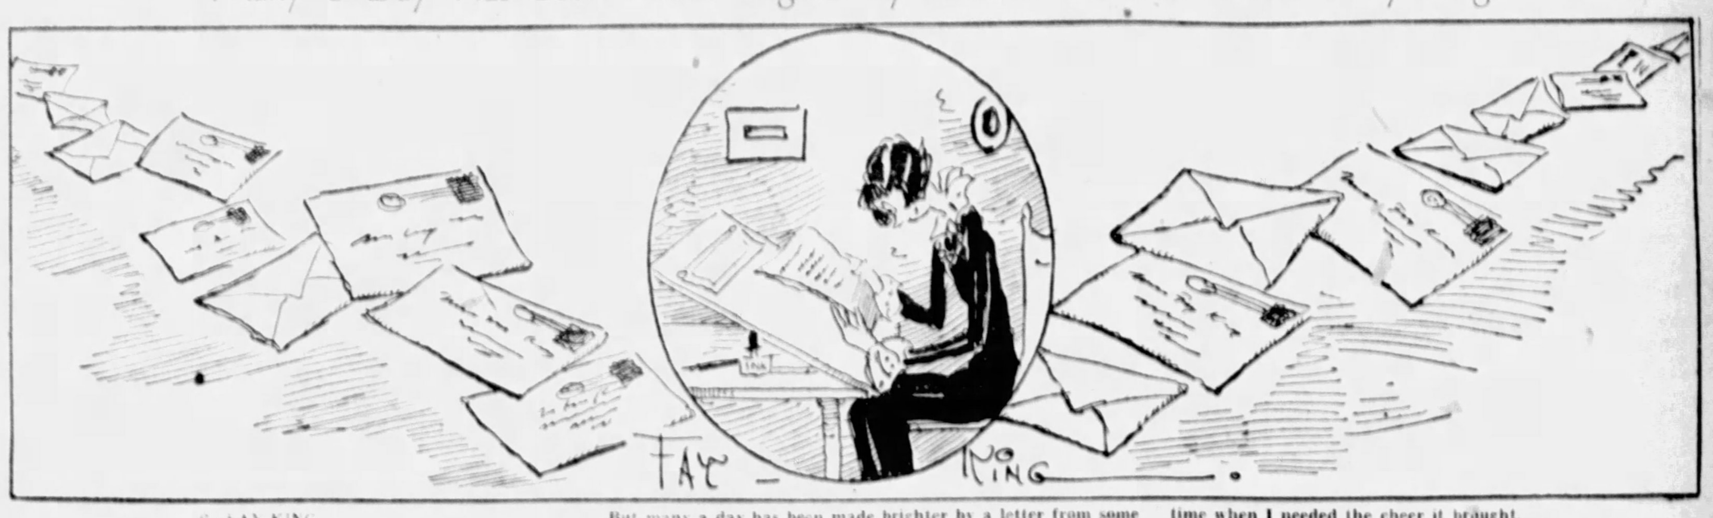
Many a Day Has Been Made Brighter by a Letter From a Reader—Fay King



By FAY KING.

On this day I want to devote my space to a word of thanks to those who so kindly have taken the time and trouble to write to me.

I could not always answer. Sometimes there was no address. Sometimes my days were too filled with work and other duties.

But many a day has been made brighter by a letter from some reader.

I recall one in particular. The letter began: "I know you receive hundreds of letters every day—"

It was the ONLY letter I received that day, and came at a time when I needed the cheer it brought.

If words of mine have sometimes helped a reader, so have the words from a reader often helped me.

I am grateful!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Giving a Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My sister is engaged and is to be married next month and I would like to give her a shower. She has already had one when the engagement was announced. Would a kitchen shower be proper. I am also to be matron of honor. Should I give her some other kind of shower?

2. Is it proper for me to invite her friends whom I have met but once? M.

1. Although there are not many "rules and regulations" about the giving of a shower, there is one suggestion about the giving of them that you should very definitely consider. This is the fact that too often when showers are given by members of the bride's own family, one "wonders" about its appropriateness. That is, there are many who are inclined to question the appropriateness of this hostessship, since its gives the appearance, often the very unpleasant appearance, of a definite "bid" for gifts. However, you must use your own judgment as to whether this point of view is an unfair or inappropriate one.

2. This, too, would seem to me inconsistent. Showers are supposed to be given by a close friend of the bride, or by a club to which she belongs, and the guests who are invited should also be close friends of the bride.

The Employer's Fiancee

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it customary for a girl to congratulate her employer's newly betrothed fiancee? She is to pay us a visit in the very near future, and I have never seen her before. What should I say? P. S.

It would, I believe, as far as you have outlined the circumstances, be in better form if you do not make any comment on the engagement.

Household Hints

Keep a small bottle of salt in the medicine closet and use it occasionally on your tooth brush instead of tooth paste. It has an invigorating effect on the gums and proves a splendid gargle or mouth wash when used in cold water.

Every vestige of string can be removed from the string beans if, after thoroughly washing, you will plunge them into boiling water for five minutes and then drain. Then see how readily the strings are removed.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Accuses Madge of Humiliating Him

Dicky turned from his magazine with such alacrity as I asked him if he wanted to read the finale of my third act, that I realized his apparent absorption in his reading had been only a pretense. He was as anxious to read the end of what I had written as I was to keep him from seeing it.

But I had realized that there was no use in postponing the evil hour which I feared would be mine when Dicky should discover that I subconsciously had used some of his traits, mannerisms, and witty speeches in the delineation of a "comedy relief" character in my play.

But it was with an apprehensive heart that I held out the remaining sheets of my third act to Dicky, and leaning back in my chair watched him tensely. Would he discover what I had unwittingly done? I put up a silent little appeal that his perceptions, usually so keen, might not be functioning as brilliantly as usual.

He read down the pages with the same cheerful attention he had given to the first half of the act. So well was my memory functioning, that I had a distinct picture before me of my pages and their numbers. I knew just what lines appeared on each page and by watching carefully and counting from the first page I had given him I was able to follow his eyes and know exactly what lines he was reading. For three or four pages there was no speech for my comedy character. Then he made his final appearance in the third act and three or four pages of manuscript were given up mostly to his lines.

With a sick little feeling at my heart I saw Dicky's eyebrows gradually nearing each other as he perused those pages, but he said nothing and read on to the end of the act without speaking.

As he took up the last page the act upon which there were but three or four lines, I gripped the arms of my chair so hard that my fingertips ached. But my suspense was not yet to be lifted, for he had no sooner finished the act than he turned back a page which I estimated was the one upon which the comedy character appeared, and read those pages again. When he had finished, what I judged to be the page upon which the character made his exit, he laid down the sheets carefully and looked over at me, his face dark and forbidding.

"What are you trying to do in this thing anyway," he asked, "make a monkey out of me?"

I gripped my courage with both hands. There was but one course I dared take and that was to pretend ignorance of his meaning. After all, I told myself, in an effort to placate my conscience, I had been in ignorance of what I had done up to the time that Dicky had stumbled upon the speech which I had paraphrased from one of his own concerning Jack Bickett's photograph.

I looked up at him with wide open eyes into which I tried to infuse bewilderment.

"I don't know what you mean," I faltered.

"Oh, yes, you do," he retorted and there was a certain snarling note in his voice which told me that he was fast working himself into one of his rages all too familiar to me in the early years of my married life, but of which I had seen nothing during the last year.

"But I don't, Dicky," I protested. "Do you mean that I've made a monkey of you by asking you to read this act? I didn't know it was as bad as all that."

But my pathetic attempt at histrionism fell flat. Dicky brushed it aside as though it had not been uttered.

"Don't stall!" he said, roughly. "I'm not in the mood for it. Do you mean to tell me that this piffling caricature of Vickers in your play hasn't just enough of my mannerisms and phraseology so that any of my friends couldn't help but spot him?"

"Dicky!" I almost shouted, "I never did! Show me where!"

I rose and walking over to him, picked up the pages of my third act.

He threw himself back in his chair like the baited victim of a cross-examination and looked at me with furious eyes.

"You don't need any showing," he said. "You know every syllable of this stuff."

I shed my incredulous manner and looked at him steadily.

"You are right," I said slowly. "I do know every syllable of this act, and I do not need to read them to remember the lines which Vickers speaks. And, as I run them over now, I can see that there is some basis for your strictures. But, I give you my word of honor and I expect you to take it, that I had no idea of paraphrasing any words of yours or of exploiting your mannerisms."

"Do you mean me to believe"—Dicky's voice was heavily sardonic—"that Lil is responsible for this particular piece of piffle?"

"No, no," I said vehemently. "Lillian had nothing to do with it. Every word in it is my own."

"Well! They're nothing to broadcast," he retorted childishly.

But the fury had ebbed from his voice, and I saw that my proffer of my "word of honor" had impressed him, though his natural stubbornness would not permit him to yield his point without protest.

"I suppose you mean me to believe,"—this with elaborate sarcasm—"that your subconscious mind dictated all this rot and that your conscious ego had nothing to do with it."

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Hearty Breakfast Good Way to Start Day Right

In their eating habits the old New Englanders were very wise men. When meal time came they knew what to do. Perhaps they did not know the exact reason for taking this or that food, but their good common sense rarely failed.

Dr. Copeland

Even today one finds that a great many New Englanders live up to the rule of their forefathers: "Food is gold in the morning, silver at noon, and lead at night." At the first meal of the day heaping dishes of fish, meat, potatoes, eggs, pie and bread are served; at noon less is served, while the night meal is rather frugal.

What could be better than a hot, wholesome meal in the morning? The human body is relaxed after several hours of sleep, the organs are functioning at minimum speed, and the temperature of the body is considerably lowered. There must be a stimulus to rouse the body to action. Hot food not only raises the temperature to almost running speed, but it gives the digestive organs something upon which to work.

If a person is consistent about eating a good breakfast, he will not suffer from lowered resistance. Lack of breakfast results, in the early riser, certainly, in quite a tax upon the reserve forces of the body. Continual taxation eventually uses up all the reserve, and when that is gone the power to throw off colds and disease is greatly lessened.

It really is a pity that modern life, particularly in the cities, has made the midnight supper a popular meal. I am sure this is a mistake. It may be very well on an occasion to take a chance on such a meal, but not habitually. In many instances, the sleep is interfered with and the organs of digestion are not given their fair share of the rest and recuperation which comes with sleep.

If one does eat a hearty meal late at night, there is not that eagerness for food which should be the case at breakfast time. A good meal in the morning is in every sense the foundation of the day's work. Such a meal will "stick to the ribs" long enough so that the midday meal will not be an enormous one. If the midday meal is too big, it means sleepiness and unwillingness to work in the afternoon.

There can be no doubt that the individual element enters into the matter of eating. In most instances, however, this is largely a matter of habit.

If we teach childen the importance of an unhurried and substantial meal in the morning, it will result in an eating practice which will [illegible]ntinued through life. Health and resistance to disease, will be promoted by this habit.

ALICE WHITE BROADCASTING TWICE TODAY

Star, Answering Readers Of Sun-Telegraph, Tells Of Life in Hollywood

Alice White, screen star appearing here in person, will broadcast twice today over WCAE, answering questions on the movies asked by readers of the Sun-Telegraph. Her first broadcast will be from 5:30 to 5:45 p. m., and the second at 11:15 p. m. on the Sun-Telegraph's Night Club.

Jack Keough will be master of ceremonies and in addition to Miss White, the program will feature Ted Claire, Burns and Kissen, the Phelps Twins, Jerry and Her Baby Grands and Lois Miller, all headliners on the bill with Miss White at Loew's Penn Theater.

Miss White's first radio talk Saturday night developed an interesting discussion of movie personalities. Asked to choose the 10 greatest actors, the blonde screen star named Greta Garbo, Norma Shearer, Marie Dressler, Marion Davies and Claudette Colbert for the women, and Wallace Beery, James Cagney, George Arliss, Frederic Marsh and little Jackie Cooper for the men.

Some of the questions Miss White will answer in today's two broadcasts are:

"How can one get a chance in the movies?"

"What is the secret of Clark Gable's appeal to women?"

"What do you think are the 10 greatest pictures ever made?"

"What is the real story of how you got your start in pictures?"

Miss White will make several other broadcasts over WCAE during her stay in Pittsburgh. Readers desiring her to answer their questions over the radio should write to Alice White, care of the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, and she will take up the queries in the order received.

2 WOMEN, MAN HURT IN TAXIS

Two women and a man was injured early today when two taxicabs crashed at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street.

Helen Snyder, 19, of 818 East Ohio street, and George Gambeste, 21, of 3525 Forbes street, passengers in the cab driven by John Diamond, 30, of 710 Arch street, were removed to the Mercy Hospital suffering from minor injuries.

Gertrude Simon, 22, a Negro, of 809 Charles street, a passenger in the cab driven by Lee C. Davis, of 1249 Walnut street, Turtle Creek, was admitted to the Mercy Hospital suffering from severe body bruises and head cuts. Both drivers were arrested.

Rosenwald Paid Tribute by Einstein

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein was honor guest at memorial services here yesterday for the late Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist. More than 750 Negroes packed the Scott Methodist Episcopal Church to hear the German scientist and honor the memory of Rosenwald for his benefactions to their race.

Dr. Einstein pleaded for racial tolerance and international peace in a brief address.

Sleuths to Scan 2 Verona Suspects

County Detectives Sam Wissner and Leo Dunn were to go today to Youngstown, O., to investigate two men held in connection with the robbery of the Allegheny Valley Trust Company, Verona, in which Cashier Charles M. McFarland was killed. Two men, Mat Hadok and Mike Mamula, were arrested by the Youngstown police on information from Pittsburgh, detectives said.

Rector Urges Help Of Weak by Strong

As members of the human family are responsible for one another, in times of adversity the strong should help bear the burdens of the weak, declared the Rev. Dr. E. J. Van Etten at the morning service yesterday in the Calvary Episcopal Church. His subject was a "Stiff Upper Lip." He said

"The secret of keeping a stiff upper lip is in learning to keep courage and count what you have rather than what you have not. It is a fact that fresh situations call forth new energy."

Aimee, Mate Sail, Tired of Life As Gold Fish

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aimee McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist, and her husband, David Hutton, sailed here last night on a belated six-weeks' honeymoon trip to Central America and Havana.

They eloped by airplane to Yuma, Ariz., and were married last summer, but their evangelistic work in Los Angeles Temple has kept them occupied since. Mrs. Hutton said:

"We have just been gold fish. We want to have a little privacy and do a lot of resting."

Girl Finds Father Hit-Run Victim

BECKLEY, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Wilda Bailey rescued a hit-run driver's victim last night to find that he was her father.

Dr. E. P. Bailey attempted to stop a passing automobile on a road near here to get some gasoline for his car, officers said. The motorist apparently did not heed the doctor's signal and struck him. The next car that passed was driven by Wilda Bailey, who brought her unconscious father to a hospital. Physicians expected him to die.

GUFFEY PLEADS FOR PRIMARY DECISION

Scores 'Stop Roosevelt' Campaign, Tells Foes to Let Voters Decide Issue

Joseph F. Guffey, chief backer in Pennsylvania of the presidential aspirations of Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York's Democratic Governor, today invited friends of all other Democratic candidates to enter their names on the state primary ballot next April. Guffey, former national committeeman, headed a group of Roosevelt supporters who Saturday filed petitions in Harrisburg to place the New Yorker in the primary race.

The Pittsburgh Democrat attacked what he termed a "Stop Roosevelt" movement. He said:

"There are quite a number of splendid Democrats spoken of as candidates, and the admirers of each may place their names on the Pennsylvania primary ballot by filing the required number of petitions.

"But what the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania will not welcome or permit in my opinion is a 'stop Roosevelt' campaign carried on in subtle and devious ways to deceive the voter as to what is really behind the movement. Let each candidate come out in the open, present his cause honestly and honorably, and if this is done I am sure the result will find every member of the party ready to support it through to victory in November."

Guffey quoted Woodrow Wilson in support of the primary system of choosing presidential candidates, the late president observing that conventions should determine nothing but party platforms, and adding that "nominations should be made directly by the people at the polls."

ETNA BUTCHER SHOOTS PAIR, FOILS HOLDUP

2 Other Suspects Seized; Robbers Overpower Man in Home, Take $1,300 Loot

Two youths shot in an alleged attempt to hold up the butcher shop of Dave Cubbage, 45, of Kittanning street, Etna, were in St. Francis Hospital today and two others were held in the county jail. The bullet victims were Sam Michaels, 22, and Carl Hollfelder, 19, of Dorseyville. The other suspects were Charles Michaels, 25, and Joseph Meyer, both of Allison Park.

According to a police report, the four entered the Cubbage shop Saturday night and one fired at the proprietor when he resisted the holdup. While Cubbage's nephew, Ralph Trew, grappled with one of the men, Cubbage returned the fire, wounding Hoelfelder and Sam Michaels. The others fled but were captured.

The police reported leg irons were placed on the two men in the hospital after Michaels tried to escape.

GIRL CLERK MENACED

Two men who entered the Hiland Dairy Store, 727 East Ohio street, threatened Mrs. Anne Vilsack, 21, a clerk, with revolvers, and escaped with $19 and a $90 wrist watch, police said.

Edward Mache, 61, of 708 Sandusky street, told police he beat off two holdup men who attacked him near his home. In the struggle, Mache said, one of them seized his watch, but he recovered it.

William Schmeltz, of 283 South Millvale avenue, reported robbers who overpowered him in his home, fled with a safe containing $300 and jewels valued at $1,000.

ROBBED IN WAREHOUSE

Mike Davis, James Totino and Joseph Wassoff, of Elm street, told detectives four armed men who held them up in a sugar and yeast warehouse in Elm street, where they are employed, escaped after taking $300 and a ring.

Two armed men in an automobile took $43 from A. Taurig, of Glendale, after forcing him to stop his machine while he was driving in Diamond street near Sherman avenue, North Side, police said.

Morris Horowitz told police that bandits who held him up in his store at 321 Robinson street, escaped after taking $123 from the cash register.

EXPLOSION, FIRE ROUT NINE IN HAZELWOOD

Flames Sweep Block of Seven Buildings After Explosion in Shoe Shop

Two families were routed from their homes when a two-alarm fire that followed an explosion raged through seven adjoining two-story frame buildings in the business block of Second avenue, near Hazelwood avenue, early today.

An immediate investigation was begun by city detectives into the explosion that blew the front out of the building occupied by the shoe repair shop of Nancio LaRosa, 4858 Second avenue.

The blast rocked the district as Hazelwood firemen were fighting a small blaze two blocks away. Oakland and East End firemen responded to an emergency alarm, and a second call was sent when the fire gained headway.

Flames leaped from the building immediately following the explosion and spread rapidly into those adjoining the shoe repair shop on either side.

The business establishments damaged by the fire other than LaRosa's shop, were Thomas Cooloochi's barber shop, 4860 Second avenue; the restaurant of Mike Orkirlas, 4862 Second avenue; the hat cleaning place of Louis Floratos, 4900 Second avenue; the tailor shop of L. Caplan, 4904 Second avenue, and the confectionery of Harry Abrams, 4906 Second avenue.

Albert Cromie, who lives on the second floor of 4904 Second avenue, led his wife, Mary, and their daughter, Sarah, 8, to safety. Mrs. May Taylor, who lives with the Crombie family, was also forced out. Charles Clark, his wife, Bertha, and their children, William, 5, and Robert, 4, of 4906 Second avenue, fled to safety.

HITS DUQUESNE, WEST PENN CHARGES

Dividends Exceed 7 Per Cent Allowed, Lang Points Out; Action Up to Waldschmidt

Charging that rates of the Duquesne Light Company and the West Penn Power Company for electric current here are excessive, Assistant City Solicitor Charles P. Lang said yesterday he favored a test case against the companies to reduce the charges. Lang is in charge of public utilities litigation for the city.

An appropriation by Council of at least $20,000 would be necessary to start the work, Lang said, but declared it was not his prerogative to make the recommendations. Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, whose task it would be to recommend an appropriation, is ill.

HIGH PROFITS SHOWN

Favoring 7 per cent dividends to stockholders, as set by the Public Service Commission, Lang pointed out that the figures of the commission for 1930, the latest available, disclosed profits of 10.46 per cent for West Penn Company. Light costs more to Duquesne Company customers than to those of the West Penn. In 1930, according to the commission's figures, the Duquesne Company's dividend was 10.08 per cent.

Public utilities organizations, according to reports issued by the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry and the United States Department of Labor, have not reduced their rates proportionately to the decline in living costs.

Filing of a rate test case before the Public Service Commission is an expensive task, Lang said, continuing:

"At least $20,000 would be needed to start proceedings. The burden of proof that the rates are exorbitant would rest on the city. Services of expert accountants and engineers would be necessary to investigate the assets, value of plants and rates compared with other cities. Experts cost from $50 to $100 a day, but in the long run the expenditure would be well worth it."

Power and lights rates are fixed by the commission, Lang said, on the present market value of companies and not the original plant investment. This is based on a Supreme Court opinion, he pointed out.

SEES "POLITICAL" AIM

Asked if he had attended any meetings in the city, called to seek legislation for rate relief, Lang declared:

"I haven't attended the meetings because I feel they are purely political. As far as I can learn, one of their prime objects is to interrogate prospective candidates on their stand on utilities legislation."

Those favoring reduction in power and light rates feel that now, when earnings of other large organizations are reduced, the dividend payments of utilities are excessive. The companies, it is asserted, through adroit financing, pay dividends much larger than the 7 per cent permitted by the Public Service Commission.

STRIKERS BACK AT SCHOOL

The Pitcairn High School strikers returned to their classes today, according to Supervisor C. C. Pearsall.

The pupils had been striking since last Wednesday in protest of the resignation of Clifford Weight, the mathematics instructor. Weight left the school Friday and today was succeeded by George Dice, of Avalon.

Jack Almond, 17, and Paul St. Clair, 17, school senior, who were arrested during the strike were scheduled to be arraigned tonight before Justice of the Peace William G. Hoehl on charges growing out of alleged mischievous acts. It was rumored the charges would be dropped.

Epiphany to Hold Lyceum Benefit

A minstrel and musical revue by the young men and women of Epiphany and adjoining parishes will be given Thursday and Friday nights in the Epiphany Catholic Church auditorium for the benefit of the Pittsburgh Lyceum. In the cast are three sons of Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh, Lawrence and Joseph Walsh, end men, and Dr. Michael Walsh, interlocutor. Leading parts will be taken by Thomas Lysaght and David O'Rourke.

Duquesne Resumes Classes Thursday

Classes at Duquesne University will be resumed Thursday morning, following a three-day suspension to allow second semester registrations, John B. Harvey, registrar, announced today.

"Thomas Aquinas," a new course in scholastic philosophy, will be offered each Friday of the second semester by the Rev. Dr. James F. Carroll, vice president of the university.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

PARIS, Feb. 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Bad flying weather kept us out of Berlin. We had better quit writing notes to Japan or she will have all China. Every time they get a note they take another town that they hadn't thought of till our note give 'em the idea. Quit writing and warning 'em what not to do. Wait till they do something that will really affect us. This war was originally private, just between them and China. The way we got in the last war was through notes. We send so many that nations can't tell which one we mean. Our wars ought to be labelled "entered on account of too much penmanship."

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

HEINROTH ENDS CONCERTS HERE

Before a capacity audience of music lovers and admirers, Dr. Charles Heinroth played his last free organ recital in Carnegie Music Hall yesterday.

Dr. Heinroth left Pittsburgh last night for New York to take up his duties as head of the music department of City College.

The veteran organist has been conducting the free recitals in the music hall since 1907 when Andrew Carnegie provided for them. He designed the organ.

Dr. Heinroth was also an instructor at Carnegie Tech and the organist of the Third Presbyterian Church.

GRIDIRON FETE PLAN ENLARGED

Demand for reservations for the first annual gridiron dinner in the William Penn Hotel Saturday night has compelled officers of Amen Corner to rearrange their plans and engage a larger banquet hall in the hotel. The change will permit acceptance of an additional 150 reservations, Fred E. Obley, secretary, announced today.

Because of the limited number of seats available, Obley urged everyone planning to attend to communicate with him immediately at Amen Corner, William Penn Hotel. Reservations cannot be made later than Wednesday morning. Many public personages will appear on the program, being prepared by Pittsburgh newspapermen.

Church to Observe St. Blase Feast

Epiphany Catholic Church on Wednesday will observe the Feast of St. Blase, martyred in the year 316. Throats will be blessed at the church, in Washington place, after the 6:30, 7:30 and 8 o'clock, and at 12:30, 3 and 7:45 p. m.

St. Blase, according to Catholic teaching, was, after his martyrdom, awarded with the power to heal and prevent throat diseases.

Might as Well Send Japanese Notes to China

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We'll give Secretary Stimson some frugal advice.

Stop sending notes to the Japs. Send 'em to the Chinese. They're losing and will pay some attention to 'em.

Gen. Dawes is a belligerent old fugitive. When they asked him if he wanted to go to China, he said:

"War's getting effeminate. I'll take the job on Hoover's finance board. There'll be more fighting there."

If you want a Zep the Navy will give you the Los Angeles. All you've got to do is board and feed it.

Congress will keep the Akron. It doesn't fly, steers like a bow-legged mule and collapses on a handshake. But it's a perfect aircraft for senatorial investigations.

That's all the news except that 10,000 soldiers were dropped from the U. S. Army. And that ain't news any more.

POLICE BEATING CHARGE SIFTED

Inspector Charles Cahill today was investigating charges that Edward Dugan, 24, of 5106 Baum boulevard, who was taken to West Penn Hospital for treatment following his arrest as a suspected robber, was severely beaten by police.

Dugan, suspected by police of having been one of three men who robbed the Star Market, 101 Twenty-fourth street, was arrested last week. His sister, Julia Dugan, said that her brother was taken to the station and beaten.

Police said Dugan was injured when he tried to escape from the Penn Avenue Police Station. Before his attempted escape he tried to throw away the keys of an automobile which was said to have answered the description of the machine used in the holdup, police reported.

Clothing on Fire, Woman, 78, Dies

Mrs. Emma P. Martin, 78, of 327 Lydia street, Carnegie, died early today in the Presbyterian Hospital from burns suffered yesterday when her clothing caught fire in her home. Her clothing ignited while she was standing near a gas stove, according to a coroner's report.

South Hills Italians Set Dance for Feb. 8

The South Hills Italian Club will hold a masked ball in their clubrooms, 502 Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, February 8. Door prizes will be distributed. Arrangements for the dance are in charge of Joseph Cuda, president of the club, and Alfonso Cancilla, vice president.

STEALS PISTOL TO KILL WIFE

A stolen revolver was used by Joseph Becker, 33, of Turtle Creek, according to a farewell note, to kill his estranged wife, Marie, 28, last night and himself, according to police. Becker died early today, as police found this note in his overcoat:

"I stole this gun off Barney Heid. Bury us together in Turtle Creek."

Police have not yet identified Heid.

Becker fired at his wife, police say, because she refused to accompany him today to a hospital where their daughter, Anne Martha, 6, was to undergo an operation.

Mrs. Becker, police were told, refused to accompany her husband because he attacked her with a knife last Friday.

The shooting occurred in the residence of her brother-in-law, Henry Tucker, 244 Alter way, where Mrs. Becker was visiting.

Mrs. Becker died a few minutes later in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Anna Winter.

Anne Martha has been ill for the past week, Mrs. Winter said. She has been crying for her mother, who has been separated from Becker since last May.

The father, who has Anne Martha and two other children, William 12, and Agnes, 8, living with him in Turtle Creek, was seeking reconciliation, police were told.

BABY IN COURT BRINGS REPROOF

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today scored Joseph Haas, held for court charged with arson in connection with the fire, January 25, at his home, 38 Bellplain avenue, Carrick. As Haas approached the bench carrying a baby in his arms, Rothenberg told him there were enough women in the courtroom to take care of the baby.

Detectives of the bomb and arson squad, who investigated the fire which followed an explosion causing $500 damage, testified the gas jets were turned on in the kitchen after fire had been extinguished. Haas denied this testimony.

Vote Cases Passed By New Grand Jury

The February grand jury, sworn in today, will not complete the vote tax fraud investigation made by the September and October juries, it was indicated.

Judge Elder W. Marshall, in charging the 14 women and eight men, stated that they had power to conduct investigations but have no special instructions.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said his aides, still working on the vote cases, would not be ready to report for several weeks.

McKeesport Delays Policeman's Hearing

Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, today indefinitely postponed the scheduled public hearing of Thomas Baugh, suspended traffic policeman, because of the inability of the city solicitor to attend. Baugh was suspended by Police Chief John J. Whalen on complaint of Pete Phillips that the policeman had taken $22 from the cash register in his restaurant, September 12.

THIEVES CRACK THEATER SAFE

Thieves forced the fire door of the Triangle Theater, Frankstown avenue and Station street, East Liberty, early today, knocked the combination off the safe in the manager's office, and escaped with $638, according to a police report.

The theft was discovered by Patrolman John Bauer, who noticed the open doors. The manager, Charles Johnston, was notified.

TESTS GIVEN POLICEMEN

Pittsburgh's policemen today began lifting weights, climbing ladders and other exercises to demonstrate their physical fitness in the Civil Service rooms, City-County Building.

Dr. Daniel E. Sable and his assistant, Thomas M. Clark, made a thorough examination of each officer as the first group of the 1,200 men on the force were put through their annual test.

The tests may result in permanent retirement on pension of some of the older men. One hundred and sixty, furloughed December 31, returned to duty today, while a similar number began a month's layoff without pay, in keeping with the economy drive. Seventy-three firemen also began a month's vacation as the same number returned to work.

Father Offers $780 For Kidnaped Baby

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Thomas Aguilar, whose baby daughter was kidnaped last Monday, has offered a reward of 2,000 pesos ($780) for the child's safe return. Police have followed several clues but thus far without success.

Atlantic Ocean 'Bridge' Of Seadromes Pictured

A bridge across the Atlantic Ocean, facilitating trans-oceanic flying and making possible closer contact between the people of Europe and America, will be a reality in the near future if present plans mature, Capt. Hugh Duncan Grant, formerly of the British Naval Air Service, said in an illustrated lecture at Carnegie Lecture Hall last night.

The bridge would consist of eight seadromes 400 miles apart across the Atlantic, constructed at a cost of $32,000,000. They would be built to trail with the wind and waves, offering no resistance, and to remain steady through all weather conditions. Each would be equipped with mechanical service, a radio station, whether station, hotel, a branch of the New York Stock Exchange with ticker service and a beauty parlor, Grant said.

The "islands," to be built 80 feet above the water, would be 1,100 feet long and 340 feet wide. The project is being undertaken by private interests in America and Europe, and construction on the first seadrome, the Langley, has already begun, he said.

WIND LASHES RIVERS HERE; TWO HURT

Loaded Barges Collide In Monongahela; Five Rescued From Dredger

Two men were injured, one seriously, and five others escaped with their lives in three river accidents yesterday. The high wind, swift current and high water were responsible for the accidents, rivermen said.

When two loaded steel barges ripped from the tow of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's steamer Beacon, below Lock No. 1 on the Monongahela River, Clyde Milligan, 58, watchman of the fleet of the Helen C. Towing Company, was injured as the wild barges plowed into those upon which he was working.

Robert Lynch, 45, of 15 Washington avenue, Dravosburg, was hurt seriously, his legs being crushed in a writhing steel cable as he attempted to tie up a towboat in the Monongahela River.

Five men on the dummy sand digger Star, of the Pittsburgh Gravel Company, were rescued from their perilous position on a barge after they had abandoned the sinking digger, in the Ohio River at Brunot's Island. The men were taken aboard the Jones & Laughlin towboat Titian.

When the two loaded steel barges of the tow of the Beacon broke loose below Lock No. 1 and jammed into the fleet of the Helen C. Towing Company, the collision threw members of the crew from their bunks. Milligan was injured in his efforts to secure the barges and the rest of the tow. The barges were captured by the steamer Cruiser of the same line, which answered the Beacon's distress signal.

OLD BRADDOCK HOTEL BURNS AFTER BLAST

Four Hurt, Glass Cutting Passersby; Police Probe Destruction of Landmark

While four persons were reported recovering today, Braddock police and firemen were investigating a blast and fire which early yesterday destroyed the unoccupied Central Hotel, Braddock's oldest landmark, and damaged four stores in the 900 block, Braddock avenue. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

Joseph McDonough, 25, and his brothers, Lawrence, 24, and Raymond, 16, of 811 Bell avenue, North Braddock, were treated in the Braddock General Hospital, cut by flying glass while passing the building on their way to church. Thomas Ladas, 926 Braddock avenue, Braddock, was struck by an electric cable. He was treated at the hospital.

D. P. Londas, 901 Braddock avenue, his wife, Catharine, and their two children, George, 12, and Sophia, 10, were thrown from their beds by the blast, the origin of which could not be determined.

Several stores in the vicinity were damaged by the fire and blast. The Central Hotel, a three-story brick building, was more than 50 years old, and has been unoccupied for several years.

PAUL STREB'S SMALL TRUCK . . . . UPSET IN COLLISION THAT WRECKED POLICE TELEPHONE

Paul Streb, 18, 4826 Gharlwood street, Ross Township, suffered severe lacerations today when this small truck was upset in a collision with another car at Beech and Galveston avenues. The other car also struck a pole, knocking the police telephone more than 40 feet.

Driver Posts Bond In Crash Charge

Lawrence J. Stapf, of 1609 Chislett street, today posted $500 bond after being arrested by Highway Patrolman R. C. Brown. On December 6, police say his machine was in a collision with the auto driven by Isadore Hollander of near Butler, in which Mrs. Anna Goldberg was severely injured.

Fire Destroys Home In Versailles Twp.

Fire believed to have been caused by a gas explosion, destroyed a two-story store and dwelling at 941 State road, Bryn Mawr, Versailles Township, last midnight. The first floor was occupied by Joseph Berry as a shoe store, and the second floor by Fred Berry, a brother. Both men were absent. Firemen estimated the damage at $4,000.

Quarrels With Girl, Youth Kills Himself

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Desperate and despondent after a quarrel with his sweetheart, Kenneth Eagle, 19, today shot and killed himself. The youth, a recent graduate of the General Motors Engineering Institute here, in a note left for his father said: "Lots of love to the best girl I ever loved."

Suspect in 1929 Store Thefts Held

Sol Weisberg, 21, 1718 Colwell street, taken to the Bertillon room at detective headquarters late Saturday to identify persons suspected of holding up the sugar and yeast plant of Mike Demas, Elm street and Bustrick way, was identified, detectives say, as the man indicted in 1929 for several chain-store robberies. This was testified to today at a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, at which Weisberg was held for court.

Druggists Guarantee the New Vick "Cold-Control" Plan

Backed by Makers of Vicks VapoRub in the Confidence That Plan Will Reduce the Number, Severity and Duration of Colds.

TO CUT COSTS OF COLDS

Here is good news to those who catch cold easily. The makers of Vicks VapoRub—family standby in millions of homes—have developed a Plan for better "Control-of Colds." It is a practical Plan—workable in every home. And so confident are Vick Chemists that this Plan will reduce the number, severity and duration of colds, that they have authorized every druggist in the United States to make the following guaranteed trial offer:

Your Druggist's Proposition

Get a bottle of the new Vick discovery—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea for "preventing" colds. Use it with Vicks VapoRub—the modern way of "treating" colds—as directed below in the Vick Plan. Unless you are delighted with results—(a reduction of your "Colds-Tax" in money, loss of time and health)—your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold—such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy, ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as overeating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when your are overtired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with the ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment, and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets digestion — especially of children.

SLAYER OF GIRL DIES IN CHAIR

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Buoyed up by a religious fervor, Joseph Kosh, 27, paid the supreme penalty in Pennsylvania's death chair today for the underworld slaying of Victoria Smolinsky at Scranton on November 28, 1930.

Kosh, who previously had maintained his innocence and had attempted suicide in his cell when the "breaks" went against him, cleared his conscience by a full confession and went almost indifferently to his doom today.

Preceded by the Rev. Francis McCreash, prison chaplain, Kosh paced the few steps from his cell in murderers' row to the little gray door, mumbling responses from the litany for the dying.

His explanation of the murder was that he "gave the woman the works when she double-crossed me."

C. E. BRANCH TO STAGE PLAY

The Wilkinsburg Branch Christian Endeavor, including members from 30 churches, will present a comedy-drama, "The Winning of Joy," February 5, in Wilkinsburg High School auditorium. Helen Pommer, chairman of the music and drama committee, is assisted by Melvin Saw.

Mr. Thirkell.

Margaret Sirvan Chalmers, Stowe and Ewing Lambert have the three principal parts. Others in the cast include Dana Cory, Thomas Thirkell, Ivan Love, Frances Hanna, Helen Lose, Jane Shuler, Florence Reiter and William Strohman.

CONDUCTOR DIES ON P. R. R. TRAIN

Stricken suddenly after leaving the Pennsylvania Railroad Station aboard the New York bound Mercantile Express, Charles A. Howard, 64, of 7117 Race street, veteran conductor, died last night as the train reached Braddock.

Mr. Howard, who was with the Pennsylvania system for 45 years, ran on through trains between Pittsburgh and Altoona for several years.

He had been a resident of Pittsburgh 30 years, coming here from Williamstown, Pa., where he was born. He was a life member of the B. P. O. Elks No. 11 and a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Clara Galloway Howard, one daughter, Mrs. Helen H. Smith, of Wheeling, and a son, William C. Howard, at home.

Designer of Akron Returns to America

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Dr. Karl Arnstein, of the Goodyear-Zeppelin works, who designed the Akron, arrived on the Hamburg, after two months in Europe. He declined to comment on the controversy over the airworthiness of the Akron.

Pennsy Mail Theft Man Hunt Widens

Postoffice Inspector George V. Craighead today is directing a nation-wide search for $12,500 that was stolen from a mail pouch on a Pennsylvania Railroad train between Hawkins and Roup. The pouch was opened with a key.

The cash had been shipped by the First National Bank of Export and was consigned to the Federal Reserve branch in Pittsburgh. A suspect whose name was not divulged was questioned yesterday, but the man refused to talk.

Woman Doctor, 107, Again Visits City

Dr. Charlotte Goller Davenport, a traveler at the age of 107, has returned to Pittsburgh to renew old acquaintances.

Dr. Davenport was born a Russian countess and became a princess at the age of 15 by her first marriage, to Prince De Goller.

She visited Pittsburgh four years ago on a lecture tour, and has been in Copenhagen recently pursuing medical study.

OBITUARY

Robert P. Maloney.

Funeral services for Robert P. Maloney, formerly vice president and general manager of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, at Thomas, W. Va., and connected with the mining industry at Punxsutawney, Pa., will be held in Punxsutawney on Friday morning. He suffered a heart attack in a New York railroad station last week and died two days later. At the time of his death he was general manager of the Dominion Coal and Steel Company, at Sidney, Nova Scotia.

Groff Funeral

Funeral services for Charles J. Groff, who died Friday in his home, 220 Luray street, will be held today in the Church of the Annunciation, Norwood avenue. Mr. Groff leaves his widow, three sons, William J., Edward J. and George F. Groff, two daughters, Miss Mary R. and Mrs. Helen Dillon; two sisters, Mrs. William Gerdes, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. J. Hartman, of Iowa, and a brother, George Groff.

THIS COUGH SYRUP IS SAFE FOR CHILDREN

SO MANY cough syrups must rely on DOPE for their results. Dope—that means opium—morphine—chloroform—ether—and other drugs.

Smith Brothers' Triple Action Cough Syrup contains NO DOPE. Not a trace of it. Instead of dope, the far more effective—but SAFE—principle of "Triple Action" does the work. It (1) soothes the throat, (2) loosens phlegm, (3) clears air passages . . . Even a stubborn cough stops—fast! . . . Children (and husbands) like the taste! Only 35c.

"Please Let Me Alone"

Out of sorts . . . disagreeable? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped so many women whose nerves are frayed by those dreadful "monthly" headaches.

At the first "Sneeze"! take ALKA-SELTZER

The New Alkaline Way to Treat COLDS!

There is always a BEST way to do anything, and here is the best way to treat a cold. At the first "sneeze" — step into the nearest drug store and get a package of ALKA-SELTZER Tablets. (Use the coupon below and get a 25 cent package for only 10 cents) Then and there take one or two tablets in a glass of water. They make a pleasing effervescent drink. Follow the directions on page 9 of the little booklet that comes in each package, and you too, will say that this new Alkaline way is the BEST way to treat a cold you have ever tried.

Try This New Alkaline Way

ALKA-SELTZER is an entirely new method for the relief and treatment of Colds, also headache, sour stomach, indigestion, gas on stomach, rheumatic, neuritic and everyday aches and pains. It supplies what Health Authorities now call the "Alkaline reserve" — so necessary to a healthy condition of the stomach and body. Much of the activity in the body produces acids. Most of us eat too many acid-forming foods. Our systems are usually in an excess acid condition, which makes us easy prey to colds, sour stomach, gas on stomach and many other common ailments.

Keep Up Your "Alkaline Reserve"

ALKA-SELTZER Tablets are a most effective way to re-build the alkaline reserve in your body. They give DOUBLE relief. FIRST, they relieve the pain and stuffed-up feeling — then, they correct the EXCESS ACID condition that usually causes the trouble. A tablet of ALKA-SELTZER in a glass of water makes a sparkling anti-acid drink — a bubbling glassful of the alkaline minerals you need to build up the alkaline reserve and help put your system in a position to counteract colds, sore throat, headaches, sour stomach, indigestion, and most other everyday ailments.

Don't Neglect a Cold

It's dangerous. Attack it at the "first sneeze." Don't let it fasten its grip — fight it at the start with ALKA-SELTZER. Slow down — rest — go to bed for a day or so if you can — keep warm — cut out acid foods — and you will soon get rid of your cold. You'll like this new way to treat colds and other aches and pains. ALKA-SELTZER Tablets make a clear, sparkling, pleasant, anti-acid drink — harmless but effective and prompt in relief. You'll be delighted with them.

Be sure to use the coupon below and get your first package to try, for only 10 cents, at any drug store.

GARNER HAILED AS CANDIDATE IN INDIANA

Head of Congressional Delegation Lauds Speaker As Party's Standard Bearer

Under the heading "Jack Garner for President, Boom Gaining Weight With Democrats," the Terre Haute (Ind.) Star on January 26 published the following dispatch from its Washington correspondent.)

By EVERETT C. WATKINS
Terre Haute Star Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—He is no longer Jack Garner, of Uvalde, Tex.

Speaker Garner has become a national figure.

There is increasing talk among Democrats, especially among members of Congress, that this is a year when a Jacksonian type of Democrat could command the most votes for President.

Jack Garner, in the opinion of many, is the homespun, rough and ready commoner, a Jacksonian type who would make a big appeal to the common man as the party standard bearer.

Garner hails from a vast Texas district that is famous for production of honey, but the presidential bee is a new species making its appearance in the southwestern state. Jack himself has not yet been stung by it, but he is being exposed to its buzzing.

RECRUIT GAINED

Today the Garner-for-President movement, at first launched as a compliment to "Texas Jack," but now gaining enough momentum to be regarded seriously, gained a recruit in Indiana.

Representative Harry C. Canfield, leader of the Indiana Democratic congressional delegation, has come out as a missionary, if not as a champion, in favor of Jack Garner's nomination. Other Indiana Democratic leaders are said to have been attracted to Garner, but Canfield is the first to make a public declaration calling attention to Jack Garner's availability.

"Speaker Garner, admired by all who know him both because of his rare ability as well as his engaging personal qualities, is a national figure who, as presidential nominee, would become the idol of democracy," commented Representative Canfield.

JACKSONIAN DEMOCRAT

"Jack Garner is a Jacksonian Democrat who is a courageous leader. He is the type of leader needed today. His sympathies are with the common people. He is practical and sound in the principles of government he advocates. He appeals to the man in the street and the business man alike. As Speaker he occupies the highest office held by any Democrat today. His popularity with his colleagues is attested by the fact that he was named Speaker by unanimous vote of Democratic members.

"If the entire country could know Jack Garner as do those of us who have opportunity to be associated with him, the suggestion of Speaker Garner for President would meet with a widespread response. I do not hesitate to say that I would be delighted should he become the national standard-bearer for our party. He would sweep the prairie states, and this common sense, practical man has a high degree of popularity in the eastern states. He is immensely popular throughout the south. He is a representative of the whole country. He is a nationalist and sound as a dollar on the question of constitutional government."

Woman Overcome, Saved by Inhalator

A police inhalator was used today to resuscitate Mrs. Elizabeth Green, 62, of 520 Warrington avenue, overcome by carbon monoxide when she fell asleep in front of a gas stove in the living room of her home.

Mrs. Green, who had risen before the other members of the family, was discovered unconscious by her husband, George Green, who called police.

Sharpsburg Inducts New Police Force

A police chief and three new patrolmen, recently named to the Sharpsburg police department, today assumed their duties, while a similar number were dropped from the force. The new chief is Samuel Fair, former night lieutenant, and the patrolmen Anthony Henzel, Anthony Saas and Edward Misert.

COLDS

After all there is no remedy for Colds like Bromo Quinine . . . easy to understand when you know that cold infection settles and multiplies within the system and must be destroyed and driven out from within.

The germ-destroying tonic properties of Quinine combined with a gentle la[illegible] as in Bromo Quinine, clear the system of cold-poisons. A few tablets is all you need.

LOSE ON CASH, SAVE BY CHECK

Taxpayers who paid their bills at the City Treasurer's office today with cash lost the 2 per cent discount promised them by City Treasurer R. W. Thompson.

But those who paid with checks dated January 30—last Saturday—enjoyed the discount.

The discount period expired yesterday, but, because it was Sunday, Treasurer Thompson announced the discount would be available today. But City Solicitor Waldschmidt's office advised Thompson this was illegal.

Persons with checking accounts simply had to date their checks for Saturday, rather than today. There were a few complaints from cash customers.

Turkish Religious Rites on Air First Time

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—For the first time in Islamic history a radio microphone has been installed in a Turkish mosque.

Choosing one of the most famous religious edifices in all Turkey, St. Sophia, for this innovation, Mustapha Kemal has directed that radio services be chanted from the newly-adopted Turkish Koran by 25 clergymen.

This is the second notable departure from ancient custom in religious service instituted this year by the progressive Turkish president. The Arabic Koran, always unintelligible as Latin to the layman, was replaced recently in some Istanbul mosques by a Turkish translation. These innovations are in consummation of the Nationalist government's aim of adapting the Islamic religion to the needs of modern Turkey.

HOLD UP PHILA. VOTE MACHINES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court today ordered all proceedings stayed in the matter of the contract awarded by Secretary of the Commonwealth Beamish to the Automatic Voting Machine Corporation for 800 voting machines for Philadelphia.

The court ordered that the contract be held up pending disposition of the appeal taken by counsel for the Philadelphia County Commissioners from the judgment of the Dauphin County Court, which refused a preliminary injunction.

The Supreme Court order, however, does not prevent the Dauphin County Court from proceeding with a final hearing on the bill in equity and answer thereto.

VOICE CONTEST LISTS CLOSING

With many nominations already received in "the girl with the sweetest voice" contest, being conducted by Radio Station WCAE and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, registrations will close Tuesday, February 2, at 6 p. m.

Final arrangements for the preliminary auditions are expected to be completed before the end of the week. Watch the Sun-Telegraph daily for all the details regarding these auditions.

Bear in mind that it is a speaking voice that is being sought and if you think you can qualify and have not already sent in the coupon, fill out the one which appears on this page and mail it at once.

Remember tomorrow is the last day of registration.

BASEBALL MAN IN HOTEL FIRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Fire broke out early today in the room of Louis Widrig, treasurer of the Cincinnati baseball club, at the Hotel Commodore, burning Widrig about the face, hands and scalp, and spreading to unoccupied adjoining rooms before it was extinguished.

Widrig, who had retired after attending the annual dinner of the baseball writers' association, awakened to find his room ablaze. He suffered burns, not serious, in his effort to beat out the fire.

A large crowd gathered outside the hotel at Lexington avenue and Forty-second street, blocking traffic on Lexington avenue. Smoke pouring from the windows led to the belief the fire was more serious than it actually was.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

It seems just a few short weeks ago since the holiday gaieties, but do you realize that this is the first day of February, that Lent begins a week from Wednesday, and that spring is not so very, very far off?

Socially, February is always a rather eventless month, but this February there'll be several things at least to attract folks.

First of all, there's the leap year Mardi Gras dinner-dance to be held in the Twentieth Century Club, a week from tomorrow with Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and Miss Eleanor Grier as chairmen. It will be a leap year affair this year, with the women inviting their escorts. Of course it will be a costume party, and there'll be a stage show.

Then the Stage and Play Society will present three one-act plays on February 16 in the Twentieth Century Club, and on February 27 many of the society set will sail for the West Indies with the cruise sponsored by the Pittsburgh section of the Florence Nursing Service. Mrs. Charles S. Cheesemaker is chairman. And I understand that 12 women have already decided to take the trip.

* * *

Mrs. George Hamilton Flinn of Fifth avenue will leave this week for Chapel Hill, N. C., to visit her son and daughter-in-law, the Lawrence Flinns, who are living there while Mr. Flinn is attending the University of North Carolina, and to see her young grandson, George Hamilton Flinn II, born in December.

Later Mrs. Flinn will go to New York to visit her daughter, Mrs. Stuyvesant Wainwright, Jr.

* * *

Many folks will attend the private view of the twenty-second annual exhibition of paintings, sculpture and graphic arts to be held by the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh Thursday evening, February 11, at 2 o'clock in the Carnegie Institute galleries.

Recital on Sunday to Be Followed By Singing of Cadman Work, 'White Enchantment'

Something more ambitious than has yet been attempted at the club's twilight musicales will be presented Sunday by the Woman's City Club. A recital by Mabel Carolyn Fiscus, soprano, and Rose Meitlein Litt, violin, will be followed by Charles Wakefield Cadman's "White Enchantment." The roles will be sung by Charlotte Shallenberger, Margaret Estep, Edward Dunbar, James Achtzehn and Joseph O'Brien. Hulda Lefridge will accompany the soprano and violin solos.

In addition to the musicale the month's calendar announces the last two in the series of contract bridge classes for the evenings of February 3 and 10, a drama tea on February 16, with Florence Fisher Parry as speaker; French luncheons on the thirteenth and the twenty-seventh; the library luncheon on the twentieth, when Mrs. Bishop Brown will review "The Twelve Secrets of the Caucasus," by Essad-Bey, and another children's matinee at the Nixon Theater on the twenty-seventh.

* * *

A Washington bicentennial play and a program of music will be presented by the students for the entertainment of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club following its luncheon in Schenley High School on Wednesday, February 17. Honor guests will be Edward Sauvain, principal of Schenley, and Mrs. Sauvain. Mrs. W. C. McClure is taking luncheon reservations, and Mrs. D. Edwin Miller and Mrs. Carrie Hutchison are in charge of arrangements.

Liberty School Parent-Teacher Association will celebrate the thirty-fifth birthday of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at its monthly meeting tomorrow evening in the school gymnasium. Mrs. Saul Lavine, a director of the City Council Parent-Teacher Association, and chairman of the parental education and mental hygiene committee, is guest speaker for the evening. As part of the program, pupils of 9-A graduating class of Liberty School, under the directions of Miss Elizabeth Kerr and Miss Margaret Lennon, will give a play, "Education Heeds America's Call."

* * *

Since "International Relations" is assigned as study topic for Business and Professional Women's Clubs in their February programs, the Wilkinsburg Club will have as speaker at its dinner meeting tomorrow in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel the Rev. Oliver H. Sisson, formerly of Burma, India, now pastor of the Wilkinsburg Baptist Church. His subject will be "World Peace."

* * *

Miss Edith Bane will give an illustrated lecture concerning her trip around the world when she speaks for the Rosedale Community Club tomorrow night in All-Saints Mission.

* * *

The annual Washington's Birthday luncheon will be held at the Schenley Hotel by Pittsburgh Chapter, D. A. R., and will be addressed by Hamilton Fish, of New York. The Rev. Dr. Henry R. Brown, pastor of the Shields Presbyterian Church, will offer the invocation. Pictures of the Wedgewood and Staffordshire Washington Bicentennial plates will be on view that day, and orders will be taken by the conservation and tariff committee.

THANKS to thousands of regular A&P patrons, our products never have a chance to grow stale. No sooner do we fill our shelves than we have to start replacing cans and cartons and bottles in the great open spaces which enthusiastic A&P customers make. Our foods speed in again only to speed out again. And that, as a matter of fact, is the secret of our success.

First of all, our food is good.

Next, our prices are always low.

And that, we've found, is a sure-fire combination, which keeps the crowds coming, while they in turn keep the food going.

STOCKINGS that wrinkle and bag are so unsightly! Do you know what causes this loss of beauty, and how to prevent it?

New stockings are elastic. Knitted with silk threads that stretch and then spring back again. But when this precious elasticity is destroyed, stockings wrinkle and sag. Seams are crooked. Threads break instead of giving under strain, starting ruinous runs!

That is why Lux has been made especially to preserve elasticity. It offers you a sure way to make your stockings keep their fit, and make even the sheerest ones really WEAR.

* The Lux Way to make stockings FIT and WEAR

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk. With Lux there's no rubbing.

Don't use too-warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens silk threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali.

Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

By JAMES J. LONG

Many Basketball Rests. Halts in Game Total 108. Won't Lose on Wilson. Violet Shift Dropped. Dukes Sew Up Title. Thorpe Above Nevers.

FIGURES DISPROVE STRAIN ON COURTS

WHEN THE PITT co-captains in basketball, Timmy Lawry and Willie Kowallis, led their mates against the Indiana University team in Bloomington on December 16, they were unknowingly playing a part in a test or study designed to get the low-down on the strenuous side of the floor sport. It develops that that game was one of a series selected for special observation and analysis by Everett S. Dean, the Indiana coach, with a view to finding out just what ground there might be for the charges made by some of basketball's critics that the court pastime is too fast and continuous for the physical well-being of the players.

Timmy Lawry

Along with the Pitt game, Coach Dean picked for his test Indiana's contests with Notre Dame, Purdue, Northwestern, Illinois, Minnesota and Iowa. With Paul Balay and Art Thomas, former Indiana athletes, keeping watch from the pressbox, the Hoosier mentor gathered a flock of statistics which he now makes public in support of his contention that basketball is not as strenuous as has been charged. His findings are interesting.

IT IS DISCLOSED that in the average basketball game there are no fewer than 108 interruptions. The actual playing time of an entire game is 29 minutes and 30 seconds. The average playing period without interruption is only 16.3 seconds. The longest playing periods without stops average two minutes and 22 seconds, and the shortest period is one second.

The total number of fouls in a contest varies, of course, according to the complexion of the action, but in the average game the number of fouls is 22. There are 19 jump balls and 31 center jumps in the average contest, the average number of free throws is 14, the average number of out-of-bounds is 38, and the average number of baskets scored per game is 18.

NATURALLY THE TOTAL time of real action in a game is even shorter when one of the teams elects to stall. Out on the coast, recently, for instance, in a game between Southern California and U. C. L. A., the spectators complained of 15 minutes of activity in the first half, with the Trojans holding the ball in mid-court and U. C. L. A. refusing to come out from under its own basket.

Coast critics are sounding the warning that a few more game like that will kill basketball out there deader than a pickled mackerel. They suggest as a remedy that a foul, or at least an out-of-bounds play be called on a team that refuses to try for a basket or stalls more than two minutes.

A MAJOR LEAGUE baseball club never loses money in the purchase of a colorful and widely-advertised player. Even if he doesn't come through a playing way, more than the price paid for him is taken in at the gate in added receipts while interest in him is hot. So the Brooklyn Club, it is estimated, will speedily get back whatever it paid for Hack Wilson, because the Flatbush fans will keep the turnstile a clicking while they are talking about Hack in the early part of the season. Cub officials declared they were glad to get rid of Wilson, and they pronounced Joe McCarthy a disappointment in the 1930 season, but they can't get away from the fact that they had to build 20,000 new seats in Wrigley Field to accommodate the larger crowds after the coming of Hack and Joe.*

Howard Cann

THE MILITARY SHIFT, which Pittsburgh football fans will recall as having been an outstanding feature of New York U.'s offensive in that team's games here against Carnegie Tech, is to be scrapped by Howard Cann, Chick Meehan's successor as head coach of the Violet.

"As I look at it now, it may be wise to discard the military shift," Cann said. "We shall, definitely, continue to use the huddle, but that it will be followed by the military shift of late seasons is doubtful. I am going to look mainly for strength in straight football, hard and sure tackling, and a certain amount of football brains."

CANN ADDED THAT he plans to try some plays involving the double wing-back system of Pop Warner, holding that there has been a tendency in the N. Y. U. offensive to run too many plays to the right. The value of double wing-back formations is that the ball can be run to either side.

Some football men have remarked that they do not envy Cann in the job he is tackling. They say that under the new system there is little chance the material will be equal to what Meehan had at his disposal, while the schedule for the next few years will continue to be of major caliber, since agreements for several seasons have already been made.

NO COLLEGE ANYWHERE ever made a more successful or impressive start upon being admitted to big-time competition in its particular section than Duquesne University, with a green and inexperienced team, has placed to its credit for its first season in basketball with the other major schools of Pittsburgh. The 29-to-14 victory scored by the Dukes in their first meeting with Carnegie Tech Saturday night was even more decisive and convincing than the earlier triumph over Pitt, and the Bluffites have placed themselves in such a position that they must be said practically to have sewed up the city championship, regardless of the outcome of their second contest with the Skibos on March 4.*

AND BY WAY of demonstrating that the high standard of basketball which Coach Chick Davies has established on the Bluff takes in the school as a whole, and is not confined to the varsity, the Duke Freshmen have knocked off both the Pitt and Carnegie yearlings in preliminary games.

That's cleaning up the opposition from all sides and getting off on the right foot with a vengeance, and it bears out the claims of Duquesne supporters that for a long time the Red and Blue has needed only a fair opportunity to prove that it ranks with the best on the college courts.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Lloyd Waner had sent back to the Pittsburgh Baseball Club unsigned a second contract for 1932 didn't cause any more excitement among the fans than his rejection of the terms first tendered.

Ernie Nevers

Lloyd did the same thing three years ago, it will be recalled, but was in line before the end of the training period. It's just a little game of checkers, with each side trying to learn how far the other will go, and there will be the usual agreement in the end.

THE OLD ARGUMENT as to whether Jim Thorpe or Ernie Nevers was the greatest football player has been revived by Bill Gardiner, famous old Carlisle Indian end. Pop Warner, who coached both Thorpe and Nevers, picked Nevers as the all-time all-America fullback and ranked Thorpe second, but several other football men have questioned his judgment. Gardiner is the latest. He saw Nevers play for the first time in the professional game in Los Angeles recently and disagrees with Warner. "Nevers is a great kicker, passer, line plunger and defensive star," Gardiner said. "But he lacks Thorpe's co-ordination. Thorpe had all of Never's fine points, plus tremendous superiority as a ball carrier. Thorpe would have made Nevers look dizzy in an open field."

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

N. Y. Americans	4—Montreal	2
N. Y. Rangers	5—Chicago	0

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—The hockey career of Abbie Cox, brilliant little goalie of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, probably is ended.

Attaches at Providence Hospital, where Cox was rushed after sustaining a severe injury in the third period of the Pittsburgh-Detroit Olympics International Hockey League game here last night, today said the Pittsburgh player appears to have a fractured pelvis and a badly wrenched back. X-ray pictures were taken this morning. This is the second time in two years that Cox has suffered a fractured pelvis. Fear was expressed that he never would be able to play hockey again.

INJURED IN COLLISION

Cox will be confined in the local hospital for an indefinite period. He was injured when he fell to the ice in an effort to smother a shot by George Hay, manager of the Detroit team. Hay collided violently with the Jackets' net guardian, and Peters, big defense man of the Olympics, accidentally fell on Cox when he was down, with is back against the iron post at the front of the cage.

The game was held up for about 30 minutes while Cox was rushed to the hospital. Charley Reid, coach of the Jackets, took Cox's place in the Pittsburgh nets, and he gave a fine exhibition before the Olympics scored the tally that gave them a 2-1 victory, near the finish of the game.

The game was a rough battle in which fist fights were frequent. Nineteen penalties, including two major penalties, were meted out, but the officials permitted the game to get completely out of hand.

REID MAY PLAY IN NETS

The Jackets are to play in Windsor tomorrow night, but Coach Reid today said he was undecided what steps he would take to plug the gap in the Pittsburgh lineup. Reid is a former goalie. He played in the nets for a team here several seasons ago. He may continue to wear the pads in Windsor tomorrow night, and until such time as the Jackets are able to sign a new goalie.

It is understood that Joe Miller, former Pittsburgh goalie, recently crowded out of the Syracuse lineup, may be obtained to render temporary service. The lineup:

PITTSBURGH—1		DETROIT—2
Cox	G	Vezina
Reise	R. D.	Peters
Fraser	L. D.	Evans
Redmon	C.	Hay
Millet	R. W.	Goodsworth
Barton	L. W.	McCabe

Pittsburgh spares—Fiske, Gregg, Dunning, Maile, Proudlock, Looking, Armour. Detroit spares—Newman, Gillie, Steele, Gilhooley, Gagne, Herberts, Hockburn.

Summary—

First period—Pittsburgh, Fraser, 7:32. Penalties—Barton, tripping; Proudlock, charging.

Second period—No scoring. Penalties—Peters, fighting; Miller, fighting; Fraser, tripping; Evans, high stick; Proudlock, high stick; Dunning, holding; fighting—major; Gillie, fighting.

Third period—Detroit, Gillie, (Peters), (Evans), 3:15. Detroit, Gillie, (Peters), 15:15. Penalties—Dunning, kicking; Gilhooley, slashing; Barton, tripping; Gillie, high stick, major; Dunning, holding; Fraser, hooking; Miller, slashing; Newman, fighting; Gregg, fighting; Peters, tripping. Officials—Hughes and Floodale.

BUFFALO BLANKS INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1.—Their defense completely riddled and virtually helpless, the Cleveland Indians fell easy prey to Buffalo, 5 to 0, in an International Hockey League game here last night.

LONDON, SYRACUSE TIE

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 1.—London shattered Syracuse's winning streak in the International Hockey League in a 2-2 tie here last night, but the Tecumsehs were supplanted in fourth place by the Stars.

CALLAHAN AT MEETING

Attorney James F. Callahan, local member of the board of governors of the National Hockey League, is attending a meeting of the board in Toronto today.

W. P. I. A. L. Tourney To Begin Feb. 22

The W. P. I. A. L. championship tourney will begin on February 22 and will close on March 22, it was decided at a meeting of the decisions committee of the circuit. The committee included George Cassier, J. Foster Gehrett and W. A. Swick. H. W. Crane, president, was to depart for Harrisburg today for a conference with the P. I. A. A. relative the state championship.

The East Pike Run-Brownsville Section XVI game was ordered replayed, and Eddie McCabe, Braddock High athlete, was declared ineligible.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: SHAKESPEARE'S BEQUEST TO HIS WIFE—The most curious passage in William Shakespeare's will is that in which he leaves his widow his "second best bed." This passage is interlined in his will. The Bard's apologists maintain that no inferences as to his domestic felicity may be drawn from this peculiar interlineation. The "first bed" in the time of Shakespeare was generally reserved for guests, and, as a family heirloom, was "undevisable property" which would descend to the eldest daughter. In the time of Shakespeare such a clause was considered a mark of tenderness and affection. ABBE NICQUET—The abbe Honorat Nicquet, author and French Jesuit (1585-1667), was not only the strongest runner of his age, but also a highly accomplished scholar and an ascetic. He taught in France at the head of the colleges of Caen, Bourges and Rouen. He ran from Paris to Rome in six days and five hours, and in the latter city was distinguished by the appointment as censor and theologian to the provost general.

TOMORROW: THE "BRACE AND BIT" PLANT

CLARK TEXAS OPEN VICTOR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 1.—Clarence Clark, of Bloomfield, N. J., won the Texas Open tournament yesterday, scoring a scintillating 69 for a total of 287. He replaced Abe Espinosa, of Chicago, as champion. First prize was $600.

Clark needed to finish even par to take the lead from Gene Sarazen, who had finished early with 288. He got par at the seventeenth and needed a par 3 at the final hole. His tee shot blazed from tee to green and stopped within 12 feet of the cup. He sent it cupward with his putter, but it stopped on the lip, giving him a sure 3 and the championship.

Tied for second place were Gene Sarazen, New York professional, and Gus Moreland, Dallas amateur and Texas state champion, with cards of 288.

Moreland had the best individual score of the day when he returned at 67.

Olympic Pentathlon Trials May 11-14

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Tryouts in four events for places on the United States Olympic pentathlon team will be held here, May 11 to 14. Candidates for the team will report here on May 11 for the riding test, which will be approximately half the Olympic distance. On May 12, the shooting competition will be held on the military range. Swimming tryouts will be conducted May 13 in the cadet gymnasium and the elimination contests will be completed on May 14, with the candidates running the full Olympic pentathlon course.

JAPAN VICTOR

OSAKA, Japan, Feb. 1.—The All-Canada rugby team suffered the first defeat of its Japanese tour yesterday, bowing to the All-Japan fifteen, 5 to 3. A crowd of 20,000 persons saw the game.

SMITH HOLDS SCORING LEAD

Bob Smith, of Carnegie Tech, retained his lead among district basketball scorers, finishing last week with a total of 129 points. Tim Lawry, of Pitt, is second, with 114. Jim McDougal leads the Dukes with 57 points in only eight games. Smith has played in 15 contests and Lawry in 17. The leaders:

TITANS, 'GATORS SET PACE FOR LOOP TITLE

GAMES TONIGHT

Bethany vs. Bethany at Bethany.
Allegheny vs. Ithaca Training School at Ithaca.
D... vs. Concord at Princeton, W. Va.
Wash-Jeff vs. Johnstown Y at Johnstown.

By JESS CARVER

The Southern is becoming pretty well settled that it will take at least a detachment of Marines or Coldstream Guards to put a stop to the rampaging of Chick Davies' Durable Dukes through the college basketball battle fronts of this section. As a matter of fact the Dukes right now look to be the class of the district, by about 10 points over any rival you may mention.

Chick Davies

Following their sparkling and decisive triumph over Carnegie Tech Saturday night, the Red and Blue boast a strangle hold on the city championship. All they need to do to sew up the honor is to beat Tech again later in the season, and unless the Skibos do a complete about face in the matter of form they've exhibited in recent games, the Davismen will take 'em the next time as easily as they did Saturday night.

DUKES IN LEAD

Duquesne, Carnegie and Allegheny are the contenders of annexing tri-state honors this year, but unless some extra-curriculum games are arranged, the eventual awarding of the laurel wreath is going to wind up in somewhat of a mixup, for the Dukes do not play either Allegheny or Westminster. The stage is being set for the arranging of a fine charity game, matching the leaders of the out-of-town contingent with the Dukes, or arranging, if possible, a return battle between the Dukes and Pitt.

The three most important contests remaining on the Duquesne card, so far as this locality is concerned, are the pair with Geneva and the return game with Grove City. Graduate Manager Holohan announced today that he has made arrangements with Pitt to use the Stadium Pavilion for the first of the Geneva series next Tuesday. If Geneva can take its two frays with Grove City and Wash-Jeff this week, and come to town next Tuesday with only one defeat marked against it, they'll put 4,000 into the seats for the game with the Bluffites.

TARTANS DESPERATE

Coach Buzz Hogan, of Carnegie, hopes his team will be able to shake off the effect of the Duke socking in time to stop Pitt tomorrow night. Routed by the Panthers two weeks ago, and beaten by Geneva and Duquesne since, Carnegie needs a win in the worst way, and especially, a win over Pitt, for if the Panthers take tomorrow's encounter, it will be 15 in a row for 'em over the Plaid.

Carlson's Panthers came out of their tussle with West Virginia last Friday in fine trim. The varsity enjoyed a lot of rest and the second team displayed enough class to make it possible that the Braddock physician will permit them to start against the Skibos, as they did against West Virginia. Such a thing is just a possibility, the chances being that Carlson will employ the same plan in this second game he did in the first, of using the regulars and piling up a commanding lead.

The Dukes face the tough job of playing four games in as many nights in New York this week, shoving off tomorrow night for Gotham, there to play St. John's, of Brooklyn, Manhattan, Brooklyn K. of C. and C. C. N. Y. in a row. If the boys can come through these testers without dipping their colors, they'll have accomplished something worth writing home about.

Tonight's program for the district consists of four games. Salem and Bethany meet at Bethany; Allegheny continues its invasion of New York state by tackling Ithaca Training School at Ithaca; D-E meets Concord at Princeton, W. Va., and Wash-Jeff has an exhibition game on with the Johnstown Y. M. C. A. team at Johnstown.

Monongahela Out Of Five-County Loop

UNIONTOWN, Feb. 1. — The Five County League made arrangements for the second half's play at a meeting here yesterday. The Monongahela club was dropped from the roster and Connellsville Eagles given the vacant berth.

The second half will open on Wednesday and will close on March 19. Championship series will then be staged between the winners of the two cycles. Jeannette Felders were crowned first-half titlists. The program for the opening week's play follows:

February 3—Uniontown at Scottdale, February 4—South Pittsburgh at Uniontown, Scottdale at Carmichaels, February 5—Jeannette at South Pittsburgh, Connellsville at Charleroi.

DISCORD MARS AMATEUR BOUTS

WILLOW BOXERS STAND LOYAL TO METZ

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

A new deal is likely to come out of the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. junior championship boxing tournament which closes at the Keystone Athletic Club tonight when the semi-finals and finals of the four nights of milling are down for decision.

The tournament struck a snag Saturday night when Jack Metz veteran coach of the Willow Club of Lawrenceville withdrew all of his survivors from further competition because of what he claimed was a sour decision against George Julius one of his proteges in his bout with Johnnie Hasel of the Pittsburgh Lyceum. An announcement followed that Metz stood suspended by the A. A. U. and that his boxers could continue unattached if they so desired. It was said this morning that all of Metz's boys had rallied around him and would stick with him to the end.

FIELD UNWIELDY

This particular tournament has been fraught with difficulties from the very start. Because of the huge entry of more than 200 boxers, it was impossible to crowd it into three nights as originally intended, even through the expedient of cutting the rounds in half, so that the boxers actually fought only one-and-one-half-minute sessions. This was not a true test for the boys who have been accustomed to boxing full three-minute rounds and had trained for such a route. Then came the crackup on Saturday with Metz one of the most popular of mentors over many years pulling out his team.

It is likely as a result, that the amateur officials will be called in by the boxing commission and ordered to live up to the rule of full-fledged rounds in the future and the officials who make the decisions also may be designated by the commission. It is claimed that members of clubs with entrants in the tournaments are permitted to judge bouts which is not as it should be. Neutral officials, probably from the professional ranks may have to be employed to remedy the situation.

TOURNEY ENDS TONIGHT

At any rate, the current championship tournament will be wiped clear of the boards tonight, and, after that, steps will be taken to prevent a recurrence of the distressing circumstances that have surrounded it.

It is unlikely that Metz will remain suspended for a long period. His friends are in his corner and insisting that justice be done. They contend he has a legitimate squawk coming on the decision in the Julius bout and that, in view of his many years of devotion to amateur boxing, he deserves more consideration than was given him in this instance.

To add to the general confusion, three boxers already eliminated from the tournament have been permitted to return because they lost to Willow boxers. This has been done to fill out classes so that semi-finals and finals may be fought in them. The reinstated mittmen are Al Lamo and Eddie Nichols, light-heavyweights, and Joe Kado, heavyweight.

Following is the schedule of bouts for tonight:

TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE

112-pound class—Frank Schleicher, Pittsburgh Boys' Club, vs. Leo Krampis, Pittsburgh Boys' Club; Pete Cubelo, Pittsburgh, vs. Ernest Tom, Metz.

118-pound class—Al Gold, Y. M. H. A.; Karl Kircher, unattached; Bob Kelly, Pittsburgh Boys' Club; Johnnie Gradwell, Bando A. C.; Unopposed.

126-pound class—Dom. DeFalco, Aeolian A. C.; Frank Bonata, Bando A. C.; John Victor Yanos, Monaca A. C.; John Shepler, Hogan A. C.

135-pound class—John Hasz, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Frank Tomay, Strabane Rat Cards; Y. M. H. A. Joe Horowa, Bando A. C.

147-pound class—Ed. Wabash, Superior A. C.; Joe Fox, Pittsburgh Boys' Club; Dave Stefka, Bando A. C.; Al Quadi, Y. M. H. A.

160-pound class—Johnny Mucha, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Chuck Barrett, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Al Rark, Bando A. C.; William Silvestri, Monca Valley A. C.

175-pound class—Joe De Pete, Duquesne University; Eddie Nebosca, Aeolian A. C.; Al Lamo, Bando A. C.

Heavyweight class—William Klaus, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Frank Rizk, Westinghouse Club; Nick Lanzo, at Michaels Pa.; Joe Kado, Bando A. C.

Between Rounds

The stage is set for Pittsburgh's three professional shows of the week at Motor Square Garden tomorrow night, the Moore Temple auditorium on Wednesday, and Eddie Kaufman's new arena in Center avenue on Friday. McGeough's annual ball function during the week. Promoter Jim Mosier refusing to back such stiff competition.

Sylvan Ross, of Baltimore, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, do the honors in the Garden windup, with Joey Raymond, also of Braddock, meeting Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, in the eight-round semi-final. Guy Sabrino, Los Angeles middleweight, bears Jackie Walters, of Springfield, O., and Charley Baxter, of McKees Rocks, escapes Eddie Brosmer, of the Hill, in two 10-rounders at the Moose, while George Pavlick, of Johnstown and Cleveland, tangles with Billy Jones, Philadelphia's crack Negro light-heavyweight, in the main event of Kaufman's opening show.

Frankie Unjarski, of Erie, who meets Benny Bass of the Garden on February 15, boxes Ray Zorilla, of Panama, in the 10-round semi-final bout at Erie, Friday night, with Eddie Coyle, of Cleveland, opposing Eddie Dean, of Erie, in the six-round final. Lou Moody, Erie flyweight, returning to the ring following a long layoff, against Mickey Farr, of Cleveland, brother of Johnny Farr, is another six-rounder.

Bobby Jones, who left Pittsburgh to make a name for himself in the ring [illegible] is a Bradley with Georgie [illegible] the N. B. A. light-heavyweight [illegible] will be making his sixth [illegible] this vicinity when he tangles with George Pavlick in the Kaufman Arena, Friday night. He first defeated Murray Gittlitz at New Castle, and later knocked out Frank Florian in three rounds and defeated Harold Soarnes in 10 at McKeesport, after which he won over Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, in a 10-round non-title bout at Motor Square Garden and drew with Natie Brown at Hicker Park, in Millvale.

Pavlick has done some stepping himself. He was brilliant in stopping Frank Moran, New York National Guard champion in five rounds on the Schmeling-Stribling card in Cleveland last July, and also boasts victories over Lynn Jordan, Pedlar Palmer, Paisley Farron, Harry Wilkerson, Ralph (Kid) Wagner, Tiny Powell, Eddie Zeiterbrink, Frank Florian, Tiny DeBoit, Ted Delp, Jim Dorses and Al Stillman. He is a stablemate of Johnny Risko.

COLLEGE BOXERS MUST PREP TO 'TAKE IT'

The college boxers who compete in the national championships at Penn State April 8 and 9 needs must increase their ability to take it. This year's tourney will be conducted under A. A. U. rules and the collegiate pugs will don six and eight-ounce gloves instead of the 10-ouncers used in regular college competition.

The boys will use the six-ounce gloves in all classes up to and including the 147-pound division and eight-ounce leathers in the heavier classes.

Besides being a national championship affair the tourney will serve as an Olympic tryout affair for the collegians.

CUE FAVORITES DEFEATED

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Gus Copulos, of Eugene, Ore., one of the four players favored to win the title, was defeated by Len Kenney, Chicago, 50 to 32, in 47 innings, in the world championship three-cushion billiard tournament yesterday.

Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, dealt Augie Kieckhefer's hopes for the title a blow in defeating the Chicago southpaw, 50 to 36, in 56 innings.

Olympics Football Game Is Arranged

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Foreign athletes who will compete in the Olympic Games are going to be given some idea of what this game of football is all about.

Twenty-six Yale, Harvard and Princeton seniors have been chosen to play in a demonstration game against an eleven chosen from seniors at Southern California, Stanford University and the University of California. The contest will take place on August 10 in Los Angeles as part of the Olympics.

T. A. D. Jones, former Eli coach, will be in charge of the eastern squad. His brother, Howard, coach at Southern California, will pick the other squad.

Local Golfer Plays In Florida Tourney

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 1.—W. T. Gundelfinger, of Pittsburgh, teed off this morning in the qualifying round for the national championship of golf club champions over St. Augustine links. He is representing the Ashland (O.) Country Club, where he won the club title several years ago.

Close to 100 club titleholders filed their entry for this event, the defending champion in which is T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion and runner-up to Robby Jones for the United States crown in 1928.

Australia Leads In Cricket Match

ADELAIDE, Australia, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—With Don Bradman scoring a double century, Australia today completed its first innings in the fourth test cricket match with South Africa with 513 runs as compared to the 308 the Springboks were able to score in their first.

South Africa went to the wickets late in the day and had scored 124 for the loss of two wickets when stumps were pulled.

RACE PURSES CUT

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 1.—The Fair Grounds race track has announced a reduction in the purses for claiming races from $1,000 to $800. The action officials said was made at the request of horsemen who sympathized with them over the "tremendous financial losses" experienced during the present meeting. The reduction, the officials explained, will not affect the daily feature races nor the stake races.

A. L. MAGNATES HOLD MEETING IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Representatives of the American League with President William Harridge presiding, assembled in private conference in a suite at the Hotel Commodore this afternoon. They planned to adopt the 1932 schedule and discuss among themselves various baseball matters, including the disturbing situation growing out of the collapse of various minor leagues.

Attending the conference were Phil Ball and L. C. McAvoy, president and vice president of the St. Louis Browns; Harry Grabinet, vice president of the Chicago White Sox; Alva Bradley, president; Billy Evans, general manager and Joseph Hostatler, secretary of the Cleveland Club; John S. Shibe, vice president, and Eddie Collins, assistant manager of the Philadelphia Athletics; Clark Griffith and William Richardson, president and vice president, respectively, of the Washington Senators; Frank Navin, president of the Detroit Tigers; Col. Jacob Ruppert, president, and Edward G. Barrow, general manager, of the New York Yankees, and John Quinn, secretary and son of the president of the Boston Red Sox.

The dinner, attended by representatives of nearly all 16 big league clubs, was a forerunner to the league schedule meetings, to be held today and tomorrow. Babe Ruth, still an official holdout, leaves today by automobile for Florida, while Hack Wilson signs a Brooklyn contract.

At least two American League clubs, the New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox, were ready to discuss a player swap. The Yankees are willing to trade Tony Lazzeri, veteran infielder, but so far the White Sox have balked at giving either Ted Lyons or Alphonse Thomas for Tony.

Annual awards of the Writers' New York chapter were presented to Wilbert Robinson, deposed manager of the Brooklyn club, for "outstanding service," and to Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, as the player of the year.

GERMAN SLEIGH TEAM CRASHES

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Capt. Werner Zahn, World War aviation ace and head of the German bob sleigh team, suffered a fracture of the left arm yesterday in a crash on the treacherous bob run as the sleigh teams of eight nations defied a blizzard to attempt practice for the winter Olympic games.

Capt. Zahn

The teams of the United States, Austria, Belgium, France, Italy, Rumania, Switzerland and Germany took to the treacherous run down the steep sides of Mt. Hoevenberg despite a blinding snowstorm and a temperature five degrees above zero.

Heading into the most difficult turn, a double bank known as Zig-Zag, the German sled was traveling at an estimated speed of 60 miles an hour. Zahn, the steersman, headed into the bank to the right a bit too high, came out of it staggering, hit the bend to the left too high, and shot up and over the top of the wall, set at a 90-degree angle.

Zahn's sled broke down a portion of the wall and sailed 100 feet through the air, the four riders clinging desperately to the bob before it smashed to splinters against a tree.

Zahn's three mates received only minor injuries. Dr. Hans Mehlhorn, the brakeman on the bob, fractured a bone in the back of his left hand. The No. 2 man, riding just behind Zahn, suffered a wrenched back and the fourth rider, Charles Devine, of Lake Placid, was badly shaken up.

They were taken to the Lake Placid Hospital and all except Zahn were allowed to leave after their injuries had been dressed.

Harry Homburger, United States Olympic entry, and his team sped down the ice to cover the mile and a half run in one minute 58 seconds. The world record, set here by Homberg's Saranac Lake Red Devils last year, is 1:52.

JOCKEY DAINTY DIES

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 1.—F. (Buddy) Dainty, 23-year-old jockey, known to Ontario race fans as the "long-shot rider," was killed Saturday night in an automobile crash. Dainty was first string rider for George Hird, Sr.'s Harbor Stable and also had ridden frequently on United States tracks.

Jack Chevigny Quits Post at Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 1.—Jack Chevigny, tutor of the epoch-making backfields of Notre Dame football teams for the last three seasons, has resigned.

Chevigny himself a star blocking halfback at Notre Dame in the seasons of 1926, 27 and 28, said he was considering offers from several universities. He gave no reason for resigning. Recently he visited at the University of Iowa, where the position of head grid coach is open, but he declines to name the source of any of his offers.

There was no comment from the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, or from other officials.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 1.—Harry Stuhldreher, Villanova coach, has been mentioned prominently as the next Notre Dame backfield coach, succeeding Jack Chevigny.

Rev. M. A. Mulcaire, chairman of the Notre Dame athletic board of control, said that Chevigny had made no formal resignation, but that it is expected soon.

In a game that went two extra periods, involving two hours 15 minutes of hectic soccer, the Castle Shannon Juniors qualified for the semi-final round of the Western Pennsylvania Junior cup by defeating the Shannon Owls, 4-3, at South Park, yesterday afternoon.

With only four minutes to go in the final period, the Owls' defense twisted the ball into their goal, with Goalkeeper Molle helpless.

In the Keystone League, Morgan defeated the Bridgeville eleven, at Bridgemont, 2 to 1, and at Cecil, the Curry team battled the home eleven to a 1-1 tie.

The Owls were unfortunate in scoring two goals for Shannon. This probably was due to the bumpy state of the field. The sudden cold snap left foot marks and the ball bounded around to the discomfiture of the players.

The Juniors scored first, F. Kevish tallying from a penalty kick given for pushing in the penalty area. The Owls' center halfback then sent in a shot that beat Stanko, to even up matters.

The score was 2-2 at the end of the regulation play. In the first extra-time session both teams scored, making it 3-all. Then Referee Corns ordered another extra period split into two seven and one-half minutes. It was in the final period that Buckley headed the ball through his own goal, to advance the Juniors into the next round.

In the Panhandle League, many close games were witnessed. Moon Run defeated Cedar Grove, 2 to 1; Primrose swamped Houston 6-1; Grove A. C. pulled the big surprise of the day in upsetting Heidelberg 1 to 0, and Home Circle flashed good form to beat Curry, 3-1. The Juniors'-Owls lineup:

N. B. A. Rescinds Ban on Dempsey

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey will not be barred from appearing in exhibition bouts here and in other N. B. A. cities as was announced over the week-end, Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing Association, declared here today.

Announcement of the former champion's banishment from N. B. A. rings was made when it was learned that he was under suspension in Mississippi. More than a year ago, Dempsey refereed a card at Columbus, Miss., and as a part of his stipend was to share in the profits. When the promoter failed to pay bills in connection with the card, the State Commission held that Dempsey, as a sharer in the profits, was liable for the loss.

KIGYI WINS MEET

GIBBY EXPECTS MUCH FROM KREMER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate fans who were deeply concerned over the immediate future of Pitcher Remy Kremer, have perked up as a result of the very definite statement on Kremer which Manager George Gibson voiced when interviewed on WCAE, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph radio station.

Remy Kremer

The big Frenchman experienced a bad season in 1931. It is true he had some "tough breaks," but it was an open secret on the Pittsburgh club that Remy was overweight. To the credit of Kremer, it should be stated that he was willing to pitch out of turn for the Baccos in all their misfortunes of the past season, but in some manner he allowed himself to accumulate excess baggage which apparently took away much of his cleverness.

"There's a lot of good pitching in Remy," said Gibby as he touched on the slab department while speaking to the fans.

GIBBY APPAISES TEAM

Gibby apparently will give Kremer some direct supervision in the coming training period. The Canuck throughout his long service in baseball, has maintained that long walks and plenty of running are the best forms of exercise for a pitcher, so Frenchy may expect some rigorous training along these lines.

Gibby spoke glowingly of his outfielders, catchers and pitchers in the broadcast. Giving much emphasis to his words he declared his outfield was second to none in baseball, and he thinks nothing except good can come from having thrive young receivers of the type of Hal Finney, Bill Brenzel and Earl Grace. He smiles when he dwells on his pitching staff, and well he might as he lists of the cleverness contained in Meine, Kremer, French, Brame, Spencer, Harris, Swetonic, Swift and Wood. The infield is a bit shakey, yet he expects order to be established there before the race has run far.

Gibby disclosed that he likes the style of Steve Swetonic. The North Side member is not "in wrong" with Gibson, who apparently will iron out the troubles Steve had with the owners of the club.

Gibson and the other Pirate officials will be greatly pleased to hear some real "inside stuff" concerning Pitcher Bill Swift, of Kansas City, who has just been added to the Pirate staff at the expense of the departure of Catcher Eddie Phillips, Pitcher Bob Osborn and a sum of money.

The information is offered by George Susce, of Oakland, now the baseball property of the Detroit Tigers as a result of his fine work last season. Susce was Swift's catcher for a time at Kansas City.

George makes the unqualified statement that Swift will make good in the majors. The former Schenley High School baseball and gridiron star is convinced that the recruit will work his way into the affections of Pittsburgh fans on hard work and cleverness.

FANS 13 BATTERS

"The Pirates have landed a great pitching prospect, and a fellow who knows how to use a bat," exclaimed Susce. "Bill Swift has a wonderful delivery and plenty of stuff on his fast ball. He leans towards sidearm action and he certainly is hard to hit. Bill fanned 13 St. Paul hitters on the last day of the 1930 season.

"Last spring he took on the Cubs in an exhibition game and the way he mowed down Hornsby, Wilson and some of the other stars on strikeouts made the big leaguers take notice. And then he walloped a homer to the centerfield fence in the last inning to win his own game.

"Swift has plenty to learn, but he picked up a lot of useful information from Tom Sheehan, former Pirate, and other pitchers. Sheehan thinks Bill is a wonder in the making. Swift is a powerful fellow who is close to 200 pounds in condition, and what I mean he is in condition. He's a Scranton boy."

Business

Gain in Activity in January Confined to Seasonal Proportions.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

JANUARY WAS MARKED by a gradual rise in business activity, but the volume of the increase appeared to be confined to normal seasonal lines. The general attitude of executives of large corporations is slightly more cheerful, but there has been no indication that any particularly marked change in the business outlook has taken place.

Last December it was stated in this column that the extent of the January improvement in business would be closely watched since it might prove to be an indication of volume to be expected for the first half of 1932. It was pointed out that business, particularly steel, always picks up at the beginning of the year so that the mere fact that a gain was recorded would not be news. The news would be found in the extent of the gain — whether or not it exceeded or was less than normal.

Steel mill activity has crept up from about 21 per cent of capacity to about 29 per cent of capacity. This is not regarded as an indicator that business is moving in either direction. If January is to be taken as a barometer, business seems likely to drift for a month or two more, just as it did during the last half of 1931.

Lower Costs to Be Important Factor

IF THIS ATTITUDE is general we may ask what is the justification for a more favorable attitude toward the future. A basis for a more hopeful viewpoint can be found from several recent developments.

First of all, the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has set up a new line of defense which will protect nearly all types of banking and financial organizations from further adverse conditions attributable to lack of confidence or other abnormal influences. The railroads are being helped by this organization as well as their own credit corporations. They will have further aid in the form of a wage cut. In other words, the fear of bankruptcy has been eliminated where the large and fundamental organizations in our business structure are concerned.

These credit bodies will not directly help industrial organizations, but there are grounds for viewing the future of manufacturing companies more favorably. The dead wood has been eliminated from industry. Costs have been reduced to an unprecedented extent.

Can Make Money on Lower Sales Volume

THE STATEMENT MADE last week by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, presents a picture, not only of his own organization, but of industry in general. He said that his company lost money in 1931 but declared that it can make money in 1932 if it gets as much business as last year.

This does not merely mean that industry is fortified against the ravages of depression. It means that industry will be able to show exceptionally good profits when business recovery starts. Industry will be able to make 1928 and 1929 profits on a volume of sales much smaller than those in boom years. When volume duplicates the results of that record period, as all economic history indicates it eventually must, the profits will be even larger than in 1928 and 1929.

COAL OUTPUT DROPS AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Coal production schedules slid downward again in the third week of January.

Reductions in the tonnages of both anthracite and bituminous coal in the week ending January 23 below that of the previous week were reported by the Bureau of Mines. The decline was more marked in the anthracite than other fields.

Soft coal mines of the nation produced 6,383,000 tons during the January 23 period as against 6,587,000 tonnage of the preceding week, a fall of 7.3 per cent.

For the week ending January 16, Pennsylvania's soft coal tonnage amounted to 1,609,000, a reduction of 11,600 tons from the previous week.

The West Virginia tonnage at the same time increased, that of the principal or Southern field from 1,221,000 to 1,254,000 and the Northern field, from 419,000 to 424,000.

Mexico Produced Less Oil in 1931

Average of Good and Bad Years Right Basis for Judging Corporate Profits

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Feb. 1.—The effect of the maximum business depression in the final quarter of 1931 on corporate profit was told last week in the report of several pivotal corporations.

A community deluded during the last bull market by the price-to-earning ratio became bewildered when leading companies reported negative earning results. The superficial reaction that great companies without earnings are valueless is absurd.

Mr. Rukeyser.

Modern plants, equipment, mines and well-trained personnel have a great potential economic value, and their long term worth must be measured in terms of average profits through the fat and lean years of the business cycle, rather than on immediate results.

YEARS SHOULD DECIDE

The fallacy made during the bull markets of assuming that abnormally high profits were likely not only to be permanent but to increase annually in a regular progression is now being repeated in reverse. Sir Josiah Stamp, one of the keenest financial minds in the English-speaking world, has warned that investment value depends on average results over a reasonable period of years, not on the immediately visible facts.

But since the mind which dominates the ticker tape usually suffers from astigmatism there are recurrent opportunities for the long term cash investor, as securities become undervalued at one end of the cycle and overvalued at the other.

EXPECTS LOWER PRICES

Another delusion which prevails was expressed to me by a western broker. He expressed the thought that many stocks were intrinsically cheap, but would buy none now because he thinks they will go lower. A curious desire for undefinable bottom will make some fail to get aboard before the parade of prices turns decisively in the other direction.

Another keen student of human nature remarked that the public would rather buy standard stocks 50 points higher than at this level. Experienced professional financiers, on the other hand, when convinced that securities are in a buying zone, begin to acquire securities on a scale downward, rather than to guess the precise bottom.

If within the reasonably near term there is to be economic recuperation in the United States, then standard securities are undervalued. If not, how good is any form of property? I believe restoration of a greater degree of economic equilibrium is feasible, though I must confess that leaders are slow to apply fundamental remedies. The outstanding business mistake for the moment, in my opinion, is to lean too heavily on governmental gestures, rather than on plans originating in the business world itself.

Strong Sentiment Noted in Steel Industry

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Sentiment in the steel industry is the strongest in a year, the magazine Steel says today.

Improvement in steel is progressing through slow, tortuous stages, the magazine states in its weekly review, with the easing of the general business strain and emergency enactments at Washington exerting a favorable influence.

Wall Street Expects Real Market Test Shortly

A real showdown is at hand in the stock market and the trend for the next few weeks should be definitely in evidence without much delay. Constructive forces wait the test with confidence arising from the action of the list several weeks ago when the December 17 lows were penetrated slightly. Theretofore each time the market had proceeded to slip through a previously established low since the bear cycle set in such action was the signal for a resumption of hysterical liquidation. Such selling failed to develop early this month when the mid-December low was penetrated, and the market rebounded after making a "double-bottom." The financial community therefore awaits the apparently approaching test with much more fortitude than it showed in face of similar circumstances previously. If outside liquidation is renewed on a dip through the early January lows the staying powers of the market will be tested, but most observers are of the opinion that such selling has been well-nigh completed.

Speculation for the moment appears to be veering toward commodities again, with wheat seemingly offering the most attractive vehicle for such operations. Renewed interest in wheat is variously ascribed to the possibility of damage to the winter crop in the event of the current cold wave resulting in a frost reaching the roots of the plant and to the rapid marketing of Southern Hemisphere wheat, where the exportable surplus this year is much smaller than a year ago. But well-posted observers are satisfied that while the foregoing factors are a consideration (they are secondary, the present bulge in wheat being ascribed in such circles chiefly to the belief that Russia may be drawn into the Sino-Japanese conflict and Soviet wheat consequently removed as a factor in the world market.

A tight market position is indicated in Westinghouse Electric, and it is evident that traders who have been operating on the bear side of that stock have been running into considerable difficulty. Offerings rather persistent at times, have been quite easily absorbed around current levels, and the official statement, Saturday, indicating the company operated at a loss of about $3,250,000 last year did not appear to influence any appreciable volume of selling. As had been generally known, the volume of new business contracted sharply in the closing months of the year. But the company has been bending its effort toward reducing expenses and feels confident that as a result it could show a substantial profit from operations this year even if business does not exceed the volume enjoyed in 1931. Its latest step has been to place salaries in the higher brackets on a sliding scale to be governed by the increase or decrease in earnings.

Wall street anticipated a reduction in the rediscount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank. When the meeting last Thursday continued much longer than usual, many waited around the district to get the announcement. However, after the long delay, it was stated that no change had been made. There still is confidence that the New York rate will be lowered in the not distant future.

International Business Machines has established a remarkable record in the two years of severe business depression all over the world. The company's products are considered necessities in modern business, and this has been responsible for its ability to show expansion of revenues when other organizations have not been able to earn their interest charges. It is now estimated that the report for 1931 will show earnings of between $10.50 and $11 a share on the stock.

Market interests report that there has been continued good buying in New Haven Railroad in the past few days. The demand has come from traders and others who were confident that an agreement on the wage question by the railroads and their workers would benefit all the carriers and find New Haven out among the leaders in any advance. Some weeks ago there was an outside long following in the stock, but this has been reduced recently because of the more cautious public attitude resulting from the action of the general market.

Liverpool Wheat Market.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 1.—The market was dull, 2 to 2¼ pence lower, but opened off only ¼ to ⅝ penny, and at 12:30 p. m. was down ⅝ to ¾ penny.

The market closed ⅝ to ¾ penny higher.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Railway bonds today responded to the signing of the 10 per cent wage reduction agreement in Chicago by raising their prices from 1 to 3 points.

United States government obligations were firm, the treasuries adding moderately to their gains of last week.

Foreign bonds were barely steady. Japanese loans continued their decline and recorded losses of from 1 to 4 points.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (00 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

MARKET RISES IN MODERATE TRADING

Rail Wage Reduction and War News From Far East Send Stocks Upward

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The stock market made extensive progress in moderate trading today.

The announcement of the 10 per cent railway wage reduction and ordering of the regular extra dividend of 25 cents by Standard Oil of New Jersey were tangible bullish developments, and speculators continued to bid up aircraft and chemical stocks, on the basis of developments in the Far East.

Advances of 3 to 5 points appeared in such issues as United States Steel, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Coca Cola and Eastman. Speculative efforts to discount vague war boom gossip brought 2-point advances in such issues as United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, Atlas Powder and du Pont. Other shares making similar gains included Southern Pacific, New York Central, Standard of New Jersey, Bethlehem Steel, McKeesport Case and Liggett & Myers B. Issues 1 point or more included General Motors, General Electric, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco, Curtis-Wright "A" and others.

In leading banking quarters talk of a war boom was regarded with incredulity, for it was pointed out that the financial position of the far eastern countries could scarcely be regarded as favorable to prolonged large scale hostilities. Some observers felt, however, that as far as the aircraft issues and steel issues were concerned the far eastern developments might impair the movement for disarmament.

If a war boom were developing it was explained that weakness in non-ferrous metal prices was indeed paradoxical. Both copper and zinc prices were lower. Copper was quoted at 6¾ cents off ⅛ of a cent and both foreign and domestic buying was at a low ebb.

The railway wage announcement was regarded in several quarters as news of outstandingly bullish implications. Usually well informed quarters in Wall street looked for early steel purchases by the carriers in substantial volume. Estimates as to the amount of orders likely to be placed in the next fortnight varied widely, but around 250,000 tons was regarded as probable.

1931 CIGARET OUTPUT OFF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Cigaret output in the year 1931 totaled 112,440,048,657 against 119,624,909,917 in 1930, the internal revenue figures show. Small cigar production amounted to 337,173,347, against 382,340,232 in 1930. Output of large cigars was 5,718,892,628, compared with 5,889,132,434 in 1930 while smoking tobacco amounted to 327,995,697 pounds against 328,765,163 pounds, and snuff output, 39,543,096 pounds, compared with 40,112,663.

Deforest May Get Jenkins Television

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A plan to consolidate the Deforest Radio Company and the Jenkins Television Corporation into one firm has been submitted to stockholders for their approval, Leslie S. Gordon, president of both concerns, has announced.

Under the proposal, Gordon said, an inter-company indebtedness owed by the television company would be canceled and the firm dissolved.

Deforest now owns 638,967 of the Jenkins company's 952,000 shares of stock, he explained, and the plan calls for absorption of the rest of Jenkins stock on the basis of one share of Deforest for each two shares of Jenkins.

Harbison-Walker Earned 76c Share

J. E. Lewis, president, today announced that the net earnings of Harbison-Walker Refractories Company for the year 1931, after the usual charges for depreciation, depletion and federal taxes, were $1,284,344, equivalent after preferred dividends to 76 cents per share on the 1,440,000 common shares outstanding. In 1930 net earnings were $3,811,556, or $2.52 a share.

Municipal Issues Total $12,261,882

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Municipal financing scheduled for this week by 42 communities aggregates $12,261,882, compared with $14,729,916 in the previous week, according to the Daily Bond Buyer. The only two major sized pieces of financing booked for the week are $5,500,000 Jersey City (N. J.) tax revenue notes, and $3,000,000 Los Angeles (Cal.) waterworks bonds.

Texas Cotton Curb Scored by Judge

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 1.—Judge W. C. Dais, of District Court at Franklin, Tex., has declared unconstitutional the cotton acreage curtailment law, which was passed by the last session of the Legislature.

No notice of appeal to the State Appellate Court was given and it is regarded as doubtful whether this will be done.

Forbes

Resistance Is Shown Despite Adverse News

By B. C. FORBES

DESPITE DISTURBING NEWS, commodity prices, security prices, industry, trade, employment showed encouraging resistance.

Mr. Forbes

While convincing evidence that business improvement has set in is still lacking, it is something that the general downtrend so pronounced during the greater part of last year has lately been distinctly less pronounced.

This being so in face of a series of unfavorable happenings abroad and at home, it is logical to reason that a succession of good news might be reflected by rather substantial betterment.

THE UNFAVORABLE strongly outweighed the favorable last week. For example:

The unexpected hitch in reaching a railroad wage settlement caused keen disappointment—even though the financial world did not lose its belief that an amicable adjustment will be achieved.

The Steel Corporation's very bad earnings statement, its halving of the common stock dividend; its plain intimation that no further payments will be made unless business improves, together with the passing of the Bethlehem Steel common dividend and publication of various poor financial reports, naturally had no cheering influence.

The financial world was shocked when it read the Glass bank bill, which it calls an utterly indefensible attack upon our whole credit system.

Heavy gold exports, though regarded as desirable from a long range view, don't tend to cause enthusiasm in the security markets.

From the stock market's habit of declining under pressure early in the day and partly recovering before the close, it is deduced that short selling by professional operators is still a restraining factor.

FAVORABLE DEVELOPMENTS include:

Growing hopefulness in the highest circles that the world will find a way to cope with and gradually overcome its admittedly grave and momentous harassments.

An inclination to believe that the relative steadiness maintained lately in commodities, securities, industry and employment justifies the assumption that the worst may be over and that irregular improvement, even though slow and modest, may be witnessed.

The readiness exhibited by Congress, especially the House, to co-operate in expediting constructive legislation.

The paving of the way for the immediate inauguration of buttressing operations by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The assurance that income tax legislation will not be made retroactive—a matter which was seriously bothering influential, wealthy individuals.

The notable absence of widespread public selling of securities during periods of weakness engineered by bears.

JANUARY CLOSES without having brought a clean-cut trend one way or the other. Both sentiment and quotations are better at the close than they were early in the month. But it cannot be claimed that there has yet come indisputable quickening of the business pace. Spending is still rigidly restricted by individuals and by nearly all business concerns. The splendid effort made by the automobile industry to lead the country out of the doldrums is being affected somewhat by Ford's continued delay in proclaiming his plans and getting into production.

MEANWHILE, most bonds and stocks remain on the bargain counter for those who can buy them outright and hold on to them until the inevitable recovery is vigorously under way.

USUAL EXTRA ON JERSEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable March 15 to record of February 15.

The Socony-Vacuum Corporation declared a dividend of 25 cents a share, payable March 15 to record of February 19. Following the merger of Standard Oil Company of New York and Vacuum Oil Company into Socony-Vacuum Corporation, the latter paid an initial dividend of 40 cents on September 15, 1931, and 25 cents on December 15.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable March 15 to record of February 15.

Pittsburgh Firm Orders 12 Barges

The Campbell Transportation Company of Pittsburgh has placed a contract with the Marietta Manufacturing Company, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., for a fleet of 12 steel covered cargo barges for the Ohio River trade. The order involves about 2,000 tons of steel, and the barges will cost approximately $210,000. It is understood the steel required for the work will be placed with Pittsburgh makers.

WABASH DEFERS INTEREST

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Receivers for the Wabash Railway Company announced today that February 1 interest on the road's equipment trust certificates, dated August 1, 1922, and February 1, 1929, will be deferred. The following statement was issued by the receivers:

"In view of the immediate cash position of the receivers and the application now pending with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the receivers will defer payment of interest due today on equipment trust certificates dated August 1, 1922; also interest and an installment of principal on equipment trust certificates, Series 'H,' dated February 1, 1929.

"No provision has been made by the receivers for the payment of interest due today on Wabash Railway refunding and general mortgage bonds, Series 'B,' due August 1, 1976."

THE BEAST OF THE CITY

A Story of Fatal Beauty That Lurks In All Big City Jungles

By JACK LAIT

Belmonte Summons Gunmen When He Learns of Jim's Intentions

(Adapted from the original motion picture story of W. R. Burnett with screen play by John L. Mahin; produced by Cosmopolitan Productions and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.)

CHAPTER XXII

"Callahan, you take Zone Number Three," Jim bit off his words. "They're peddlin' junk on Canfield street like they're peddlin' peanuts on South. An' there's two joints on Hudson that I specially want to get. Clean 'em up—break everythin' in sight and bring in all the managers and waiters."

His pointer moved over to another portion of the map. "Sullivan will handle Zone Number Two. And listen, Tim," he turned and pointed his stick at a large, red-faced captain. "Co-operate with Stetson in that precinct all you can, but if you come to a deadlock, you've got the final say. I want every honky-tonk on Barker Street sealed tight. Never mind haulin' in the high-school kids—give 'em a kick in the pants an' send 'em home."

The pointer moved to another part of the large map.

"O'Rourke and Schaeffer will operate together in this section. There's an apartment house in Circle Square where they're cookin' alky in every flat. When you smash those stills—smash 'em for good, see? Get every bit of evidence, if you have to tear down the walls."

The stick moved again.

"Watkins you take this North Side Section. There's a gamblin' joint wide open out there, laid out in its own little park, just above DuBois street. Let the suckers go, but get the guy that runs it and wreck every gamblin' gimcrack in the place. There's booze there, too, and some high-class janes. Haul the gals in."

Jim laid down his stick. He turned around and faced the policemen again.

"This Fifth district is Belmonte's strongest district. I'll take that myself. There's about fifty joints there—junkie an' liquor warehouses, gamblin' dens, speaks an' houses. I'll pick my own squad with Tom, here. Every precinct captain has been notified to co-operate with you men. Every reserve has been turned out. I'm not so keen about any shootin', but if it's necessary—go to it. Use the nightstick plenty an' bring in these birds—and don't forget the evidence. That's all."

There was a buzz of voices as Jim stepped down off the platform. Tom followed him upstairs to his office.

"We pull out at 10 o'clock sharp, Tom—get the men together." Jim said succinctly. He pounded the desk with his fist. "This probably will mean my job, but I'm the boss now. I haven't said a word to the mayor and I'm going through with this clean-up on my own hook. And I'm not goin' to let up till I smash that mob!"

"Are you going to bring in Belmonte?" asked Tom.

"I certainly am and I'm goin' to pinch that shyster of his on suspicion—I'm takin' no chances on him being sprung so quick this time."

"Well, it's going to create a big noise, is all I can say—but I'm with you," said Tom, bracing his huge shoulders.

"Tom," said Jim, in a weaker voice sinking back in his chair, "look what this bird Belmonte has done to me. He's made a fool of me. He's killed my best friend—he's ruined my brother—he——"

"Never mind, Jim—we'll get him yet," consoled Tom.

Jim straightened up.

"Yes, we'll get him—but what'll we do with him?" he asked in a futile tone. "We'll drag him and the rest of his city's mob in, but what'll the judges do? What can the newspapers do? What the hell's the use of havin' a police department—to look for stray dogs an' hotfoot panhandlers? Eighteen thousand coppers on the payroll, an' yet they won't let us do what they say we should do."

He heaved his shoulders and sighed.

"I guess after all the best way is to take things easy—to let these guys go on their way. Who pays the money for them to run? The same damned public that pays us not to let them run. I suppose we should sit back and take our little bit of the graft—play the game both ways——"

His faced flushed again.

"But I'll be damned if I will! I've been made chief of police and my duties are in black and white and I'll execute them in red and blue. It'll cost me my job, Tom, but I'll do it!"

* * *

Guiseppe Belmonte was not a man to be easily frightened. He played for big stakes with big dough, and he got big returns. His interests were so manifold that he had to sit back and pull the strings of his various marionettes like the entrepreneur of a puppet show. But his shows were so many that if a few strings broke it meant nothing to Belmonte.

The tip-off on Fightin' Jim's proposed raids came to him from a hundred different sources—hours before. He merely ordered his car, drove to one of his numerous hideaways and summoned Michaels. And he summoned, too, the two sleek, dapper, bedecked killers who were on his payroll for one hundred smackers a week, but who could have been persuaded to work for coffee and cakes had Belmonte ordained. Because he knew their lives and records pretty thoroughly.

Michaels was the first to arrive. When he came in, after passing through devious steel-coated drop doors, he found the Big Boy busy at three private telephones, a salt-water stogie and a bottle of chianti, all at once. Michaels made himself at home and sat down, his briefcase and hat on his lap as usual. Finally, Belmonte turned his huge bulk toward him and grinned.

Jim faced the policemen again as he gave the final orders.

"Fightin' Jim's on a stampede tonight," he said easily. "He's goin' to clean up the burg—an' that means me. He's out for you, too, and I thought it safer that you be right here. What did you find out about that Cholo bump-off?"

"Well, what can he do with me?" mused the attorney, fidgeting in his chair. Then he straightened up. "The Cholo business? It looks like Ed Fitzpatrick to me. I can't prove it. But if we could we could put the clamps on Fightin' Jim right away——"

"Oh, I don't know," commented Belmonte, knocking some gray cigar ash on the floor with a little finger, upon which glistened a huge diamond. "Not from the way he treated him before. It looks like he's washed up with him—and I think he'd be glad to get a hot-squat rap like this on him."

There was a knock on the door—three and then one. Belmonte beamed.

"That's them—we'll see," he said enigmatically. Michaels said nothing. "Come in!" shouted Belmonte. The door opened and in strolled the two sleek young men, derbies in hand, looking for all the part members of a vaudeville team about to make their bow before the footlights. They walked up toward the Big Boy, in perfect step, and stopped 10 feet away as though by a prearranged signal.

"I've got one big-time job for you," nodded Belmonte. The faces of the two were as inscrutable as Chinese masks. "Gotta be done tomorrow. Now here's the lay-out——"

And he helped himself to a drink of chianti before he began. And his big, greasy face beamed with a diabolical glee as he began:

"That Jim Fitzpatrick—he's out to get me an' to break me . . . Well——"

BEGINS NEXT THURSDAY IN THE SUN-TELEGRAPH

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

HERE'S another Hollywood story that was unfolded to me the other night by a gentleman who vouches for its absolute truth. It concerns, of course, a high-powered executive in one of the nation's most celebrated picture outfits. You have seen his name associated with practically every film that leaves his studio and he therefore remains a big man. Until the bankers get him.

At any rate, the executive went into conference with himself one morning and came to the conclusion that more and better Spanish versions of that company's productions were sorely needed. He had his fifteenth assistant secretary inquire about the best man in Spain who would be qualified to supervise the entire Spanish outfit. In due time the secretary returned with a name.

The executive wasted no time. He immediately cabled an offer to the man in question and told him to get in touch with the company's office in Madrid. He then sent a copy of the cable to the Madrid office, turned to some other work and promptly forgot about the entire thing.

About a month later, a Spaniard walked into the executive's office and sent in his card. He was immediately told to return the following day. The same thing was repeated on several successive days, and the Spaniard finally squawked.

"Perhaps Mr. F.—— does not remember my name," he told the young lady at the desk. "He cabled me to come over as the Spanish supervisor of the studio. I signed a contract on the other side and I am now here and ready for work."

"Would you do me the extreme pleasure of telling him what I have just told you? I do not mind waiting for such an important gentleman, but I fear that he does not quite understand who I am."

The young lady went inside. Five minutes later she returned. "Mr. F.—— says to tell you that he remembers you very well," she reported, "and that he regrets being tied up in so many conferences. He will be having conferences, however, for at least another five days. Please come back next week."

To make a short story a little longer, it was almost two weeks before the Spaniard was finally ushered into the executive's office. The latter gentleman gave him the typical greeting.

"How are you, sir?" he cried affably. "How are you? Welcome to the glorious city of Hollywood, and I want to tell you that we all hope you'll be very happy here. Sit right down, sir. That's fine.

"Now, let me see. Before I tell you your duties, I would like to be a little more familiar with your work. Suppose you tell me something about yourself."

The Spaniard proved to be a very cultured gentleman. He told of graduating from one of the best of the Spanish universities, and said he had traveled a great deal to broaden his education. He named numerous Spanish films upon which he had worked, and he proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that he knew a great deal about the business of the films.

When he was through the executive nodded happily.

"That's fine," he announced, rubbing his hands. "Great. You're going to be an excellent kid to us around here. I have definite plans for you in connection with supervising and directing our Spanish versions, but I must have a few days to think the matter over. If you'll come in to see me next Thursday I will have a definite schedule laid out for you."

The Spaniard arose and thanked the executive most graciously. He was walking toward the door when the magnate suddenly looked up.

"Oh, by the way," was the executive's afterthought, "I forgot to ask you something. Can you speak Spanish?" . . .

* * *

IT MAY BE an old racket, but it has been revived with a great deal of success in the Times Square district of recent days. And it's as pretty a gag as you would want to hear or see.

During a rush hour a man enters a restaurant that caters to the average trade. A woman comes in shortly after and sits several tables away from the man. The man orders a meal that comes to slightly over a dollar. The woman eats sparingly.

When sufficient time has elapsed the man arises, takes his check, walks to the cashier's desk and slaps down a $20 bill. He gets his change and saunters from the restaurant.

A few seconds later, or as soon as there are several customers in line to pay their checks, the woman also gets up. She pays her small check with a dollar bill, receives her change, and walks away. Suddenly she turns to the cashier.

"I beg your pardon," she says, "I gave you a $20 bill. You have forgotten to give me my change."

The cashier looks puzzled. The place is busy. The other customers are eager to pay their checks and get out.

"You're mistaken, madam," he generally asserts, "you gave me a dollar bill. If you'll just look in your pocketbook——"

The woman grows excited.

"That's what I've just done," she cries as she waves her bag, "and it's exactly as I say. I had a $20 bill in here and that was all. Now its gone. You give me my money."

By this time the cashier is slightly daffy.

"But, madam," he begins again, "I tell you——"

She hops right in.

"There can't be any argument about it," she interrupts, "because I had my girl friend's telephone number on it. It's Regent 4-2977, or something like that. Look at your twenties and see if I'm not right."

The $20 bill on top, of course, has that very number scribbled on it. For the simple reason that the bill came from the man who had just left and who was the woman's accomplice. The cashier has no choice. The woman has a clear case. She is paid—and leaves.

Not bad . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS Junior Komic Club

The first bright Saturday for many weeks brought great crowds of children to the 17 chapter meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club. New members swarmed around the box offices for application blanks and every one was in high spirits.

The Harris Theater, Etna, was crowded with bright, happy youngsters. Little Hugo Puntureri, grand jester, opened the meeting. Under the leadership of Manager Morty Henderson, the entire membership sang "America."

The grand jester then made a speech in which he told of having been taken to the Stanley Theater, where he met the grand jesters of the other chapters.

The stage program consisted of dance numbers by Mary Black and Geraldine Nernberger, pupils of the M. Barth Studio of Dancing.

KENYON MEETING

There was a good stage show at the Kenyon Chapter meeting. Members contributing to the program were Marion Clark, Grand Jester, Unity McCoy, Irene Friedman, Ethel Hall, Lois Brennan and Hazel Fritch.

After the "Star Spangled Banner" and reading of the club pledge, the Arsenal Chapter swung into a peppy program staged entirely by members of the club. Songs and dances were offered by Blanche Covalesli, Josephine Barron, Jeanne Lezmick, Rose Hill, Laura Jacobs, Mickey Sipple, Veronica Walsh, Josephine Lang, Grace Moffatt, Koontz & Walsh, Bernardine Gressler, Betty and Lois Richards, Rose Quinn, Betty Gilfillan and Marion Sachs.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

The Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club extends greetings to the following members, who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

Rowland: Edith Porter.

Enright: Eleanor Staley.

South Hills: Jane Ludwig, Bill Kane, Jesse Cullison, Josephine Hund, Robert Lindsay, Billy Walker, Billy Zulauf.

Belmar: Mary Jane Young, Charles Conner.

Manor: Betty Pearlman, Gloria Keller.

Davis: Martin Green, Clyde Byron, Dan Byron.

Plaza: Albert Ott.

Arsenal: Ester Burkhart, Jack Paas.

Memorial (McKeesport): Raymund Massung, John Butala.

Grand (Greensburg): Joseph Sukay.

Prince (Ambridge): Mary Macurac, Henry Lewandowski, Albert Smith.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

In summer you may be active in an athletic way because you enjoy some certain line of sports but in winter you give up physical exercise out of doors.

You gain in weight and become less energetic in the cold weather.

Before the winter is half over you don't feel right, your digestion is poor, you have headaches and frequent colds.

In fact you catch cold easily and are ill a long time with it.

You seek to avoid every thing that requires physical effort and want to hibernate and yet you can't seem to concentrate your mind to the point of beneficial study.

Lazy and out of sorts, you avoid the crisp cold air all you can.

How can you be so short-sighted?

Force yourself to walk in the open air more than in past winters.

Leave the car at home and walk to work.

If you must ride to your job get out and walk after dinner at night.

Do some exercises before breakfast before an open window.

Do something to get fresh air in your lungs and purify your blood.

Inaction clogs your system and makes you an easy victim of colds.

Exercising outdoors only in summer is a poor plan to follow.

Talbot Act Arguments

Some Nice Questions of Law Are Involved in the Debate On the Legality of the Measure.

Apart from the immediate practical importance of the test now being made in the Dauphin County Court of the legality of the Talbot act, the case is interesting because of the far-reaching consequences likely to follow a decision upholding its constitutionality.

The Talbot act is the measure passed by the Legislature at its recent special session, appropriating $10,000,000 for the relief of the unemployed. If its validity is sustained, Allegheny County will receive $1,600,000 from the state, to be distributed by the Poor Board.

In attacking the act Attorney General William A. Schnader contended, among other things, that it violates that section of the constitution which forbids the granting of appropriations for charitable purposes to any community.

The attorneys defending the Talbot act—Gifford K. Wright, of Pittsburgh; George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, and R. Lawrence Coughlin, of Wilkes-Barre—argued against a narrow-minded interpretation of the constitution and declared the Legislature had the right to make the appropriation in exercise of the state's police power in a grave emergency. The constitution says the exercise of the police power of the state shall never be abridged.

Here is a nice question of law that is of interest to the public as well as to the lawyers. The court's decision will be worth reading.

Lopsided Teaching

In Many of the Public Schools Not Enough Attention Is Given to Civics.

According to A. Leo Weil, president of the Pittsburgh Committee for Education in Citizenship, a study of the curriculum of the public schools of the country has disclosed that five times as many hours are given to music as to civics. Nature study and art also take precedence, he says, in respect to the time devoted to them, over training for citizenship. In fact civics, according to this well-known Pittsburgh attorney, is given less hours than any other subject.

To all who are concerned over good government—and everyone should be—Mr. Weil's statement will be disturbing. It is to be hoped it will disturb our educational and civic leaders and that they will do something about it.

There is satisfaction in the thought that a Pittsburgh organization has taken the lead in the movement to correct this undesirable situation. The Committee for Education in Citizenship has undertaken a work of the first importance. If good citizenship is taught in the schools, the next generation of citizens may be free from the evils with which our civic government is now beset.

Human Hyenas

Racketeers Who Prey On the Unemployed Are Entitled To No Mercy.

There is apparently nothing too base for certain criminals to attempt. Dr. A. M. Northrup, Secretary of Labor and Industry, reports that racketeers recently have been preying on the unemployed in Pittsburgh. The racket is to offer the jobless persons positions, but to demand a "cash bond" as evidence of good faith on the part of the applicant.

These racketeers resemble nothing else so much as hyenas, those cowardly skulking beasts which prey on the weak and defenseless. Human hyenas who under false pretense take their few last dollars away from the unemployed should be prosecuted relentlessly and on conviction sentenced to the limit.

It is well to know that employment agencies are not permitted to charge fees unless licensed and bonded, and that the state employment offices ask no charge for placing applicants.

What Are the Figures?

Pay Slashes Don't Give Them.

Without any figures showing accurately the saving which would result, the "big push" for reduction of federal salaries continues.

None of the sponsors of slashing bills is able to step up and say what his measure would save the government.

Generalizations and offhand estimates are made, it is true. Senator Borah says his bill would "save the taxpayers" about $200,000,000. Representative Wood, more modestly, looks for a saving of $100,000,000 through his efforts.

Why don't these gentlemen get some actual, definite figures?

The reason may be that the desire to reduce the government employes' salaries is not because of the cut in government expenses which would result, but because some members of Congress find this an easy way to tell the folks back home:

"We are doing everything possible to save you from paying additional taxes. Why, look at the way we slashed government salaries. We even tried to cut our own and that of the President, but it couldn't be done under the law."

But if Congress should go back home and tell the people that they slashed salaries, it is certain that there are some things that won't be told.

The people won't be reminded that the cut in salaries reduced the buying power of customers.

They won't be told that it subjected thousands of families to suffering and hardship.

They won't be told that the entire government service has been harmed by a blow at the living standards and consequently the morale of federal workers.

They won't be told that Congressmen, by this act, directly invited private industry to slash the salaries of their constituents.

Representative Wood tells of President Hoover's contributions to charities and declares that they constitute a reduction in his salary.

Mr. Wood should remember that every government employe, down to the humblest, has given just as much proportionately as President Hoover, possibly more.

"Is it really better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all?" writes W. M. B. "Lots of people say it is . . . but I wonder if they know what it means to get out of the habit of being loved."

* * *

Is it better to have gone to a glorious party—or to have stayed at home and escaped the headache?

* * *

Is it better to have enjoyed a delectable dinner, and paid the price—or to have lived all your life on rye bread and spinach, without knowing what you were missing?

Is it better to have been to Europe and fed your soul on "the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome"—on all the beauties of Venice and the Riviera and the galleries and palaces—or to have stayed at home and seen nothing more dazzling than a filling station or a Ten-Cent Store? And been content?

* * *

Is it better to have had a glamorous youth even though you must grow old some day—or to have spent your youth laboring to support your Old Age, rather than in laughter and love-making?

* * *

Is it better to have had your cake and eaten it—or to have left it on the pantry shelf until it got moldy and crumbled away?

* * *

I'll SAY, it's better to have loved and lost—or even to have loved and married—than never to have loved at all.

* * *

Everything worth while in this world has both its price and its headache—or its heartache. And the price of love, whether you lose it or keep it, is always EXTORTIONATE. But, if it was real LOVE—glamorous, joyous, wholehearted young love—you've "had your cake." And it's worth any price you have to pay for it—even the headaches.

The men and women I pity most in this life are those timid, gray souls, who have never loved or lost, never thrilled or suffered, who have lived and died without a touch of glamour or ecstasy in their lives. Those timid souls who were afraid to love, for fear they might be disappointed or hurt.

* * *

Oh love is a headache, all right, whether you win or lose it! And there are lots of ways in which love may be "lost" without losing the lover. You may sometimes lose it by marrying him.

* * *

If you are afraid of being disappointed in love, then perhaps the safest course, as the Cynic suggested, is to "take it as you would a good dinner. Enjoy it while it lasts, forget it when it's over—and pay the bill with a smile!"

Journeys may end in lovers parting—but wasn't the scenery GRAND?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Betimes and a beautifully touching letter from the mother of Ralph Barton. And so by coach to the Courtney Ryley Coopers to see their new Boston, Mr. Michael O'Toole, then to Leon Gordon's studio and we talked of art, letters and creme de cocoa.

Home and a letter from John Erskine to write a piece for his new literary journal. And William Seaman stopped by and answered my recent query as to the name of a kummel-like white drink flecked with gold by presenting a flagon of Danzinger goldwasser. So loafing with George Buckley.

In the evening to Arch Selwyn's play, brought from London, and fell mightily in love with Diane Wynyard. And talked to Grace Tibbetts awhile. Later to a dance of theatrical folk and spoke to the Edward G. Robinsons, Estelle Taylor, Marshall Nielan, Edmund Carewe and Louise Groody. To bed late.

There are lusty tales of the talented, highly exploited and married stage couple who work in double harness professionally. The association is devoid of usual irritations. Regarded by most critics as the most capable of the two, the wife bemeans her own acting and thus feeds the insatiable vanity of her egotistical husband. It is always he who is triumphant. In the wings after scenes she will exclaim: "How magnificent you were and how terribly I bungled things!" He comforts and otherwise laughs off her feigned fears. A superb actress on and off. And he's an equally superb ham.

New York's leisure class is asking relief from charity requests. They are mostly widows who find that what were once comfortable incomes are notices of passed dividends and defaulting bonds. There is much to be said in their behalf. In the past few weeks I have been reliably told of four such victims whose incomes four years ago were more than $15,000 a year, but who now receive less than $3,000.

Personal nomination for the most expertly trained pompadour in all the town—that of Bert Lytell.

A New York scientist declares freckles symbolize the mottled confusion of genius. He points to O. Henry, speckled from head to toe, at one extreme and fighting Bob Fitzsimmons at the other. He further points out freckles are rarely found on the physical or mental weakling.

* * *

The most freckled individual I ever saw was a scamp of a porter hustling tourist baggage at the port of Havre. His hair was fiery red, his shoulders enormously wide and his freckles were dollar sized and coppery. Dudley Field Malone, disembarking at the same time, motioned to him and cried: "Hey, Spotty!"

The Waldorf boasts the largest Persian rug in the world in its main lobby. It was completed in 10 months and 30 weavers devoted their entire time to the making. Among the intricacies are 12,600,000 hand tied knots. I am told that weavers who devote long periods to such work become sentimentally attached to their handiwork. There is weeping and wailing when the finished product is baled and shipped off to some foreign shore. Imagine falling in love with a rug.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You were born naked.

Before you can go safely or decently through life, you must put clothes on yourself.

But that does not merely mean buying dresses, suits, shoes and hats at some shop. Those things will cover the body, but you must acquire something much more important than a covering for your body . . . YOU MUST ACQUIRE A COVERING FOR YOUR SPIRIT.

Your spirit was as naked as your body when you were born and it continued to be naked long after your mother dressed you. She could easily put a covering upon your body but it was not possible for her to put a covering on your mind. And so your young mind remained a naked savage . . . revealing itself openly . . . bared to every experience, good or evil, that might come its way.

You thought out loud. You felt out loud. And you felt everything. You lived in the raw. You did not try to cover your thoughts or protect your feelings. And, so, the older you grew, and the more you felt and thought, the more difficult life became.

Remember when you were about 13? People told you that you were going through "the happiest days of your life." You thought they were liars. And they were! For those 13-year-old days were happy only in spots. Much of the time they filled with gloom and fear and resentment. Things frightened you, confused you, hurt you terribly. You felt that everyone was "picking on you" or laughing at you. For you were still living in the raw . . . you still had acquired no covering for your feelings. And so every experience, great or small, rubbed against your naked spirit—chafed and irritated you.

Then gradually you began to acquire a covering for yourself. You began to see that you were not the only person on earth . . . began to forget yourself, once in a while. And when you forgot yourself, you discovered that there were other people around you . . . and that other people had things happening to them too . . . things which seemed quite as important to them as your experiences seemed to you. When you realized that, your own experiences no longer seemed too important, or so terrifying. For if others could survive . . . if others could manage to be happy and brave and strong and calm in the midst of this hullabaloo, so could you.

And so you acquired a covering for your naked egotism . . . a protection of understanding, sympathy, tolerance, philosophy. And your individual life no longer was so TRAGICALLY PERSONAL. It became part of a vast, impersonal performance in which others were involved as much as you.

And now you're not naked. Now you have a decently clothed human spirit—

OR HAVE YOU?

That's the way life should have gone with you—but perhaps it hasn't. Perhaps you're still taking life on the raw, though you have lived for 30 or 40 or 60 years. Many people do. Many people never acquire a covering for their spirits. Some never learn that they can acquire a covering. Some don't want a covering. They pride themselves on "being sensitive." They insist upon taking things personally. And so they make misery for themselves and are a nuisance to everyone who knows them.

COVER UP!

COVER UP, FOR YOUR OWN COMFORT AND THE CONVENIENCE OF OTHERS.

Stop being an emotional nudist. You wouldn't walk down Main street without any covering on your body, would you? And if you tried it, the police would speedily tell you where to head in. Then cover your spirit as well as your body.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. What great Frenchman was present at the laying of the cornerstone of Bunker Hill monument?
2. When was our first World's Fair?
3. What event brought America for the first time into friendly relations with the Far East??
4. What republic had a "lone star" flag?
5. Of what does the Legislative Department of the United States government consist?
6. When did Hawaii become part of United States?
7. For how long was Washington President?
8. What is wrong with the expression, "the above address?"
9. In what novel does Sancho Panza occur?
10. What was Venus called by the Greeks?

Match correctly:

11. Jefferson	twenty-sixth President.
12. Roosevelt	sixteenth President.
13. Ulysses Grant	third President.
14. Abraham Lincoln	twenty-seventh President.
15. William Taft	eighteenth President.

Answers to today's test:

1. Lafayette. 2. 1853, Crystal Palace, New York. 3. Commodore Perry; a visit to Japan, 1854. 4. Texas. 5. House of Representatives and Senate. 6. 1898. 7. Two terms, 1789, 1797. 8. Above is an adverb not an adjective. Say, "The address given above." 9. "Don Quixote," by Cervantes. 10. Aphrodite. 11. Third President. 12. Twenty-sixth President. 13. Eighteenth President. 14. Sixteenth President. 15. Twenty-seventh President.

Glass Proceeds to End Racketeering in Banks

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

UNDER the test of depression, banking, as at present organized in the United States, has proved a vast disappointment to the American people.

Public confidence, which is the cement which binds together an effective financial system, has been disturbed by an inordinate number of bank suspensions in this country, while there have been NOT A SINGLE BANK CLOSING IN EITHER CANADA OR GREAT BRITAIN, WHERE ECONOMIC CONDITIONS HAVE BEEN FAR MORE UNFAVORABLE.

The inadequacy of the existing banking system is in part measured in the SUSPENSION DURING 1931 OF 2,290 BANKS, with total assets of $1,759,484,000. In the ten and a half-year period, ending June 30, last, there were 6,672 BANK FAILURES IN THE UNITED STATES, according to the comptroller of the currency.

The time has passed for alibis; the emergency calls for thorough-going revision of the banking laws.

SUCCESSFUL banking rests on faith, and confidence must be restored through adoption of better, safer banking methods.

In standing by and permitting unsound banking, THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM ITSELF HAS FAILED TO ACHIEVE THE OBJECTIVES FOR WHICH IT WAS ESTABLISHED.

Many bankers have operated in direct defiance of the banking laws, and others have engaged clever lawyers to find legal loopholes, which enabled them to ignore the spirit of the banking law.

Certain banks created a vast superstructure of holding companies and affiliate corporations, which had the net effect of making it legally safe to evade the rules and regulations of the banking law.

Such affiliates were in some instances used to hide resources and earnings of banks, and in others as a dumping ground for slow and questionable assets.

Others adopted the trick of the holding company as a device for nullifying the law making holders of bank stocks liable in case of failure to an assessment equal to the par value of their shares.

This rule, intended to safeguard depositors, was vitiated by the placing of control of bank shares in holding companies, without other assets which would enable them to meet such assessments.

THE high hopes for better banking, which were stirred up in the breasts of the American people in 1913 when the Federal Reserve act was adopted, have been dashed to the ground.

Accordingly, the public officers owe the people an accounting.

Even the solvent member banks have in many instances failed to do their duty because of excessive conservatism and fear. The depression has been deepened by timid bankers who were overcautious with their own customers while being reckless in advancing foreign credits.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, former Secretary of the Treasury and co-author of the Federal Reserve act, after prolonged public hearings on the maladies of banking before a Senate subcommittee, has introduced in the upper House a bill intended to close the leaks in the banking system.

In the author's words, the bill is intended "to provide for the safer and more effective use of the assets of Federal Reserve banks and of national banking associations, to regulate interbank control, to prevent the undue diversion of funds into speculative operations, and for other purposes."

THE monumental bill in reality entails a codification of the federal banking law, and its prompt adoption by Congress would do more than anything else to restore confidence in banks, and inspire the return flow of hoarded currency, whose absence from the banks has been aggravating hard times.

Though some conservative bankers will consider certain provisions harsh, the main criticism of the bill is that IT LACKS EMPHASIS ON CRIMINAL PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION OF THE LAW.

If, as in England and Canada, there was a tradition of putting bankers, lacking in respect for law, behind prison bars, there would be infinitely less skullduggery performed under the guise of respectable banking.

The Glass bill should be considered in Congress in the light of a studied attempt to close the avenues to subtle fraud, deception and dissipation of banking assets.

Guided by expert advice, the Senator from Virginia has skillfully attempted to revamp the banking system to keep it socially useful and economically sound.

IT is designed to turn the banks from speculative exploits back to safe and sound commercial banking, which entails making short term loans to trade, industry and agriculture.

Mr. Glass' proposal to bring holding companies and affiliates under the scrutiny of public officers will be widely applauded, as will the provision to end the reign of secrecy on the part of the affiliates. Such companies will be required to issue periodical financial reports, as the banks now do.

The Glass measure is intended to prevent a recurrence of outlaw lending to brokers by industrial corporations, which in 1928 and 1929 in their hunger for profit deliberately thwarted the attempt of the banking authorities to put the brakes on stock speculation.

Though many of the Glass recommendations are aimed at preventing racketeering in the realm of banking, some are intended to liberalize the rules in periods of emergency, like the present.

The Glass bill wisely limits concessions to emergency situations.

IT provides that groups of member banks may make collective loans from the Federal Reserve banks, outside of the existing arrangements for rediscounts and advances. Such emergency loans may be secured by "such collateral security as may be agreed upon."

This swings the doors of the Federal Reserve wide open in time of stress.

In regard to the secret rapprochements between the Federal Reserve and foreign central banks, Senator Glass proposes a stinging rebuke.

He suggests that hereafter no employe of a Federal Reserve bank enter into discussions with a representative of any foreign bank without permission of the Federal Reserve Board, to which a full report of the discussions should be sent.

This is intended to stop the extra legal, super governmental secret conclaves among central bankers, and to substitute an orderly legal procedure for the transaction of proper international financing operations.

The Glass amendments, in summary, are geared up to curb ruthless buccaneers in banking, and to strengthen the hands of scientific bankers.

They should reawaken the American consciousness to the fact that banking should be a trust, NOT A VEHICLE FOR UNSCRUPULOUS FINANCIAL ADVENTURES.

Congress should lose no time in translating the Glass proposals into the fundamental banking law of the land.

ISN'T IT SO?

Every man's conscience is just a little different from every other man's.

It is too bad that hot air is often mistaken for something else.

A popular man is one who can make others believe they understand him.

Sometimes it is the woman with the past who worries the least about the future.
